Vast Manhunt Launched For Slayer of Schuster; Was Tipster on Sutton

Restrain Slain Tipster's Father

Neighbors restrain Max Schuster from leaving his home at 941 45th street, Brooklyn, N. Y., the night of March 8. He is the father of 24-year-old Arnold Schuster, salesman, who led police to the arrest of Willie "The Actor" Sutton, the nation's most wanted bank robber. Arnold was found shot to death in a lot on 45th street near 9th avenue, in Brooklyn.

Dead Man Had Received 11 Notes After Putting Finger on Sutton

New York, March 10 (AP)—Police pushed a vast manhunt today for the killer of Arnold Schuster, the man who caused bank robber Willie Sutton's arrest.

Two major questions puzzled investigators:

Was the slayer an underworld figure, who killed the 24-year-old Schuster to avenge the arrest of Sutton?

Or was he a crank, with a twisted mind hating informers and police in general?

Some 150 detectives picked up scores of ex-convicts for questioning and pushed through the city hunting clues.

The number one man sought was a convicted murderer and prison fugitive, Frederick J. (The Angel) Tenuto, an old pal of Sutton. They broke aut of a Pennsylvania prison together in 1947.

Tenuto, already on the FBI's 10 most wanted men list, was reported seen in New York Friday by a bartender. Police discounted the report because the description didn't tally, but they rushed thousands of pictures of him over a wide area.

Schuster pointed out Sutton, the most wanted man in America, to police just 19 days before the young clothing salesman was slain Saturday night. Schuster did not receive any reward for his detective work.

Six doors away from home, Schuster was hit by four .38 caliber bullets.

People living nearby heard the shots and running feet. When they reached Schuster, he was dead—victim of a smooth, vicious, gangland type job.

For him, it was the end of days of torture, the fear of death ever present.

Schuster Was Threatened

Police disclosed that he had received 11 threatening letters since he put the finger on Sutton. He had so many threatening phone calls that he had the number changed to an unlisted one.

Neighbors said he hadn't left the house for a week before he decided to venture out Saturday after FBI agents reassured him.

Police Commissioner George P. Monaghan said Schuster and his father, Max, had repeatedly turned down offers of a police guard for the tipster.

Police technicians were examining the letters. Some appeared to be from cranks. Others had a more genuine ring. One, recieved Saturday, accurately predicted Schuster's death that day.

7 Red Jets Shot Down, 3 Damaged

Seoul, Korea, March 10 (AP)—Seven Communist jet fighters were blasted out of the North Korean skies today, the U. S. Fifth Air Force reported. The Reds were trying to break through a screen of U. S. Sabre jets protecting UN fighter-bombers.

Three other Migs were damaged, the air force reported.

It was the biggest bag since Jan. 25, when the Sabres shot down 10 Migs in four battles.

The red-nosed Migs made three bold attempts to break through the Sabres and shoot up more than 100 fighter-bombers attacking a Communist rail line east of Sunchon in northwest Korea.

A total of about 60 Migs swept down from Manchurian bases in several groups, some numbering only a half dozen.

Allied losses, if any, were not reported under the air force policy of announcing losses weekly.

Action Near Yalu

Four Migs were sent spinning earthward in a half hour battle between 32 Sabres and 40 Migs just south of the Yalu river. Three other Migs were shot down and two were damaged when a small flight of Red fighters pounced on an allied photo reconnaissance jet being escorted by Sabres.

Ground action flared at only scattered points.

U. S. Eighth Army censors took the blanket of security off two more American divisions. The U. S. 40th (California National Guard) Division is on the central front south of Kumsong. It came to Korea recently from occupation duty in Japan. The U. S. 25th Division with an attached Turkish brigade is dug in along the spiny ridges northwest of the Punchbowl on the eastern front.

Last week Eighth Army headquarters reported the First Marine Division on the eastern front and the British Commonwealth and U. S. Third Divisions on the western end of the battle line. The 45th Division (Oklahoma National Guard) recently was shifted to the central front from occupation duty in Japan.

Contacts Are Made

Allied patrols made contact with the Reds all along the thawing battlefront Sunday, but no major clashes resulted. Most of the light fighting was on the east central front.

In the west, the Reds wrested an advance hill position from allied troops but were driven off a few minutes later in a counterattack. The action was northeast of Panmunjom, site of Korean armistice talks.

Far East Air Forces warplanes attacked gun positions, rail lines, supply dumps, tunnels and trucks in nearly 1,000 sorties.

Gen. James A. Van Fleet said the Communists have built up their armies in Korea until they outnumber the UN forces in men, weapons and planes. Van Fleet added, however, there is no indication the Reds are massing for a spring offensive.

Strong Hint Is Given of Possible Walkouts on Other Lines

Chicago, March 10 (AP)—Strikes paralyzed most of the New York Central's inland service today and snarled rail connections in the St. Louis area a second day.

A war of nerves set in, with the striking engineers, firemen and conductors defying the army, nominal operator of the rail carriers. But it was the public—shippers and travelers — who caught jitters and frustration.

Wholesale layoffs began on the Central System, completely shut down west of Buffalo. Several railroads cancelled their trains to St. Louis until further notice.

The unions were told by Karl R. Bendetsen, assistant secretary of the army, to call off the walkouts or face "appropriate action."

Question Is Raised

But a minor official of the firemen's brotherhood said today that the NYC strike might spread east to the Central's New York state service. There was a strong hint from the unions of possible walkouts on other lines, perhaps to cripple the nation's rail transportation.

Chiefs of the three big unions which struck in concert for higher wages—the Brotherhoods of Railway Conductors, Locomotive Engineers, and Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen—themselves raised the question wthout answering it.

Written instructions to strikers said the orders would apply to "every other railroad to which the strike may later be extended." Another sentence said, "If it is determined to extend the strike to other railroads, full information will be furnished * * * to * * * those in charge * * *."

At a news conference in Cleveland, the brotherhood leaders, Roy O. Hughes of the conductors, James P. Shields of the engineers, and David B. Robertson of the firemen and enginemen, declined to elaborate. They said, "We'll have to await developments."

There was also a possibility the strategy of the fight for more pay envisages selected strike targets and separate settlements, to avoid government intercession.

Army Warns Workers

But already the army, technical boss of the nation's railroads as a result of the wages and working rules impasse, had warned striking workers of the New York Central: Get back to work or face "appropriate action."

Circumstances indicated Assistant Army Secretary Karl R. Bendetsen may have meant a court injunction when he issued the

Army-Backed Revolt Gives Batista Control of Cuba

Two Men Killed, Prio Flees Palace; Leader Was President From 1933 to 1943

Havana, March 10 (AP)—Fulgencio Batista rode back to power today in an army-backed revolt, three months ahead of Cuba's scheduled presidential elections. President Carlos Prio Socarras fled from his palace, where two men were killed.

President Prio, accompanied by two army officers and possibly under arrest, left the presidential palace after announcing that Batista had seized control of Camp Columbia, the army's major military base.

Batista told a reporter:

"I was obliged to make a revolution because I had news from the most reliable sources that President Prio, faced with defeat of his candidate in the June 1 elections, was planning a phony revolution for April 15."

Two army tanks and army trucks loaded with soldiers took over the presidential palace in the center of Havana. Nearby residents said they saw white flags appear in the palace windows as the troops arrived.

Candidate This Year

A Batista supporter, Lt. Rafael Salas, took over police headquarters. He announced "I am a colonel now" and chief of police. Orders went out to seize some government automobiles.

Batista, as a Cuban "strong man," controlled Cuba for 10 years, between 1933 and 1943. He was a declared presidential candidate in the elections scheduled for June.

The announced purpose of the revolt was to suppress corruption and gangsterism, which has been blamed for 30 killings since President Prio took office in 1948. Last August a senator committed suicide to "awaken Cuba against corruption in Government." Salas said Cubans were weary of gangsterism and corruption and army forces friendly to Batista had asked him to take over.

Comparatively little violence marked Batista's bid for power, which came as a complete surprise. Two palace guards were slain by submachinegun fire from a speeding police automobile.

Prio drove away from the palace followed by a busload of soldiers and later two tanks appeared before the building.

Appearing sad and under great strain, Prio said upon his departure: "We will resist if the people of Cuba support me and the constituted government." This indicated Prio had little hope of saving the day. He said he was going to Camp Columbia, but reporters at the military post did not report his appearance there.

Batista, 51, an army sergeant who led a revolt from Camp Columbia in 1933, was at that military installation, headquarters of the Cuban army general staff.

Junior C. of C. To Be Chartered

Membership of Men Between 21 and 35; Two Purposes

A Junior Chamber of Commerce will be chartered in this city on April 16.

First public announcement of the formation of the Kingston Junior Chamber of Commerce was made today with the completion of the necessary arrangements to have the local group chartered by the national Junior Chamber of Commerce and its New York state division.

Organizational efforts of the local Jaycee group date back several months, during which period several meetings of young men were held to adopt a constitution and by-laws.

Approval by the Kingston Chamber of Commerce, a prerequisite to the chartering of the junior group, was granted by the Chamber's executive committee following consultation between a senior Chamber committee and designated officers of the Jaycees two weeks ago, according to Albert Kurdt, executive secretary of the senior Chamber.

Touch of Magic In Wicks' Name, Writer Declares

State Senate Majority Leader Arthur H. Wicks is a legislator with "political up-drag" A New York Daily News columnist stressed yesterday.

John Crosson, who writes the New York column "City Hall," led off his writings of yesterday by asking his readers to "Consider now, the weight of two names. One with political up-drag. Another that seems to exert a down-pull."

He explained: "The name that's acquiring a touch of magic, is that of Arthur Wicks, Republican majority leader in the State Senate and head of the committee that's been handling the state investigation of racing and horse betting.

"Wicks wants his probe extended a year in order to probe further the feasibility of permitting off-track betting. Gov. Dewey has pronounced such proposals as iniquitous. He said so when Bill O'Dwyer as mayor, came out for legalized, licensed and state-supervised book-making. And there's no doubt that Dewey feels just as strongly about it today.

"But wonder of wonders, a re-

Eisenhower's Political Future Seen at Stake in New Hampshire

Red Threats Will Not Force Korean Peace, Say Allies

Libby's Sharp Warning Follows Red Attacks on Treatment of Men Captured

Munsan, Korea, March 10 (AP)—Allied negotiators warned the Communists today that threats and intimidation will not force the UN command to accept Red terms for a Korean armistice.

"You cannot dictate the terms of an armistice and you cannot hope to achieve any progress in these meetings by resorting to threats and unfounded accusations," said Rear Adm. R. E. Libby.

He said UN negotiators did not propose to "sit and listen" any further to unfounded charges and repeated accusations that the allied delegation was "telling lies."

Libby emphasized later, however, that he did not threaten to break off the tightly deadlocked

Record Vote Is Expected Tuesday; Taft Is Main Opponent

Concord, N. H., March 10 (AP)—New Hampshire voters heard the closing arguments today before the nation's first presidential primary, an election that may be the turning-point in the political future of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

A record vote, stirred by the furious campaigning, is expected when the polls open Tuesday morning.

This is the first big cast in the effort of Eisenhower's supporters to make him the Republican candidate, and then to put him in the White House after the national election, next November.

His principal opponent here is Sen. Robert A. Taft, of Ohio, "Mr. Republican" to thousands of voters in all parts of the country. And this is the first test of strength—and it could be the last—between the two men who are most often mentioned as the leading contenders for the GOP nomination.

The names of Harold Stassen, former governor of Minnesota, Gen. Douglas MacArthur, and a St. Louis attorney, William R. Schneider, also are on the Republican side of the New Hampshire primary. A slate of delegates has been entered for MacArthur. Stassen and Schneider are entered only in the preferential section, "the popularity contest."

The state's registered Democrats will choose between President Truman and Sen. Estes Kefauver, the big, easy-moving man from Tennessee, who is challenging the President for the Democratic nomination.

In many ways, this has been a campaign unique in American political history.

Eisenhower, 3,000 miles away in Europe, has made no political statement during the campaign. A team of senators, congressmen, and influential New Hampshire men and women, have barnstormed the state trying to elect him in absentia.

Taft on the other hand stormed into New Hampshire last Thursday like a mid-western cyclone. He considers that he made his big drive at the critical timing point.

He swept into virtually every corner of the state, working as much as 16 hours a day, speaking, shaking hands, conferring, answering questions and posing for pictures. He made 36 speeches in three days and closed, Saturday night, before an audience that overflowed the Concord city auditorium and had people standing, three-deep, around the walls.

'Horse Race' Says Taft

Taft himself said, before he left, that he regards the election as "a horse race" between himself and Eisenhower, but that his chances of victory are improving.

A postcard poll, he said, shows him running dead-level with the

Decision Reserved Here in Another 'Rainmaking' Suit

Move Is Made to Vacate Service of Summons by City of New York in Damage Action

The City of New York, at special term before Justice Harry E. Schirick on Friday, moved to vacate service of a summons in another "rainmaking" action on the grounds the notice of service was not made individually. The motion to vacate the service was opposed by Louis Irving Gottlieb, attorney for plaintiffs, J. H. Edwin Anderson and Edwin L. Anderson, who asked that the defendant's motion for an order vacating the service of the summons be denied and asked, by way of affirmative relief, that the court find the defendant's time to answer has expired and that the defendant, the City of New York, is now in default.

Justice Schirick reserved decision in the matter and gave two weeks time for filing of additional papers.

John Redline appeared for the City of New York and Louis I. Gottlieb of 132 Nassau street, New York, appeared for plaintiffs.

Gottlieb in his argument before the court stated that the action was brought against the City of New York for property damage sustained by plaintiffs as a result of the overflow of the Esopus creek in or about November 1950, and continuing through April 7, 1951. In March 1951 notice of damage was given in writing to the comptroller of the City of

Smith Ordered Held For Grand Jury Action

Another suspect was arrested this morning by sheriff's men as a result of the investigation of a series of burglaries which they attribute to a teenage gang.

Arraigned before Justice of the Peace Percy W. Gazlay of Kerhonkson was Otis Benton Smith, 17, of that village. He waived examination and was ordered held for grand jury action on a third degree burglary charge.

Smith was arrested by County Investigator Arthur H. Brown and Deputy Sheriff Irving Gilman. His arrest brings to seven the number of suspects picked up during the investigation of a string of thefts and burglaries which extend from Samsonville in the town of Olive to the Ellenville area in the town of Wawarsing.

Smith was accused specifically on the information filed against him of the theft of a small quantity of gasoline and cases of oil from the Accord Farmers Cooperative.

Train Schedule Or Employes Not Affected in Area

A strike of New York Central employes extending westward beyond Buffalo has not affected train schedules or railroad employes in the Hudson Valley area to date, a railroad official said here today.

All trains of the West Shore line have been running on schedule today, and if a curtailment of service extends eastward, it was indicated, it probably will not be noticed here before another day or two.

Railroad employes in this area felt that the strike was a sudden, unexpected move, and insofar as they were able to determine today, it would have no immediate effect on them.

An Associated Press report from New York said today, meanwhile, that hundreds of westbound travelers turned from the partially strike-bound New York Central system and sought places on buses, planes and other trains.

A curtailment of freight service on the West Shore is possible before the end of the week if the strike continues, and in that event the volume of freight moving through Kingston would probably be lessened.

The New York report said the tieup, which started yesterday west of Buffalo, did not affect the New York Central's suburban service on its other New York state routes.

Passengers hit by the strike were heading for Cleveland, De-

Mrs. George W. Brown of Hurley, who is again serving as chairman of the Red Cross Fund raising campaign in her community, said Tuesday that she "could not say no to the Red Cross" when she was approached to serve again as chairman.

"My son Robert owes his life to the Red Cross through whose efforts plasma was made available to him when he was very seriously injured while serving with the armed forces in New Guinea during World War II," she explains.

Robert Brown was a member of the United States Army Signal Corps in a remote section of New Guinea when he and a companion were severely burned when a drum of gasoline which was being burned as a means of lighting up an area where they were engaged in unloading supplies, was accidentally overturned. First public announcement of the formation of the Kingston Junior Chamber of Commerce was made today with the completion of the necessary arrangements to have the local group chartered by the national Junior Chamber of Commerce and its New York state division.

Organizational efforts of the local Jaycee group date back several months, during which period several meetings of young men were held to adopt a constitution and by-laws.

Approval by the Kingston Chamber of Commerce, a prerequisite to the chartering of the junior group, was granted by the Chamber's executive committee following consultation between a senior Chamber committee and designated officers of the Jaycees two weeks ago, according to Albert Kurdt, executive secretary of the senior Chamber.

Touch of Magic In Wicks' Name, Writer Declares

State Senate Majority Leader Arthur H. Wicks is a legislator with "political up-drag" A New York Daily News columnist stressed yesterday.

John Crosson, who writes the New York column "City Hall," led off his writings of yesterday by asking his readers to "Consider now, the weight of two names. One with political up-drag. Another that seems to exert a down-pull."

He explained: "The name that's acquiring a touch of magic, is that of Arthur Wicks, Republican majority leader in the State Senate and head of the committee that's been handling the state investigation of racing and horse betting.

"Wicks wants his probe extended a year in order to probe further the feasibility of permitting off-track betting. Gov. Dewey has pronounced such proposals as iniquitous. He said so when Bill O'Dwyer as mayor, came out for legalized, licensed and state-supervised book-making. And there's no doubt that Dewey feels just as strongly about it today.

"But wonder of wonders, a re-

Red Threats Will Not Force Korean Peace, Say Allies

Munsan, Korea, March 10 (AP)—Allied negotiators warned the Communists today that threats and intimidation will not force the UN command to accept Red terms for a Korean armistice.

"You cannot dictate the terms of an armistice and you cannot hope to achieve any progress in these meetings by resorting to threats and unfounded accusations," said Rear Adm. R. E. Libby.

He said UN negotiators did not propose to "sit and listen" any further to unfounded charges and repeated accusations that the allied delegation was "telling lies."

Libby emphasized later, however, that he did not threaten to break off the tightly deadlocked

Record Vote Is Expected Tuesday; Taft Is Main Opponent

Concord, N. H., March 10 (AP)—New Hampshire voters heard the closing arguments today before the nation's first presidential primary, an election that may be the turning-point in the political future of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

A record vote, stirred by the furious campaigning, is expected when the polls open Tuesday morning.

This is the first big cast in the effort of Eisenhower's supporters to make him the Republican candidate, and then to put him in the White House after the national election, next November.

His principal opponent here is Sen. Robert A. Taft, of Ohio, "Mr. Republican" to thousands of voters in all parts of the country. And this is the first test of strength—and it could be the last—between the two men who are most often mentioned as the leading contenders for the GOP nomination.

The names of Harold Stassen, former governor of Minnesota, Gen. Douglas MacArthur, and a St. Louis attorney, William R. Schneider, also are on the Republican side of the New Hampshire primary. A slate of delegates has been entered for MacArthur. Stassen and Schneider are entered only in the preferential section, "the popularity contest."

The state's registered Democrats will choose between President Truman and Sen. Estes Kefauver, the big, easy-moving man from Tennessee, who is challenging the President for the Democratic nomination.

In many ways, this has been a campaign unique in American political history.

Eisenhower, 3,000 miles away in Europe, has made no political statement during the campaign. A team of senators, congressmen, and influential New Hampshire men and women, have barnstormed the state trying to elect him in absentia.

Taft on the other hand stormed into New Hampshire last Thursday like a mid-western cyclone. He considers that he made his big drive at the critical timing point.

He swept into virtually every corner of the state, working as much as 16 hours a day, speaking, shaking hands, conferring, answering questions and posing for pictures. He made 36 speeches in three days and closed, Saturday night, before an audience that overflowed the Concord city auditorium and had people standing, three-deep, around the walls.

'Horse Race' Says Taft

Taft himself said, before he left, that he regards the election as "a horse race" between himself and Eisenhower, but that his chances of victory are improving.

A postcard poll, he said, shows him running dead-level with the

Move Is Made to Vacate Service of Summons by City of New York in Damage Action

The City of New York, at special term before Justice Harry E. Schirick on Friday, moved to vacate service of a summons in another "rainmaking" action on the grounds the notice of service was not made individually. The motion to vacate the service was opposed by Louis Irving Gottlieb, attorney for plaintiffs, J. H. Edwin Anderson and Edwin L. Anderson, who asked that the defendant's motion for an order vacating the service of the summons be denied and asked, by way of affirmative relief, that the court find the defendant's time to answer has expired and that the defendant, the City of New York, is now in default.

Justice Schirick reserved decision in the matter and gave two weeks time for filing of additional papers.

John Redline appeared for the City of New York and Louis I. Gottlieb of 132 Nassau street, New York, appeared for plaintiffs.

Gottlieb in his argument before the court stated that the action was brought against the City of New York for property damage sustained by plaintiffs as a result of the overflow of the Esopus creek in or about November 1950, and continuing through April 7, 1951. In March 1951 notice of damage was given in writing to the comptroller of the City of

Smith Ordered Held For Grand Jury Action

Another suspect was arrested this morning by sheriff's men as a result of the investigation of a series of burglaries which they attribute to a teenage gang.

Arraigned before Justice of the Peace Percy W. Gazlay of Kerhonkson was Otis Benton Smith, 17, of that village. He waived examination and was ordered held for grand jury action on a third degree burglary charge.

Smith was arrested by County Investigator Arthur H. Brown and Deputy Sheriff Irving Gilman. His arrest brings to seven the number of suspects picked up during the investigation of a string of thefts and burglaries which extend from Samsonville in the town of Olive to the Ellenville area in the town of Wawarsing.

Smith was accused specifically on the information filed against him of the theft of a small quantity of gasoline and cases of oil from the Accord Farmers Cooperative.

Train Schedule Or Employes Not Affected in Area

A strike of New York Central employes extending westward beyond Buffalo has not affected train schedules or railroad employes in the Hudson Valley area to date, a railroad official said here today.

All trains of the West Shore line have been running on schedule today, and if a curtailment of service extends eastward, it was indicated, it probably will not be noticed here before another day or two.

Railroad employes in this area felt that the strike was a sudden, unexpected move, and insofar as they were able to determine today, it would have no immediate effect on them.

An Associated Press report from New York said today, meanwhile, that hundreds of westbound travelers turned from the partially strike-bound New York Central system and sought places on buses, planes and other trains.

A curtailment of freight service on the West Shore is possible before the end of the week if the strike continues, and in that event the volume of freight moving through Kingston would probably be lessened.

The New York report said the tieup, which started yesterday west of Buffalo, did not affect the New York Central's suburban service on its other New York state routes.

Passengers hit by the strike were heading for Cleveland, De-

Son Owes His Life to Red Cross, Her Daughter Served, Dog Enlisted

Mrs. George W. Brown of Hurley, who is again serving as chairman of the Red Cross Fund raising campaign in her community, said Tuesday that she "could not say no to the Red Cross" when she was approached to serve again as chairman.

"My son Robert owes his life to the Red Cross through whose efforts plasma was made available to him when he was very seriously injured while serving with the armed forces in New Guinea during World War II," she explains.

Robert Brown was a member of the United States Army Signal Corps in a remote section of New Guinea when he and a companion were severely burned when a drum of gasoline which was being burned as a means of lighting up an area where they were engaged in unloading supplies, was accidentally overturned. Both men were desperately injured, one of them, the son of the governor of

Morris Is Challenged

Washington, March 10 (AP)—Newbold Morris, the government cleanup man, was callenged today to say whether he was "a reputable front for a diserputable operation" in ship deals and in trade with the Chinese Reds. The challenge came in a prepared statement by Sen. Nixon (R.-Calif.). Nixon said he sought "in fairness to put Morris on notice" of questions to be directed at him tomorrow in a public hearing of the Senate Investigations Subcommittee.

Courts Are Targets

Albany, N. Y., March 10 (AP)—The courts today were targets of critical barbs for what the temporary State Commission to Study Rents termed "some strange, bewildering and even bizarre interpretations" of the state's rent-control laws. The 18-member agency contended that "meanings have been attributed to provisions of the statutes which are foreign to the intention of the legislature."

Turns Down Proposal

Albany, N. Y., March 10 (AP)—Chairman Robert Moses of the Triborough Bridge Authority has flatly turned down a proposal that it take over operation of all of New York city's transit facilities, including the deficit-plagued subway lines. Moses said it was "apparent that the real purpose back of any such" transfer was "to raise rapid-transit fares."

1,100 Teachers Strike

Providence, R. I., March 10 (AP)—Public schools in Providence were closed today by a strike of 1,100 teachers after an all-night conference in a pay raise dispute ended in a deadlock. Supervisory personnel and older students took attendance of those of the 28,000 school children who reported, then the children were dismissed.

sporadic shooting. Radio stations were forbidden to broadcast news, presumably upon instruction from the police. The Havana clearing house suspended operations. The police took over the Cuban telephone building, but permitted local and long distance calls. Cable companies reported no censorship. The U. S. State Department ordered the Seventh Coast Guard District to divert all boats and aircraft bound for Havana.

Cuba's election campaign had been working up to a fiery climax, with Batista the candidate for the United Action Party. He campaigned on an anti-administration platform, as did Roberto Agramonte, leader of the orthodox People's Party. Agramonte had charged Batista with being a "phoney opposition candidate" who had made a deal with Prio to take away votes from the people's party.

Prio Not Eligible

With Prio ineligible for re-election, his authentic Revolutionary Party had nominated Carlos Hevia, a former secretary of state, for president. Agramonte had been conceded a fair chance of defeating Hevia. Agramonte's predecessor as presidential candidate, Eduardo Chibas, committed suicide in August "to warn the people of Cuba against widespread corruption in government."

Havana is normally one of the noisiest places in the world. Today traffic was curtailed, although there were no restrictions. At times police searched automobiles crossing two bridges over Almendares river, carrying traffic between Havana and suburbs.

The newspaper Alerta published an interview with Colonel Salas, new police chief, in which he was asked: "How did this business get started." His reply:

"The people couldn't put up with the state of things any longer. The government gave the appearance of prosecuting gangsterism, and yet it was public and notorious that the government itself stood behind these gangsters. Policarpo Soler, 'El Colorado' and other notorious criminals (at liberty) had no worries of any kind."

Six Cases Stricken From Court Calendar

Six cases were stricken from the Supreme Court calendar at the "strike-off" call this morning and several of the older cases were added to the day calendar.

No. 14, an injunction action brought by Cape Pond, Inc., against Jack Kramer, et al., was referred. A. W. Lent appears for plaintiff and Cook & Cook for defendants. No. 420, Clara A. Lawson against H. J. Fletcher and another, negligence, was also stricken off. N. LeVan Haver for plaintiff and Watts, Oakes, Vandervoort and Bright for defendants.

A negligence action brought by John Boyd Campbell against Allessio A. Bovino, was moved for trial. Michael Nardone for plaintiff and Cook & Cook for defendant.

Kerhonkson Schools Are Closed for Week

Due to an epidemic of heavy colds, grippe and virus infections, all of the Kerhonkson public schools and social activities of the school have been terminated.

The announcement was made late today by Roland Riegel, supervising principal, who said that the order was made by Dr. Feldshuh, school physician and Dr. Robert H. Broad, Ulster county commissioner of health.

Schools will reopen March 17 and until such time all parents have been urged to keep their children at home.

The P-TA card party scheduled for March 15 has been put off until April 22.

On 'Dangerous' Mission

Officers Peter Camp and Kenneth Stratton were dispatched early today on a mission generally considered "dangerous." A report to police headquarters at 6:40 a. m., said a skunk was believed to be in a closet at a Hurley avenue house. The officers decided considerable before starting their investigating tour that a skunk was in the house, but it was apparently hiding in the cellar. The cellar door was left open with the hope that it would take a walk, or better, a run for itself.

Surprise Strikes

warning in Washington, but he did not elaborate. The army has been custodian and nominal operator of railroad lines since government seizure in August, 1950, when the same unions threatened a nationwile walkout.

The unannounced strike halted most New York Central trains west of Buffalo Sunday morning, many before they reached their destinations.

It also hit the St. Louis Terminal Railroad, paralyzing this vital switching center for east-west rail traffic.

15,000 Are Affected

The railroad said more than 10,000 quit work and the strike affected close to 15,000 employes. The union said the number on strike was 5,500. An NYC spokesman said a continuance of the strike for several days would force as many as 50,000 out of work.

Strike leaders said there was "no particular reason" for singling out the New York Central.

The NYC operates the largest Chicago to New York and Boston passenger service of any railroad. It hauls some 20,000 passengers daily over the more than 6,000 miles of strike-affected routes.

Stranded passengers were shifted to other railroad lines, notably the Pennsylvania which put on extra trains, and to airlines and buses. Airlines were reported running extra flights out of Chicago, and were doing a boom business on westbound flights from New York.

At Cleveland, truck line facilities may be overtaxed because of the railroad's embargo on freight.

The Nickel Plate Railroad, which uses NYC terminal facilities in Chicago, used buses to shuttle passengers between its Stony Island yards on the Chicago south side and the La Salle street station. The Nickel Plate also used shuttle buses between Madison, Ill., and the St. Louis terminal.

The strike was a new outbreak in a three-year dispute over wages and working rules. A carrier spokesman said pay and hours are virtually settled but the unresolved issues of rules has held up a contract putting the pay boosts into effect.

The railroads want the right to: (1) Give train crews longer runs; (2) pay an employe the highest wage plus a bonus instead of two full daily wages when he performs jobs in two classifications; (3) extend present yard limits to include industrial sidings outside present limits; and (4) ask train crews to report late for work instead of paying them while waiting to take over a late train.

Protest Rules Changes

The unions protest these rules changes "could cost the men as much or more than the wage increases offered."

One wage issue unsettled is the firemen's demand for four cents more than a 38-cent hourly wage increase offered yard service employes.

A railroad spokesman said the engineers have accepted the 38 cents an hour for yard service men and all three have agreed to a 23½ cent hourly boost for road service employes.

Hourly-paid employes now draw overtime rates after 48 hours a week, but carriers have agreed to institute the 40-hour week at the option of the unions, if the manpower situation permits.

Another issue affects conductors only. They want a 100-mile basis for a day's pay, instead of the present 150. Engineers and firemen now have a 100-mile basis.

Train Schedule

troit, Chicago, St. Louis and other points beyond Buffalo.

There was no immediate indication of how many of the line's trains would operate today.

Yesterday a total of six westbound trains originating here were cancelled, and seven other trains were stopped short of their destinations. None west beyond Buffalo, N. Y., or Windsor, Canada.

Airlines were doing a boom business as many New York Central passengers just crossed the street from Grand Central Terminal to the airlines' terminal from which buses carry travelers to airports.

Grand Central Terminal was not particularly congested as the long-distance travel was blocked. Four ticket windows were turned over to redemption of tickets or their transfer to other railroads.

Jailed for Two Murders

Portsmouth, Va., March 10 (AP)—Police said a Negro sailor surrendered last night and was jailed on two charges of murder in the pistol slaying of two other Negroes Saturday. Detective Capt. L. C. Ellis said Thomas Wiley, 28, storekeeper, USN, of Dexter, Mo., will be given a hearing in police court March 21 on charges of shooting to death Oscar O. Dancy, 29, and Bernice Parker.

Esopus Legion To Meet Tuesday

The monthly meeting of the Town of Esopus Post, 1298, American Legion, will be held Tuesday at 8 p. m. at the Post Home on Legion Court in Port Ewen, it was announced today by Chester Barth, adjutant.

At the meeting, final plans will be divulged for the Post birthday party to be held Thursday, March 13. The party will be held at the Mirror Lake Lodge and Wilson Tinney and his committee plan to announce the final plans for the dinner, music and entertainment that will take place at the party.

It also is expected that the building committee will submit its first report. The committee under the direction of Chester Barth has considered several possibilities for the construction of a Recreation Center for the use of the children of the town, and the committee plans to submit their initial recommendations Tuesday.

It also is expected that reports will be made by Robert Greaves and his committee on the progress of the sponsorship of American Legion Junior League Baseball in the town during the coming year; and that John Spinnenweber and his committee will report on the progress that has been made during the past month on the establishment of a Blood Bank in the Town of Esopus under the sponsorship of the Esopus Legion.

Broken Windows Are Reported to Police

Police received two reports of broken windows over the weekend and today, one of them apparently a mishap caused by an automobile.

Officers George Dougherty and William Norton investigated and reported that a piece of metal about four inches in diameter had apparently been thrown through the window after it was hit by the wheel of a passing car.

H. O. Deitz, grocer of 448 Hasbrouck avenue, reported early today that a window of a rear door had been broken during the night. Detective Clarence Brophy investigated and said a brick had been thrown through the glass, but nothing was reported missing from the store.

Officials said rails had been loosened and mines planted in the roadbed which exploded as the train passed over. A bridge which the train was approaching also had been mined.

Next was the Rip Van Winkle bridge with a percentage gain of 23.45 or 11,988 vehicles. It clocked 63,114 vehicles last month and 51,126 a year ago.

The Mid-Hudson bridge clocked 210,334 vehicles this year as against 174,453 a year ago for a gain of 35,881 vehicles or 20.57 per cent.

The authority was unable to indicate when the Kingston-Rhinecliff ferry would resume its schedule because it had not been sent to dry dock yet.

said he was surprised by the slaying when officers questioned him. Two other alleged Sutton pals, also in local jails, were of no help.

Although police vigorously sought Tenuto on a revenge motive, they put a lot of stock in the crank theory.

They figured someone whom Sutton didn't know might have killed Schuster in an effort to teach ordinary citizens to mind their own business and not tip off police.

Several law enforcement officials saw the slaying as underworld defiance of police.

Family Is Bitter

Schuster's family was bitter.

"My hero, my hero. He had to be a hero," said his father.

"He had to do it. And he got his reward."

Meanwhile, police put a guard on the Schuster home and prepared to guard other persons involved in the Sutton case.

These include the manager and 16 other employes of a Queens branch of the Manufacturers Trust Company, the bank held up for $64,000 just two years to the day before Schuster's slaying.

Sutton and two others are in jail awaiting trial later this month on charges that they staged the holdup. Bank employes have identified the three as the gunmen.

Memorized Features

Sutton, wanted for bank robbery and a prison break, was recognized on a subway train by Schuster Feb. 18.

Schuster, who had memorized the crook's features from an FBI picture in his father's store, pointed out Sutton to two policemen. He walked off before the arrest, and the two officers and a detective got credit.

Two days later, Schuster showed up at police headquarters with a lawyer and got full recognition for his exploit from Police Commissioner Monaghan.

Schuster wanted his share of the reward, reputed to be about $70,000. But it turned out that there was no substantial reward posted.

Soon after Sutton's arrest, police picked up an old sidekick—Thomas (Scup) Kling—and accused him of the Queens bank robbery, too.

Surprised at Killing

In jail, Sutton was reported to have said of the Schuster slaying:

"I could have fallen off the bed when I heard the news."

He told police questioners he didn't know a thing about it. De Venuta said he couldn't help. And Kling refused even to see the officers—privilege granted him by law.

The New York Daily News' television station WPIX has offered a $1,000 reward for information leading directly to the apprehension and conviction of the slayer or slayers.

WPIX also said that starting tenight (7:15 p. m. E.S.T.) it will provide 15 minutes time every night for discussion of the case by prominent civic officials. The featured speaker tonight will be Rudolph Halley, city council president and former Kefauver Committee counsel.

Police discounted robbery as a motive. A wristwatch and $83.55 on the body was untouched.

Schuster's funeral was set for today.

Police plan to be on hand just in case the killer shows up.

Decision Reserved

New York. That notice was acknowledged and an examination of plaintiffs was requested by the city. A hearing was set for March 30, 1951 at the Municipal Building in New York and on request of plaintiff that hearing was adjourned to April 12, 1951, when J. H. Edwin Anderson appeared and was examined as to damages to his property. On April 16, 1951, the City requested further information with reference to assessed valuation etc., and that was supplied the Office of the Comptroller. The foregoing proceedings were in accordance with the usual custom. The City has 30 days in which to adjust or settle a claim before action can be commenced against the City. Thereafter legal action by plaintiff must be commenced within a year.

Within this time the plaintiffs, Anderson, did serve a summons and complaint by service upon the Chief Clerk of the corporation counsel of the City, as has been customary. This service has been held proper by Justice Hosftadter in a recent decision.

While the city's motion to dismiss the Avery group of cases was pending before Justice Hofstadter, Assistant Corporation Counsel Suglia, requested adjournment in the Anderson case. The Avery group concerned cases in which City of New York was not named a defendant. In the Anderson case the city was named.

Gottlieb told Justice Schirick that during a discussion with Suglia, in regard to the relationship of the Avery cases and the Anderson case, Suglia said it would not be necessary for Gottlieb to interpose an affidavit in those cases "since the plaintiffs' action would not be affected by the decision." It was further stated during a conference that should Justice Hofstadter pass upon the question of service in the Avery cases, the corporation counsel would not be inclined to challenge service in the Anderson case, unless the court held the service was "not good", then the city would feel free to move to dismiss the Anderson complaint.

Following that understanding it was stipulated the city have additional time to answer, pending Justice Hofstadter's decision in the Avery cases. The first stipulation expired and was extended.

When Justice Hofstadter handed down his decision in the Avery group of cases he held service had been "good", but that the statute of limitations had expired. Gottlieb told Justice Schirick he had expected an answer from the city under the stipulation discussed with Suglia but had received none.

Later Suglia notified Gottlieb he felt compelled to move to dismiss the Anderson action because the Hofstadter opinion "had not affected my position since the finding was only 'dicta' in that the City of New York had not been named defendant in the Gottfried actions."

The city having resorted to "technical" grounds to dismiss the Anderson action, Gottlieb said he felt constrained to oppose this motion of technical grounds. The defendant is in default for failure to interpose an answer within 20 days after service of the summons and complaint "and cannot now move to challenge the jurisdiction of the Court in the instant case." This was based upon the manner in which the office of corporation counsel obtained the stipulation extending time to answer. He argued that the stipulation was obtained on behalf of defendants "under a well disguised subterfuge," knowing that the time element was involved. If the present motion for vacating service of the complaint is granted the plainiffs will be barred from relief by the Statue of Limitations. He asked the motion of the city be denied.

Morris Is Challenged

Washington, March 10 (AP)—Newbold Morris, the government cleanup man, was callenged today to say whether he was "a reputable front for a diserputable operation" in ship deals and in trade with the Chinese Reds. The challenge came in a prepared statement by Sen. Nixon (R.-Calif.). Nixon said he sought "in fairness to put Morris on notice" of questions to be directed at him tomorrow in a public hearing of the Senate Investigations Subcommittee.

Courts Are Targets

Albany, N. Y., March 10 (AP)—The courts today were targets of critical barbs for what the temporary State Commission to Study Rents termed "some strange, bewildering and even bizarre interpretations" of the state's rent-control laws. The 18-member agency contended that "meanings have been attributed to provisions of the statutes which are foreign to the intention of the legislature."

Turns Down Proposal

Albany, N. Y., March 10 (AP)—Chairman Robert Moses of the Triborough Bridge Authority has flatly turned down a proposal that it take over operation of all of New York city's transit facilities, including the deficit-plagued subway lines. Moses said it was "apparent that the real purpose back of any such" transfer was "to raise rapid-transit fares."

1,100 Teachers Strike

Providence, R. I., March 10 (AP)—Public schools in Providence were closed today by a strike of 1,100 teachers after an all-night conference in a pay raise dispute ended in a deadlock. Supervisory personnel and older students took attendance of those of the 28,000 school children who reported, then the children were dismissed.

Grange News

A regional meeting comprising members of the 14 Granges in the county will be held Tuesday in the Plattekill Grange hall beginning at 7:30 p. m.

Leland D. Smith, master of the New York State Grange, and Catherine Halladay, state juvenile superintendent, will be the guest speakers. Smith will discuss general grange procedure, ritual work and other matters of interest.

Army-Backed

sporadic shooting. Radio stations were forbidden to broadcast news, presumably upon instruction from the police. The Havana clearing house suspended operations. The police took over the Cuban telephone building, but permitted local and long distance calls. Cable companies reported no censorship. The U. S. State Department ordered the Seventh Coast Guard District to divert all boats and aircraft bound for Havana.

Cuba's election campaign had been working up to a fiery climax, with Batista the candidate for the United Action Party. He campaigned on an anti-administration platform, as did Roberto Agramonte, leader of the orthodox People's Party. Agramonte had charged Batista with being a "phoney opposition candidate" who had made a deal with Prio to take away votes from the people's party.

Prio Not Eligible

With Prio ineligible for re-election, his authentic Revolutionary Party had nominated Carlos Hevia, a former secretary of state, for president. Agramonte had been conceded a fair chance of defeating Hevia. Agramonte's predecessor as presidential candidate, Eduardo Chibas, committed suicide in August "to warn the people of Cuba against widespread corruption in government."

Havana is normally one of the noisiest places in the world. Today traffic was curtailed, although there were no restrictions. At times police searched automobiles crossing two bridges over Almendares river, carrying traffic between Havana and suburbs.

The newspaper Alerta published an interview with Colonel Salas, new police chief, in which he was asked: "How did this business get started." His reply:

"The people couldn't put up with the state of things any longer. The government gave the appearance of prosecuting gangsterism, and yet it was public and notorious that the government itself stood behind these gangsters. Policarpo Soler, 'El Colorado' and other notorious criminals (at liberty) had no worries of any kind."

Six Cases Stricken From Court Calendar

Six cases were stricken from the Supreme Court calendar at the "strike-off" call this morning and several of the older cases were added to the day calendar.

In an action brought by Chodikee Lake Farm Camp against Joseph Sherwood and another, the action was dismissed as to Harold Percival. No. 14, an injunction action brought by Cape Pond, Inc., against Jack Kramer, et al., was referred. A. W. Lent appears for plaintiff and Cook & Cook for defendants. No. 420, Clara A. Lawson against H. J. Fletcher and another, negligence, was also stricken off. N. LeVan Haver for plaintiff and Watts, Oakes, Vandervoort and Bright for defendants.

A negligence action brought by John Boyd Campbell against Allessio A. Bovino, was moved for trial. Michael Nardone for plaintiff and Cook & Cook for defendant.

Kerhonkson Schools Are Closed for Week

Due to an epidemic of heavy colds, grippe and virus infections, all of the Kerhonkson public schools and social activities of the school have been terminated.

The announcement was made late today by Roland Riegel, supervising principal, who said that the order was made by Dr. Feldshuh, school physician and Dr. Robert H. Broad, Ulster county commissioner of health.

Schools will reopen March 17 and until such time all parents have been urged to keep their children at home.

The P-TA card party scheduled for March 15 has been put off until April 22.

On 'Dangerous' Mission

Officers Peter Camp and Kenneth Stratton were dispatched early today on a mission generally considered "dangerous." A report to police headquarters at 6:40 a. m., said a skunk was believed to be in a closet at a Hurley avenue house. The officers decided considerable before starting their investigating tour that a skunk was in the house, but it was apparently hiding in the cellar. The cellar door was left open with the hope that it would take a walk, or better, a run for itself.

Bank Is Robbed

Medford, Mass., March 10 (AP)—Three gunmen, one of them masked, held up the Medford branch of the Middlesex County National Bank today and escaped with "upwards of $12,000." A bank spokesman who declined to be named said the exact amount of money taken could not be learned immediately.

Surprise Strikes

warning in Washington, but he did not elaborate. The army has been custodian and nominal operator of railroad lines since government seizure in August, 1950, when the same unions threatened a nationwile walkout.

The unannounced strike halted most New York Central trains west of Buffalo Sunday morning, many before they reached their destinations.

It also hit the St. Louis Terminal Railroad, paralyzing this vital switching center for east-west rail traffic.

15,000 Are Affected

The railroad said more than 10,000 quit work and the strike affected close to 15,000 employes. The union said the number on strike was 5,500. An NYC spokesman said a continuance of the strike for several days would force as many as 50,000 out of work.

Strike leaders said there was "no particular reason" for singling out the New York Central.

The NYC operates the largest Chicago to New York and Boston passenger service of any railroad. It hauls some 20,000 passengers daily over the more than 6,000 miles of strike-affected routes.

Stranded passengers were shifted to other railroad lines, notably the Pennsylvania which put on extra trains, and to airlines and buses. Airlines were reported running extra flights out of Chicago, and were doing a boom business on westbound flights from New York.

At Cleveland, truck line facilities may be overtaxed because of the railroad's embargo on freight.

The Nickel Plate Railroad, which uses NYC terminal facilities in Chicago, used buses to shuttle passengers between its Stony Island yards on the Chicago south side and the La Salle street station. The Nickel Plate also used shuttle buses between Madison, Ill., and the St. Louis terminal.

The strike was a new outbreak in a three-year dispute over wages and working rules. A carrier spokesman said pay and hours are virtually settled but the unresolved issues of rules has held up a contract putting the pay boosts into effect.

The railroads want the right to: (1) Give train crews longer runs; (2) pay an employe the highest wage plus a bonus instead of two full daily wages when he performs jobs in two classifications; (3) extend present yard limits to include industrial sidings outside present limits; and (4) ask train crews to report late for work instead of paying them while waiting to take over a late train.

Protest Rules Changes

The unions protest these rules changes "could cost the men as much or more than the wage increases offered."

One wage issue unsettled is the firemen's demand for four cents more than a 38-cent hourly wage increase offered yard service employes.

A railroad spokesman said the engineers have accepted the 38 cents an hour for yard service men and all three have agreed to a 23½ cent hourly boost for road service employes.

Hourly-paid employes now draw overtime rates after 48 hours a week, but carriers have agreed to institute the 40-hour week at the option of the unions, if the manpower situation permits.

Another issue affects conductors only. They want a 100-mile basis for a day's pay, instead of the present 150. Engineers and firemen now have a 100-mile basis.

Train Schedule

troit, Chicago, St. Louis and other points beyond Buffalo.

There was no immediate indication of how many of the line's trains would operate today.

The three Hudson River bridges under control of the New York State Bridge Authority clocked 62,153 more vehicles in February this year than in that month a year ago, the authority announced today.

Total travel over the bridges last month was 347,233 vehicles as against 285,080 a year ago. This was a percentage gain of 21.80.

Next was the Rip Van Winkle bridge with a percentage gain of 23.45 or 11,988 vehicles. It clocked 63,114 vehicles last month and 51,126 a year ago.

The Mid-Hudson bridge clocked 210,334 vehicles this year as against 174,453 a year ago for a gain of 35,881 vehicles or 20.57 per cent.

The authority was unable to indicate when the Kingston-Rhinecliff ferry would resume its schedule because it had not been sent to dry dock yet.

Vast Manhunt

said he was surprised by the slaying when officers questioned him. Two other alleged Sutton pals, also in local jails, were of no help.

Although police vigorously sought Tenuto on a revenge motive, they put a lot of stock in the crank theory.

They figured someone whom Sutton didn't know might have killed Schuster in an effort to teach ordinary citizens to mind their own business and not tip off police.

Several law enforcement officials saw the slaying as underworld defiance of police.

Family Is Bitter

Schuster's family was bitter.

"My hero, my hero. He had to be a hero," said his father.

"He had to do it. And he got his reward."

Meanwhile, police put a guard on the Schuster home and prepared to guard other persons involved in the Sutton case.

These include the manager and 16 other employes of a Queens branch of the Manufacturers Trust Company, the bank held up for $64,000 just two years to the day before Schuster's slaying.

Sutton and two others are in jail awaiting trial later this month on charges that they staged the holdup. Bank employes have identified the three as the gunmen.

Memorized Features

Sutton, wanted for bank robbery and a prison break, was recognized on a subway train by Schuster Feb. 18.

Schuster, who had memorized the crook's features from an FBI picture in his father's store, pointed out Sutton to two policemen. He walked off before the arrest, and the two officers and a detective got credit.

Two days later, Schuster showed up at police headquarters with a lawyer and got full recognition for his exploit from Police Commissioner Monaghan.

Schuster wanted his share of the reward, reputed to be about $70,000. But it turned out that there was no substantial reward posted.

Soon after Sutton's arrest, police picked up an old sidekick—Thomas (Scup) Kling—and accused him of the Queens bank robbery, too.

Surprised at Killing

In jail, Sutton was reported to have said of the Schuster slaying: "I could have fallen off the bed when I heard the news."

He told police questioners he didn't know a thing about it. De Venuta said he couldn't help. And Kling refused even to see the officers—privilege granted him by law.

The New York Daily News' television station WPIX has offered a $1,000 reward for information leading directly to the apprehension and conviction of the slayer or slayers.

WPIX also said that starting tenight (7:15 p. m. E.S.T.) it will provide 15 minutes time every night for discussion of the case by prominent civic officials. The featured speaker tonight will be Rudolph Halley, city council president and former Kefauver Committee counsel.

Police discounted robbery as a motive. A wristwatch and $83.55 on the body was untouched.

Schuster's funeral was set for today.

Police plan to be on hand just in case the killer shows up.

Decision Reserved

New York. That notice was acknowledged and an examination of plaintiffs was requested by the city. A hearing was set for March 30, 1951 at the Municipal Building in New York and on request of plaintiff that hearing was adjourned to April 12, 1951, when J. H. Edwin Anderson appeared and was examined as to damages to his property. On April 16, 1951, the City requested further information with reference to assessed valuation etc., and that was supplied the Office of the Comptroller. The foregoing proceedings were in accordance with the usual custom. The City has 30 days in which to adjust or settle a claim before action can be commenced against the City. Thereafter legal action by plaintiff must be commenced within a year.

Within this time the plaintiffs, Anderson, did serve a summons and complaint by service upon the Chief Clerk of the corporation counsel of the City, as has been customary. This service has been held proper by Justice Hosftadter in a recent decision.

While the city's motion to dismiss the Avery group of cases was pending before Justice Hofstadter, Assistant Corporation Counsel Suglia, requested adjournment in the Anderson case. The Avery group concerned cases in which City of New York was not named a defendant. In the Anderson case the city was named.

Gottlieb told Justice Schirick that during a discussion with Suglia, in regard to the relationship of the Avery cases and the Anderson case, Suglia said it would not be necessary for Gottlieb to interpose an affidavit in those cases "since the plaintiffs' action would not be affected by the decision." It was further stated during a conference that should Justice Hofstadter pass upon the question of service in the Avery cases, the corporation counsel would not be inclined to challenge service in the Anderson case, unless the court held the service was "not good", then the city would feel free to move to dismiss the Anderson complaint.

Following that understanding it was stipulated the city have additional time to answer, pending Justice Hofstadter's decision in the Avery cases. The first stipulation expired and was extended.

When Justice Hofstadter handed down his decision in the Avery group of cases he held service had been "good", but that the statute of limitations had expired. Gottlieb told Justice Schirick he had expected an answer from the city under the stipulation discussed with Suglia but had received none.

Later Suglia notified Gottlieb he felt compelled to move to dismiss the Anderson action because the Hofstadter opinion "had not affected my position since the finding was only 'dicta' in that the City of New York had not been named defendant in the Gottfried actions."

The city having resorted to "technical" grounds to dismiss the Anderson action, Gottlieb said he felt constrained to oppose this motion of technical grounds. The defendant is in default for failure to interpose an answer within 20 days after service of the summons and complaint "and cannot now move to challenge the jurisdiction of the Court in the instant case." This was based upon the manner in which the office of corporation counsel obtained the stipulation extending time to answer. He argued that the stipulation was obtained on behalf of defendants "under a well disguised subterfuge," knowing that the time element was involved. If the present motion for vacating service of the complaint is granted the plainiffs will be barred from relief by the Statue of Limitations. He asked the motion of the city be denied.

Bills Proposed in Legislature

Albany, N. Y., March 10 (AP)—Assembly approval is slated tomorow for the Wilson Bill to over overhaul the state's archaic Sunday Blue Laws and to give each community power to decide what "spectator" sports to permit on Sunday

The measure also gives a green light to so-called "participant" sports on Sunday, so long as they do not cause a "serious interruption of the repose or religious liberty" of a community.

The bill is expected to pass the Senate and to be signed by Governor Dewey.

Other developments expected as the Republican-controlled Legislature rolls toward adjournment, now set for March 19 or 20:

1—Governor Dewey's supplemental budget, of between 7 and 10 million dollars, will be submitted later this week for expected aproval without any major changes.

2—There may be a last-ditch move by the Dewey administration to revive its bill to establish twice-a-year, compulsory inspection of automobiles at state-operated check stations.

3—A floor fight was anticipated over the Travia-Erwin bills to drastically regulate political contributions by labor unions. Several GOP legislative leaders have indicated they favor the measures and will push for their enactment.

Billboard Measures

4—A showdown also was expected over an administration proposal to give the State Thruway Authority power to restrict and regulate billboards and other advertising devices along the 500-mile super-highway, now under construction. The measure has run into trouble, especially in the Senate.

In view of Governor Dewey's endorsement, there was speculation as to whether a move would be launched for aproval of the Mahoney Commission plan to abolish the state's three-member Civil Service Commission and to create a single administrative office to boss that department.

A bill implementing the Mahoney Commission report has been bottled up in committee by some influential opposition.

Dewey told civil service employes in a speech last week that "you can't run a department with a committee."

He said he would send an emergency bill to the Legislature to permit consideration of the Mahoney Bill at this session if Civil Service Association and legislative leaders could iron out diagreements on some controversial points.

It was warmer in the southeastern states today and slightly colder over the northern plains and southern Rocky Mountains.

Bomb Shelters Are Estimated at 325 Million for State

Albany, N. Y., March 10 (AP)—The Legislature today received a report that it would cost about 325 million dollars to provide bomb shelters in heavily populated areas of the state's atomic "target" cities.

The estimate by the Civil Defense Commission was accompanied by a request from Governor Dewey that the lawmakers vote $250,000 for an engineering survey to determine what buildings could be used for shelter purposes "without major reconstruction."

"It would be unthinkable to do nothing," Dewey declared yesterday following receipt of the commission's second report on air raid shelter proposals.

The commission concentrated on densely populated residential districts consisting in large part of "small tenement and apartment houses." Most areas of this type are in New York city.

The commission indicated preference for a plan to convert basements and first floors of alternate buildings "into properly reinforced shelters" for occupants of these structures and those adjoining them.

"By insuring that the first floor would not collapse, quick egress from the ruins would be possible and basement and first floor combined would, with some crowding, accommodate the inhabitants of the two houses," the commission said.

It estimated that such a program would cost about 300 million dollars in New York city and about 25 million in the state's other "target" cities.

The commission last week outlined a shelter system for congested business areas that would require 40 million dollars.

Under the federal civil defense act, Washington would put up 50 per cent of the money for shelter programs. In New York, the remaining 50 per cent of the cost would be split evenly between the state and the localities.

Twin Sons Bring Total To Eighteen Children

Scranton, Pa., March 10 (AP)—Twin sons were delivered yesterday at Carbondale General Hospital to Mrs. Rexford Oakley, of nearby Childs.

They were the 17th and 18th children for the 43-year-old woman and her husband, an unemployed miner. It was the first time any of the Oakley children were born in a hospital and it also was the first multiple birth in the family.

Seventeen of the Oakley children, ranging up to 25-year-old James who is married and a father, are alive.

"I'd like to get up to 24," commented Oakley. He didn't indicate why.

"By insuring that the first floor would not collapse, quick egress from the ruins would be possible and basement and first floor combined would, with some crowding, accommodate the inhabitants of the two houses," the commission said.

It estimated that such a program would cost about 300 million dollars in New York city and about 25 million in the state's other "target" cities.

The commission last week outlined a shelter system for congested business areas that would require 40 million dollars.

Under the federal civil defense act, Washington would put up 50 per cent of the money for shelter programs. In New York, the remaining 50 per cent of the cost would be split evenly between the state and the localities.

Twin Sons Bring Total To Eighteen Children

Scranton, Pa., March 10 (AP)—Twin sons were delivered yesterday at Carbondale General Hospital to Mrs. Rexford Oakley, of nearby Childs.

They were the 17th and 18th children for the 43-year-old woman and her husband, an unemployed miner. It was the first time any of the Oakley children were born in a hospital and it also was the first multiple birth in the family.

Seventeen of the Oakley children, ranging up to 25-year-old James who is married and a father, are alive.

"I'd like to get up to 24," commented Oakley. He didn't indicate why.

STALEMATE SITUATION IN KOREA

Some harsh realities about Korea now have to be faced. The American and United Nations position with respect to the Communist enemy is not an enviable one, either in the field or around the table at Panmunjom.

Truce negotiations in Korea have been under way for eight months. In that span the most important single field factor is that we have apparently lost control of the air. A great step-up in Communist anti-aircraft power, plus a large increase in its jet fighter force, has given the enemy an edge over our limited air strength.

This has great meaning when applied to the prospect of any future resumption of full-scale war. We are no longer able to shoot up Red supply lines and harry troop concentrations almost at will. Moreover, the oft-discussed plan of bombing Red Manchurian bases is now almost an academic matter. It is extremely doubtful we could pull it off successfully.

Therefore any war that we might be called upon to fight in the immediate months ahead would of necessity have to be more limited in purpose than that which we have fought so far. It would be silly to say: "Let's go in there and finish them off."

We are not equipped to do it. In other words, in an early resumption of real combat we should have to hope mainly to achieve the same kind of stalemate which now prevails during the course of the truce talks.

But since our power to hurt Red supply lines has diminished, we might find it harder than ever to keep a stalemate. The outlook in the field consequently cannot help but increase the pressure upon our negotiators at Panmunjom to come up with some sort of agreement that will avert the necessity of resuming heavy combat.

But here, too, our hopes are not bright. Since we no longer can exert battlefield pressure upon Red negotiators, we are forced to await their pleasure before concluding a truce — assuming always that the Communists really want one. Despite this uncomfortable fact, we still have not lost our courage at the council table. We have stubbornly held out against Red demands for the right to build airfields in North Korea; we demand really effective inspection behind the truce lines, and we are against repatriation of Red prisoners who do not wish to return to Communist territory.

Yet even if we should win our way on the airfield and inspection issues, the chance is great that the victory would be empty.

The Communists are masters at administrative sabotage. It is pretty certain they would keep any UN inspectors effectively snarled in red tape, and build such airfields as they chose.

As for the prisoner question, there seems to be no ground for compromise at all. We must either give way or face the likelihood that UN prisoners of war will spend prolonged months and perhaps years in enemy camps. The blunt fact is that the initiative in Korea is not ours.

Our choices seem to be resumption of full war under less favorable circumstances than before, endless dragging on of the truce talks while our armies mark time and eat up equipment and money, or an uneasy truce which leaves the way open to renewed Communist attack when the moment suits the Red high command in Moscow.

We scoff at the French failure to liquidate the Red guerrillas in Indo-China, and the British stand-off against the Reds in Malaya. Yet we are now in almost their identical position. We are engaged in an enervating, strength-sapping enterprise which seems to have no end and appears to bear ultimate promise only for our enemy.

SOUND OF SPRING

A sure sign of the approach of spring is the start of training by major league baseball teams. All winter the dyed-in-the-bleachers baseball fan has had to content himself with re-hashing last year's pennant races and World Series. If his favorite team ended the season far from first place he had nothing to do but spend the dreary months of snow and ice hoping for improvement. Now the season is not too far off.

In the southern training camps the players are working out to be in top shape on opening day. It is rumored that President Truman will toss a few practice strikes on his visit to Key West. He may have to throw out the first ball again this year. From America's warmer climes comes the sound of a bat cracking against horsehide and the thud of a fast ball into a catcher's mitt. To the baseball fan the sound is more welcome than the voice of the turtle dove.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

THE TAIL OF A TIGER

I do not know how well President Truman knows Newbold Morris, but when he took on the New York reformer to purify his administration, he took a chance on Morris eventually going after the President himself.

Newbold possesses no penchant for partisan regularity. He calls himself a Republican, as was his father before him, but he has been in and out of Republican regularity, often being a Liberal and always closely associated with Fiorello La Guardia. He was a fighting, one might almost say, an obstreperous President of the Council in New York City. He has run independently for mayor and has been defeated.

How he managed to get himself picked to purify the Truman Administration is a puzzle. Perhaps the Trumanites were seeking for a Republican to envelope them in an ectoplasm of sweetness and light. Whatever it is, they could not have expected Morris to send out a questionnaire invading the privacy of everybody who works for the government. He is quite right in his position that a public man has chosen a public life; yet why should men have to explain why their wives wear mink coats and diamond rings? Maybe, they were bought on the installment plan.

Back in the good old days of Coolidge and Hoover, it was necessary to clean up the messiness of the Harding Administration. As regards the Teapot Dome scandal, eight men were involved. Three of them committed suicide, four were convicted. The eighth, Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty, was let off by two hung juries. All the property involved, Teapot Dome and Elk Hills, was restored to the government.

It was really such a simple matter back in those days, because the administration functioned by due process of the law. No special purifiers were set up to do the job; no questionnaires were sent all over the place indiscriminately.

It was assumed, as it always has been in our law, that every man is innocent until he is proved guilty, and that it is the business of the law-enforcement agencies to get their own information.

The widespread issuance of the questionnaire presumes that everybody is a crook unless he can establish his innocence. Perhaps that is what the socialized society in which we live postulates.

Certainly, questionnaires, inquiries, inspectors, all sorts of means have been employed these many years to keep business men full of ulcers.

Now the tables are turning and the same attitude and the same methods are being applied to public officials. Does your heart bleed for them? It can only be said for Newbold Morris that he is doing what the administration has regularly done to everybody else. They will not like it and on the basis of American law, it is altogether wrong. But they started it.

It will be exciting to see what Newbold Morris does with all this authority and power. Congress has withheld from him the power of subpoena and the right to grant immunity, but he threatens to resign if he is crossed. It is difficult to know what that would do to the President politically, although the Republicans would use it to prove that everybody who did not answer the Morris questionnaire is a self-confessed crook, which may not be so at all.

In another era, most self-respecting men would refuse to answer, and be damned to you, sir! But these days, we are all so suspicious, what with our best friends getting tankers and their wives wearing mink coats on small salaries.

We ought to have lots of amusement out of all this, because Newbold Morris is not only cantankerous but his sense of humor is not of the strongest. He will undoubtedly try to purify the administration in Washington as he tried to purify the city of New York. His chlorination here left the city more crooked than ever, the smart boys somehow feeling secure in their smartness. It was the district attorney of Brooklyn, Miles McDonald, and the Kefauver Committee that really showed who the crooks were and how much they were stealing. And the funny thing about it is that the crooks never stopped doing business to this day. The flexible mind takes advantage of every situation, often nobody really cares.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

TREATMENT OF CARDIOSPASM

A close relative of mine once claimed that she had an obstruction at the lower end of the tube carrying food from the mouth to the stomach. She felt that food eaten remained at the end of this tube and did not enter the stomach. By means of the fluoroscope (X-ray) and a mirror, we let her watch the food as it went down the tube and entered the stomach with no pause or stoppage. This convinced her that there was no obstruction, that the feeling might be present from some former spasm but the food was passing directly into the stomach.

However, there is a condition known as cardiospasm in which a spasm occurring in the lower end of the tube (oesophagus) prevents food from entering the stomach. It is called cardiospasm not because it has anything to do with the heart but because it occurs at the cardia or heart region, instead of at the other end of the stomach (pyloric) where food is pushed out of the stomach.

In The Journal of Thoracic (chest) Surgery, Drs. A. M. Olsen. S. M. Harrington, H. J. Marsh and H. A. Andersen, Mayo Clinic, report the treatment with dilation of 601 patients with cardiospasm during the 12-year period of January, 1935, to January, 1947, while 23 patients with cardiospasm underwent surgical operation to open up the lower end of the tube.

Cardiospasm may be differentiated from spasm of the whole tube, diffuse spasm, as the latter cannot be dilated by the usual method of water bags pushed downward. A follow-up study was made of 452 patients treated by an expanding dilator. Of the 452, 272 (60 per cent) obtained relief for periods of four to 16 years from a single dilation of the tube. In the remaining 180, 94 were given a second course and 36 of them obtained relief for four years. Surgical treatment should be considered when two or more dilations do not give relief.

Follow-up of 23 patients who underwent surgical treatment showed that late results were not favorable, as cases treated had far advanced cardiospasm for which dilatation treatment was impossible or had failed to give relief.

I am writing the above because many individuals with cardiospasm with pain under the breast bone (where heart pain occurs) may think they have heart disease.

"Where'd They Ever Get That Idea?"

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—One of the paradoxes of politics is that President Truman allowed his name to be placed in the New Hampshire primary to save a Democratic national committeeman who consistently plays ball with the Republicans.

The committeeman, Emmet Kelley, was certain to lose his post and with him other organization Democrats, if the President didn't run. Now, however, the race looks so tight in New Hampshire that this little group of Democrats may lose out anyway.

Kelley, for whom Truman did this favor, is so close to New Hampshire Republicans, that GOP Gov. Sherman Adams has consistently appointed him racing commissioner. In return, Kelley has frequently thrown his weight behind Republican policies in order to get Democratic members of the New Hampshire Legislature to support the governor. Kelly is also backed by the banking interests through the First National Bank of Boston, the utilities through Lawrence Whitmore, and works for the stanchly Republican Brown Paper Company of Berlin, N. H. These are the same powerful interests which used part of Kelley's machine to attempt to defeat Senator Tobey, though Tobey supported so many of Truman's policies that his GOP enemies called him a Democrat.

Thus Truman bared his breast and let his name stand in the New Hampshire primary, to save a leader who has consistently opposed his basic principles; yet who, in order to save his political prestige, is now pulling out every card in the deck to put Truman across in the current primary.

Kefauver Creeps Up

To do so Kelley has done the following:

1. Lined up the state's best Democratic vote-getters to run as Truman delegates, and the smartest politicians to manage the Truman campaign. In contrast Senator Kefauver's delegates are unknown, while his political workers are amateurs.

2. Cracked the whip over federal job holders. Jim Farley once said that every federal worker was worth 40 votes, counting his friends and relatives, and, in a small state like New Hampshire, the 2,300 federal jobs are enough to swing a Democratic primary.

3. Swung the labor unions behind Truman. This was accomplished by a 7-to-3 vote of the United Labor Policy Committee which includes the AFL, CIO, United Mine Workers and an independent shoe union.

Despite this, no AFL representative showed up at the recent Manchester meeting at the Rice-Varick Hotel featuring ex-Sen. Scott Lucas of Illinois and ex-Secretary of the Navy John Sullivan; while Adelard Cotey, chairman of the United Labor Policy Committee—though it may be denied—is a secret Kefauver supporter.

Despite these overwhelming Truman odds, however, here is what has been happening in the last week.

By getting out and meeting people, the senator from Tennessee has won rank-and-file support. Though not a stirring speaker, Kefauver's sincerity, modesty and honesty has made a deep imprint, and his whirlwind tour of the state has left a trail of supporters behind. The question is whether it will be enough to offset labor and machine vote.

Sour Scott Lucas

Kefauver completely nonplussed Emmet Kelley by sending a personal messenger to assure him that there would be no hard feelings after the primary. This was done so quietly that it didn't leak to the press, but one of Kefauver's aides marched right into Emmet Kelley's stronghold and delivered the message. Kelley was so flabbergasted that he almost sputtered.

In contrast, ex-Senate Majority Leader Scott Lucas, still nursing a grudge against Kefauver, has invaded New Hampshire to get revenge. Lucas poured out his bitterness at a secret meeting of Democratic leaders at the Rice-Varick Hotel in Manchester.

About 45 leading Democrats came in response to wires from ex-Secretary of the Navy John L. Sullivan, but the meeting was brief and dispirited, with Lucas whining about his defeat in Illinois instead of delivering a fighting, pro-Truman speech.

Lucas, an able citizen when he is able to forget the past, complained that Kefauver had cost him his Senate seat by bringing the crime investigation to Chicago, that Kefauver wouldn't have embarrassed the Democratic party if he had been a good Democrat. Lucas concluded that President Truman is "invaluable in this hour of peril" and "should be persuaded to run again."

Behind the Iron Curtain

Almost unnoticed in the military appropriations bill passed by Congress last year was $100,000,000 to be used for underground operations behind the Iron Curtain. This is something which this columnist has been urging for years.

Most Americans have sat back and followed the policy of letting Communists penetrate the USA, without penetrating the Iron Curtain in return. This was one reason for the freedom balloons launched over Czechoslovakia and Poland last summer which had amazing results in giving hope to people who believed they were forgotten.

However, following the $100,000,000 appropriation by Congress last year, almost nothing has been done to use it for penetrating the Iron Curtain. It has been snarled, partly in a bureaucratic controversy over how the money shall be spent, partly in a controversy over Russian refugees.

Recently, however, Sen. Pat McCarran of Nevada has been applying pressure to break this stalemate. He has thrown his weight behind the Ukrainians, some of whose leaders are active in the USA.

While other Russian refugees in the United States are opposed to the Ukrainians, claiming they are so rabid that they play into Stalin's hands, nevertheless it's a fact that, more than any other group inside Russia, the Ukrainians have the nationalist urge. For years they have sought to be independent of the Soviet.

Last winter, this writer, surveying conditions alongside the Iron Curtain, interviewed Ukrainian refugees who reported that the underground movement was still reasonably strong inside that part of the Soviet. While actual fighting against Soviet officials had been crushed, the refugees reported that resentment was still smouldering and could be fanned again.

It would appear therefore, that, despite the risk of antagonizing other Russian refugee groups, Senator McCarran is right in urging that a start be made with the Ukranians toward the all-important job of penetrating the Iron Curtain.

Note—Ever since the freedom balloon operation of last summer which dropped 22,000,000 messages over Poland and Czechoslovakia, I have been trying to persuade key officials in Washington to permit another operation of this kind. The Crusade for Freedom has been doing likewise. But permission has not been forthcoming, largely because of crossed wires between different government bureaus regarding the problem of penetrating the Iron Curtain.

Says Truman Unwilling

Elmira, N. Y., March 10 (AP)—One member of the President's cabinet says he believes Harry Truman doesn't want to run again.

Secretary of Interior Oscar Chapman told reporters yesterday he had urged Truman twice last week to be a candidate, but got the impression the President was unwilling. Chapman came here to address a bonds for Israel rally.

Republicans Are Urged to Attack Democrats Not Disagree Among Own Party

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, March 10—Whatever else the New Hampshire primary may prove to those politically-minded citizens who like to compare the relative merits of the candidates, it doesn't prove that the Republican spokesmen have learned as yet how to win votes for the Republican ticket itself.

Instead of a contest between candidates or their sponsors seeking to demonstrate their ability on the stump to expose the weaknesses of the Truman administration or to extoll the strong points of the Republican party, the rival speakers have devoted themselves unnecessarily to a disparagement of the other fellow's fitness to become an effective Republican nominee.

Dispatches telling of attacks by Sen. Taft on Gen. Eisenhower and the attacks by former Gov. Stassen on Sen. Taft, as read by voters throughout the country, seem to emphasize personalities rather than principles. Maybe the various Republican speakers think such a techniquue is important as a vote-getting proposition, but it would have been refreshing if the campaign in New Hampshire had been devoted wholly to a thorough exposure of the Truman administration and to a recital of the reasons why a house-cleaning conducted by the Republican party would be beneficial to the country as a whole.

What some of the Republicans prominent in national politics do not seem yet to have grasped is that, if President Truman doesn't run, a new Democratic nominee who is skillful with the civil rights issue will start off with an enrollment of Democrats constituting a substantial majority of the voters in this country. With New Hampshire turning the spotlight of publicity on Republican methods of campaigning, apparently little use has been made of the extraordinary opportunity given the Republicans in that spectacular primary race.

It wasn't at all necessary to indulge in personalities because the different candidates, through their spokesmen, really represented differing approaches to national and international policy, and the public would have been intensely interested in a thorough debate on the individual viewpoints of Sen. Taft, Mr. Stassen, and Gen. Eisenhower on the major issues. While Gen. Eisenhower himself could not campaign, his speeches before he went to Europe and the articles that have been published reflecting his views give a definite impression and foreign policy. His views are as open to criticism as are the views of his rivals.

Sen. Taft has a good story to tell audiences. He is a forthright speaker, and he knows his subject very intimately. An exposition of his ideas on what must be done on the major problems of the days is far more interesting than comments on Gen. Eisenhower's ability as a future campaigner. Gov. Stassen has some interesting ideas on foreign and domestic policy. This was the time to explain them in detail.

There are more state primaries to come. They will give further opportunities to the competing candidates to demonstrate why each thinks he is fitted to be the standard bearer. It would seem that a speaker who proves his ability to demolish the record of the incumbent administration is far more likely to appeal to Republicans in the various primaries as the man best able to lead them in the actual campaign than a debater who tends to accentuate the cleavages between factions in the party. For, once the preconvention campaign is over, it will require the wholehearted effort of all the Republicans behind whatever candidate is nominated if the election is to be won.

While there is every reason to believe from the present outlook that Truman would be beaten overwhelmingly or that, at best for the Democrats, the election would be thrown into the House of Representatives, where Truman certainly would be eliminated, there is a strong possibility that some Democrat other than Truman—it could still be Chief Justice Vinson—would make a stronger race than the Republicans now are expecting.

The New Hampshire primaries should have been a rehearsal or testing ground for the major campaign. It might well teach a lesson to the Republican contenders that future harmony will come better from debates on issues rather than from attacks on persons in the same political party.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Rome—Regardless of its effect on the gullible Italian factory hand and the simple side-hill dodger pruning his grapes and hoeing his artichokes, the vision of the United States that is presented by the political agents of the Truman administration through the United States Information Service at your expense is, in round numbers, a pack of lies.

"According to law" says a propaganda tract on our union monopolies, "workers have the right to organize unions as they think best—." This is an outright, deliberate lie appealing to a nation which, frankly, enjoyed life under fascism with its corporations of labor managed by a cabinet officer. The workers in the United States lost their right to "organize unions as they think best" when a circle of New Deal conspirators, whose identity never has been frankly revealed, concocted a Fascist law called the Wagner Act which forced millions of our people to become members of and pay political extortion to subsidiaries of the Democratic party. Those who tried thereafter to organize free unions to protect themselves against the Communists of the CIO, some of whom were close friends of Franklin and Eleanor Roosevelt and of Felix Frankfurter, and to break the power of gangsters and other dictators of the A.F. of L. were denounced as "dual unionists" and "disrupters." Some were killed.

One of those who lost his life was shot dead in front of his modest home in Chicago a few days after he had given evidence to an agent of the treasury in the old Federal Building regarding the income of William E. Maloney, the president of the Operating Engineers' Union, a racket of historic notoriety. His name was William Bruce Zeigler and he had tried to clean up a rotten condition in his own local. He had a wife and seven children. After he gave evidence regarding Maloney's income under the stupid assumption that the federal government would take appropriate action and give him police protection, he telephoned the treasury agent one evening in great fear to say that two officials of the National Union had chased him in a downtown street. As he got away, he heard one of them yell "God damn you; we will get you yet!"

The agent was not a policeman and therefore could not attach himself to Ziegler as a bodyguard. Within the week, it happened that the street light nearest Ziegler's home was out of commission as he returned at night from his futile search for work in a town where the union blacklist revokes the right of decent men to earn their living. In the dark, he was shot dead. Nobody ever was arrested. If the treasury ever found any fault with Maloney's tax returns, the information was not revealed.

The treasury agent carefully recorded the facts.

And the picture of that same Maloney, stout and prosperous and dressed in luxurious tweedy stuff, was published on page one of the "AFL News-Reporter" in the issue of Jan. 30, which covered the winter meeting of the grand inner circle of high-binders at Miami Beach.

Maloney is a rich man with a racing stable and a breeding farm in Illinois. He also has a grand winter home on Miami Beach, which J. Edgar Hoover once described as the hibernating place of "the criminal scum." It is close by the official winter palace which the faceless fools of the Teamsters Union were compelled to establish for Daniel J. Tobin, their grand exalted fathead, and the old Nitti estate where that supreme ruler of the moving picture

STALEMATE SITUATION IN KOREA

Some harsh realities about Korea now have to be faced. The American and United Nations position with respect to the Communist enemy is not an enviable one, either in the field or around the table at Panmunjom.

Truce negotiations in Korea have been under way for eight months. In that span the most important single field factor is that we have apparently lost control of the air. A great step-up in Communist anti-aircraft power, plus a large increase in its jet fighter force, has given the enemy an edge over our limited air strength.

This has great meaning when applied to the prospect of any future resumption of full-scale war. We are no longer able to shoot up Red supply lines and harry troop concentrations almost at will. Moreover, the oft-discussed plan of bombing Red Manchurian bases is now almost an academic matter. It is extremely doubtful we could pull it off successfully.

Therefore any war that we might be called upon to fight in the immediate months ahead would of necessity have to be more limited in purpose than that which we have fought so far. It would be silly to say: "Let's go in there and finish them off."

We are not equipped to do it. In other words, in an early resumption of real combat we should have to hope mainly to achieve the same kind of stalemate which now prevails during the course of the truce talks.

But since our power to hurt Red supply lines has diminished, we might find it harder than ever to keep a stalemate. The outlook in the field consequently cannot help but increase the pressure upon our negotiators at Panmunjom to come up with some sort of agreement that will avert the necessity of resuming heavy combat.

But here, too, our hopes are not bright. Since we no longer can exert battlefield pressure upon Red negotiators, we are forced to await their pleasure before concluding a truce — assuming always that the Communists really want one. Despite this uncomfortable fact, we still have not lost our courage at the council table. We have stubbornly held out against Red demands for the right to build airfields in North Korea; we demand really effective inspection behind the truce lines, and we are against repatriation of Red prisoners who do not wish to return to Communist territory.

Yet even if we should win our way on the airfield and inspection issues, the chance is great that the victory would be empty.

The Communists are masters at administrative sabotage. It is pretty certain they would keep any UN inspectors effectively snarled in red tape, and build such airfields as they chose.

As for the prisoner question, there seems to be no ground for compromise at all. We must either give way or face the likelihood that UN prisoners of war will spend prolonged months and perhaps years in enemy camps. The blunt fact is that the initiative in Korea is not ours.

Our choices seem to be resumption of full war under less favorable circumstances than before, endless dragging on of the truce talks while our armies mark time and eat up equipment and money, or an uneasy truce which leaves the way open to renewed Communist attack when the moment suits the Red high command in Moscow.

We scoff at the French failure to liquidate the Red guerrillas in Indo-China, and the British stand-off against the Reds in Malaya. Yet we are now in almost their identical position. We are engaged in an enervating, strength-sapping enterprise which seems to have no end and appears to bear ultimate promise only for our enemy.

SOUND OF SPRING

A sure sign of the approach of spring is the start of training by major league baseball teams. All winter the dyed-in-the-bleachers baseball fan has had to content himself with re-hashing last year's pennant races and World Series. If his favorite team ended the season far from first place he had nothing to do but spend the dreary months of snow and ice hoping for improvement. Now the season is not too far off.

In the southern training camps the players are working out to be in top shape on opening day. It is rumored that President Truman will toss a few practice strikes on his visit to Key West. He may have to throw out the first ball again this year. From America's warmer climes comes the sound of a bat cracking against horsehide and the thud of a fast ball into a catcher's mitt. To the baseball fan the sound is more welcome than the voice of the turtle dove.

'These Days'

THE TAIL OF A TIGER

I do not know how well President Truman knows Newbold Morris, but when he took on the New York reformer to purify his administration, he took a chance on Morris eventually going after the President himself.

Newbold possesses no penchant for partisan regularity. He calls himself a Republican, as was his father before him, but he has been in and out of Republican regularity, often being a Liberal and always closely associated with Fiorello La Guardia. He was a fighting, one might almost say, an obstreperous President of the Council in New York City. He has run independently for mayor and has been defeated.

How he managed to get himself picked to purify the Truman Administration is a puzzle. Perhaps the Trumanites were seeking for a Republican to envelope them in an ectoplasm of sweetness and light. Whatever it is, they could not have expected Morris to send out a questionnaire invading the privacy of everybody who works for the government. He is quite right in his position that a public man has chosen a public life; yet why should men have to explain why their wives wear mink coats and diamond rings? Maybe, they were bought on the installment plan.

Back in the good old days of Coolidge and Hoover, it was necessary to clean up the messiness of the Harding Administration. As regards the Teapot Dome scandal, eight men were involved. Three of them committed suicide, four were convicted. The eighth, Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty, was let off by two hung juries. All the property involved, Teapot Dome and Elk Hills, was restored to the government.

It was really such a simple matter back in those days, because the administration functioned by due process of the law. No special purifiers were set up to do the job; no questionnaires were sent all over the place indiscriminately.

It was assumed, as it always has been in our law, that every man is innocent until he is proved guilty, and that it is the business of the law-enforcement agencies to get their own information.

The widespread issuance of the questionnaire presumes that everybody is a crook unless he can establish his innocence. Perhaps that is what the socialized society in which we live postulates.

Certainly, questionnaires, inquiries, inspectors, all sorts of means have been employed these many years to keep business men full of ulcers.

Now the tables are turning and the same attitude and the same methods are being applied to public officials. Does your heart bleed for them? It can only be said for Newbold Morris that he is doing what the administration has regularly done to everybody else. They will not like it and on the basis of American law, it is altogether wrong. But they started it.

It will be exciting to see what Newbold Morris does with all this authority and power. Congress has withheld from him the power of subpoena and the right to grant immunity, but he threatens to resign if he is crossed. It is difficult to know what that would do to the President politically, although the Republicans would use it to prove that everybody who did not answer the Morris questionnaire is a self-confessed crook, which may not be so at all.

In another era, most self-respecting men would refuse to answer, and be damned to you, sir! But these days, we are all so suspicious, what with our best friends getting tankers and their wives wearing mink coats on small salaries.

We ought to have lots of amusement out of all this, because Newbold Morris is not only cantankerous but his sense of humor is not of the strongest. He will undoubtedly try to purify the administration in Washington as he tried to purify the city of New York. His chlorination here left the city more crooked than ever, the smart boys somehow feeling secure in their smartness. It was the district attorney of Brooklyn, Miles McDonald, and the Kefauver Committee that really showed who the crooks were and how much they were stealing. And the funny thing about it is that the crooks never stopped doing business to this day. The flexible mind takes advantage of every situation, often nobody really cares.

That Body of Yours

TREATMENT OF CARDIOSPASM

A close relative of mine once claimed that she had an obstruction at the lower end of the tube carrying food from the mouth to the stomach. She felt that food eaten remained at the end of this tube and did not enter the stomach. By means of the fluoroscope (X-ray) and a mirror, we let her watch the food as it went down the tube and entered the stomach with no pause or stoppage. This convinced her that there was no obstruction, that the feeling might be present from some former spasm but the food was passing directly into the stomach.

However, there is a condition known as cardiospasm in which a spasm occurring in the lower end of the tube (oesophagus) prevents food from entering the stomach. It is called cardiospasm not because it has anything to do with the heart but because it occurs at the cardia or heart region, instead of at the other end of the stomach (pyloric) where food is pushed out of the stomach.

In The Journal of Thoracic (chest) Surgery, Drs. A. M. Olsen, S. M. Harrington, H. J. Marsh and H. A. Andersen, Mayo Clinic, report the treatment with dilation of 601 patients with cardiospasm during the 12-year period of January, 1935, to January, 1947, while 23 patients with cardiospasm underwent surgical operation to open up the lower end of the tube.

Cardiospasm may be differentiated from spasm of the whole tube, diffuse spasm, as the latter cannot be dilated by the usual method of water bags pushed downward. A follow-up study was made of 452 patients treated by an expanding dilator. Of the 452, 272 (60 per cent) obtained relief for periods of four to 16 years from a single dilation of the tube. In the remaining 180, 94 were given a second course and 36 of them obtained relief for four years. Surgical treatment should be considered when two or more dilations do not give relief.

Follow-up of 23 patients who underwent surgical treatment showed that late results were not favorable, as cases treated had far advanced cardiospasm for which dilatation treatment was impossible or had failed to give relief.

I am writing the above because many individuals with cardiospasm with pain under the breast bone (where heart pain occurs) may think they have heart disease.

"Where'd They Ever Get That Idea?"

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—One of the paradoxes of politics is that President Truman allowed his name to be placed in the New Hampshire primary to save a Democratic national committeeman who consistently plays ball with the Republicans.

The committeeman, Emmet Kelley, was certain to lose his post and with him other organization Democrats, if the President didn't run. Now, however, the race looks so tight in New Hampshire that this little group of Democrats may lose out anyway.

Kelley, for whom Truman did this favor, is so close to New Hampshire Republicans, that GOP Gov. Sherman Adams has consistently appointed him racing commissioner. In return, Kelley has frequently thrown his weight behind Republican policies in order to get Democratic members of the New Hampshire Legislature to support the governor. Kelly is also backed by the banking interests through the First National Bank of Boston, the utilities through Lawrence Whitmore, and works for the stanchly Republican Brown Paper Company of Berlin, N. H. These are the same powerful interests which used part of Kelley's machine to attempt to defeat Senator Tobey, though Tobey supported so many of Truman's policies that his GOP enemies called him a Democrat.

Thus Truman bared his breast and let his name stand in the New Hampshire primary, to save a leader who has consistently opposed his basic principles; yet who, in order to save his political prestige, is now pulling out every card in the deck to put Truman across in the current primary.

Kefauver Creeps Up

To do so Kelley has done the following:

1. Lined up the state's best Democratic vote-getters to run as Truman delegates, and the smartest politicians to manage the Truman campaign. In contrast Senator Kefauver's delegates are unknown, while his political workers are amateurs.

2. Cracked the whip over federal job holders. Jim Farley once said that every federal worker was worth 40 votes, counting his friends and relatives, and, in a small state like New Hampshire, the 2,300 federal jobs are enough to swing a Democratic primary.

3. Swung the labor unions behind Truman. This was accomplished by a 7-to-3 vote of the United Labor Policy Committee which includes the AFL, CIO, United Mine Workers and an independent shoe union.

Despite this, no AFL representative showed up at the recent Manchester meeting at the Rice-Varick Hotel featuring ex-Sen. Scott Lucas of Illinois and ex-Secretary of the Navy John Sullivan; while Adelard Cotey, chairman of the United Labor Policy Committee—though it may be denied—is a secret Kefauver supporter.

Despite these overwhelming Truman odds, however, here is what has been happening in the last week.

By getting out and meeting people, the senator from Tennessee has won rank-and-file support. Though not a stirring speaker, Kefauver's sincerity, modesty and honesty has made a deep imprint, and his whirlwind tour of the state has left a trail of supporters behind. The question is whether it will be enough to offset labor and machine vote.

Sour Scott Lucas

Kefauver completely nonplussed Emmet Kelley by sending a personal messenger to assure him that there would be no hard feelings after the primary. This was done so quietly that it didn't leak to the press, but one of Kefauver's aides marched right into Emmet Kelley's stronghold and delivered the message. Kelley was so flabbergasted that he almost sputtered.

In contrast, ex-Senate Majority Leader Scott Lucas, still nursing a grudge against Kefauver, has invaded New Hampshire to get revenge. Lucas poured out his bitterness at a secret meeting of Democratic leaders at the Rice-Varick Hotel in Manchester.

About 45 leading Democrats came in response to wires from ex-Secretary of the Navy John L. Sullivan, but the meeting was brief and dispirited, with Lucas whining about his defeat in Illinois instead of delivering a fighting, pro-Truman speech.

Lucas, an able citizen when he is able to forget the past, complained that Kefauver had cost him his Senate seat by bringing the crime investigation to Chicago, that Kefauver wouldn't have embarrassed the Democratic party if he had been a good Democrat. Lucas concluded that President Truman is "invaluable in this hour of peril" and "should be persuaded to run again."

Behind the Iron Curtain

Almost unnoticed in the military appropriations bill passed by Congress last year was $100,000,000 to be used for underground operations behind the Iron Curtain. This is something which this columnist has been urging for years.

Most Americans have sat back and followed the policy of letting Communists penetrate the USA, without penetrating the Iron Curtain in return. This was one reason for the freedom balloons launched over Czechoslovakia and Poland last summer which had amazing results in giving hope to people who believed they were forgotten.

However, following the $100,000,000 appropriation by Congress last year, almost nothing has been done to use it for penetrating the Iron Curtain. It has been snarled, partly in a bureaucratic controversy over how the money shall be spent, partly in a controversy over Russian refugees.

Recently, however, Sen. Pat McCarran of Nevada has been applying pressure to break this stalemate. He has thrown his weight behind the Ukrainians, some of whose leaders are active in the USA.

While other Russian refugees in the United States are opposed to the Ukrainians, claiming they are so rabid that they play into Stalin's hands, nevertheless it's a fact that, more than any other group inside Russia, the Ukrainians have the nationalist urge. For years they have sought to be independent of the Soviet.

Last winter, this writer, surveying conditions alongside the Iron Curtain, interviewed Ukrainian refugees who reported that the underground movement was still reasonably strong inside that part of the Soviet. While actual fighting against Soviet officials had been crushed, the refugees reported that resentment was still smouldering and could be fanned again.

It would appear therefore, that, despite the risk of antagonizing other Russian refugee groups, Senator McCarran is right in urging that a start be made with the Ukranians toward the all-important job of penetrating the Iron Curtain.

Note—Ever since the freedom balloon operation of last summer which dropped 22,000,000 messages over Poland and Czechoslovakia, I have been trying to persuade key officials in Washington to permit another operation of this kind. The Crusade for Freedom has been doing likewise. But permission has not been forthcoming, largely because of crossed wires between different government bureaus regarding the problem of penetrating the Iron Curtain.

Secretary of Interior Oscar Chapman told reporters yesterday he had urged Truman twice last week to be a candidate, but got the impression the President was unwilling. Chapman came here to address a bonds for Israel rally.

Today in Washington

Republicans Are Urged to Attack Democrats Not Disagree Among Own Party

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, March 10—Whatever else the New Hampshire primary may prove to those politically-minded citizens who like to compare the relative merits of the candidates, it doesn't prove that the Republican spokesmen have learned as yet how to win votes for the Republican ticket itself.

Instead of a contest between candidates or their sponsors seeking to demonstrate their ability on the stump to expose the weaknesses of the Truman administration or to extoll the strong points of the Republican party, the rival speakers have devoted themselves unnecessarily to a disparagement of the other fellow's fitness to become an effective Republican nominee.

Dispatches telling of attacks by Sen. Taft on Gen. Eisenhower and the attacks by former Gov. Stassen on Sen. Taft, as read by voters throughout the country, seem to emphasize personalities rather than principles. Maybe the various Republican speakers think such a techniquue is important as a vote-getting proposition, but it would have been refreshing if the campaign in New Hampshire had been devoted wholly to a thorough exposure of the Truman administration and to a recital of the reasons why a house-cleaning conducted by the Republican party would be beneficial to the country as a whole.

What some of the Republicans prominent in national politics do not seem yet to have grasped is that, if President Truman doesn't run, a new Democratic nominee who is skillful with the civil rights issue will start off with an enrollment of Democrats constituting a substantial majority of the voters in this country. With New Hampshire turning the spotlight of publicity on Republican methods of campaigning, apparently little use has been made of the extraordinary opportunity given the Republicans in that spectacular primary race.

It wasn't at all necessary to indulge in personalities because the different candidates, through their spokesmen, really represented differing approaches to national and international policy, and the public would have been intensely interested in a thorough debate on the individual viewpoints of Sen. Taft, Mr. Stassen, and Gen. Eisenhower on the major issues. While Gen. Eisenhower himself could not campaign, his speeches before he went to Europe and the articles that have been published reflecting his views give a definite impression and foreign policy. His views are as open to criticism as are the views of his rivals.

Sen. Taft has a good story to tell audiences. He is a forthright speaker, and he knows his subject very intimately. An exposition of his ideas on what must be done on the major problems of the days is far more interesting than comments on Gen. Eisenhower's ability as a future campaigner. Gov. Stassen has some interesting ideas on foreign and domestic policy. This was the time to explain them in detail.

There are more state primaries to come. They will give further opportunities to the competing candidates to demonstrate why each thinks he is fitted to be the standard bearer. It would seem that a speaker who proves his ability to demolish the record of the incumbent administration is far more likely to appeal to Republicans in the various primaries as the man best able to lead them in the actual campaign than a debater who tends to accentuate the cleavages between factions in the party. For, once the preconvention campaign is over, it will require the wholehearted effort of all the Republicans behind whatever candidate is nominated if the election is to be won.

While there is every reason to believe from the present outlook that Truman would be beaten overwhelmingly or that, at best for the Democrats, the election would be thrown into the House of Representatives, where Truman certainly would be eliminated, there is a strong possibility that some Democrat other than Truman—it could still be Chief Justice Vinson—would make a stronger race than the Republicans now are expecting.

The New Hampshire primaries should have been a rehearsal or testing ground for the major campaign. It might well teach a lesson to the Republican contenders that future harmony will come better from debates on issues rather than from attacks on persons in the same political party.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Rome—Regardless of its effect on the gullible Italian factory hand and the simple side-hill dodger pruning his grapes and hoeing his artichokes, the vision of the United States that is presented by the political agents of the Truman administration through the United States Information Service at your expense is, in round numbers, a pack of lies.

"According to law" says a propaganda tract on our union monopolies, "workers have the right to organize unions as they think best—." This is an outright, deliberate lie appealing to a nation which, frankly, enjoyed life under fascism with its corporations of labor managed by a cabinet officer. The workers in the United States lost their right to "organize unions as they think best" when a circle of New Deal conspirators, whose identity never has been frankly revealed, concocted a Fascist law called the Wagner Act which forced millions of our people to become members of and pay political extortion to subsidiaries of the Democratic party. Those who tried thereafter to organize free unions to protect themselves against the Communists of the CIO, some of whom were close friends of Franklin and Eleanor Roosevelt and of Felix Frankfurter, and to break the power of gangsters and other dictators of the A.F. of L. were denounced as "dual unionists" and "disrupters." Some were killed.

One of those who lost his life was shot dead in front of his modest home in Chicago a few days after he had given evidence to an agent of the treasury in the old Federal Building regarding the income of William E. Maloney, the president of the Operating Engineers' Union, a racket of historic notoriety. His name was William Bruce Zeigler and he had tried to clean up a rotten condition in his own local. He had a wife and seven children. After he gave evidence regarding Maloney's income under the stupid assumption that the federal government would take appropriate action and give him police protection, he telephoned the treasury agent one evening in great fear to say that two officials of the National Union had chased him in a downtown street. As he got away, he heard one of them yell "God damn you; we will get you yet!"

The agent was not a policeman and therefore could not attach himself to Ziegler as a bodyguard. Within the week, it happened that the street light nearest Ziegler's home was out of commission as he returned at night from his futile search for work in a town where the union blacklist revokes the right of decent men to earn their living. In the dark, he was shot dead. Nobody ever was arrested. If the treasury ever found any fault with Maloney's tax returns, the information was not revealed.

The treasury agent carefully recorded the facts.

And the picture of that same Maloney, stout and prosperous and dressed in luxurious tweedy stuff, was published on page one of the "AFL News-Reporter" in the issue of Jan. 30, which covered the winter meeting of the grand inner circle of high-binders at Miami Beach.

Maloney is a rich man with a racing stable and a breeding farm in Illinois. He also has a grand winter home on Miami Beach, which J. Edgar Hoover once described as the hibernating place of "the criminal scum." It is close by the official winter palace which the faceless fools of the Teamsters Union were compelled to establish for Daniel J. Tobin, their grand exalted fathead, and the old Nitti estate where that supreme ruler of the moving picture unions dwelt in spendor until he got a disease and shot himself.

There on the cover of the official journal of the AFL, the number dedicated to the annual drinking, gambling and hell-raising of these ugly parasites on American labor, industry and society, is a picture, covering half the page, of Maloney and two other old leeches studying a racing form. In the big picture below the fold, we find a likeness of George Meany, the secretary-treasurer of the racket who made a tour of Europe last fall and, on his return, made a dismal report that the saps in France and Italy were not as easily hooked as the Americans.

The AF of L had spent a fortune maintaining a team of "ambassadors" over here to snatch the Latins from the grasp of Communism. But the reputation of American unionism had preceded them and the European governments, since fascism went out of style, have not tried to blackjack workers into unions according to the American system.

Therefore the "ambassadors" had little to show for their expense accounts but swollen girth and pleasant memories of the Riviera, Paris Innsbruck and St. Moritz. So there was sad news for the executive council. Them foreign bums just wasn't ready for the boon of collective bargaining.

On page two in a touching expression of gratitude, the AFL News-Reporter runs a picture of Sen. Estes Kefauver, who ran the great crusade against criminal aggregations and, by nimble dodging, managed not to encounter the American Federation of Labor. Senator Kefauver is shaking hands with himself and, in return for the favor of his polite indifference to the criminal pursuits of unions, he gets half a column to state his "record" of consistent obedience to their political designs.

So here we are, with a great machine of tenacious, desultory parasites, typical of the Washington bureaucracy, spreading an expensive but ineffective web of lies to the people of Italy, who can't respond one way or another because the Roosevelt machine delivered them to the Communists even before the war was over, where they remain today, about 3,000,000 strong, with fewer than half a million Catholics and Fascists, altogether, in two little unions of the opposing fold.

Civil Air Patrol Pilots Are Injured in Crash

New York, March 10 (AP)—Two Civil Air Patrol flyers were injured when their plane crashed at Miller Field on Staten Island shortly after its take-off Saturday.

The plane, a single motor light liaison type of craft, was about 100 feet high when it fell to the field and was demolished.

The pilot, Captain Arthur Whiteman of (67-54 Exeter street) Forest Hills, Queens, was seriously injured. The observer, 2nd Lt. Donovan Dixon, of New York city, was hurt less seriously.

Both were taken to the U. S. Marine Hospital on Staten Island. The cause of the crash was not determined immediately.

The plane was among a number engaged in weekend CAP maneuvers.

More than $5,000,000 has been distributed in Nobel prize awards.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

When the Mechanix Illustrated magazine turns out an article on a particular subject such as "autographs" it covers all the phases. I have quoted from their copy of March, 1952, recently, on the value of autographs. Of course, it also is illustrated. Did you ever think of canceled checks as worth money. They are worth about $100 if for instance they carry the signature of Abraham Lincoln. One is shown there made out for $5, dated Feb. 21, 1868, but because of the unusual way the Lincoln check was made, that particular one is worth about $600. What a find it would be to find a bunch of canceled checks of famous people.

The article also advises, "Sometimes letters of unknowns have considerable value simply because they shed light on certain periods of history. A baker from Atlanta, Ga., found some letters recently which had been written by his grandfather, a Confederate soldier. His ancestor was not a famous man but the letters painted a vivid, authentic picture of life at the front during the Civil War, which brought in a tidy sum."

I never knew what the word, "Holographs" meant until I read the article. It means, "letters written enirely by hand" which the writer says are worth more than typewritten ones or letters written by secretaries and signed by the individual. Ordinary holographs of Franklin D. Roosevelt, Herbert Hoover and President Truman might bring from $100 to $500 each, whereas signed, typed letters by these presidents may not be worth more than $10. President Truman's letter calling the Marines, "the navy's police force" etc., was recently bought by a Chicago insurance man and enriched the Marine Corps League to the tune of $2,500. An equally high price was paid by a Connecticut man for President Truman's letter to Paul Hume, the Washington music critic.

The article further states: "A George Washington letter of routine content is worth about $100 but one written while he was encamped at Valley Forge may bring $200 and $1,000. It is said for instance, that Franklin D. Roosevelt used to ignore all requests for autographs. One autograph hound knowing F.D.R.'s weakness for postage stamp bargains wrote him about a bargain collection he had and so received Roosevelt's check for the stamps. The autograph hunter might have lost money on the stamp transaction but he sold the signed check for more than face value, so it goes.

Many stories are told on Bernard Shaw's cleverness, and it seems he was not known to throw away his money. He had a destitute friend who he knew would never stoop to ask Shaw for money. Shaw realized this and periodically would drop him a simple note asking about his health. Shaw knew the market value of his letters and that his friend could sell them at a substantial sum. It only cost Bernard Shaw a postage stamp and the stationery it was written on, but his friend received a good amount for it, and a collector was glad to buy it.

As Pegler Sees It

unions dwelt in spendor until he got a disease and shot himself.

There on the cover of the official journal of the AFL, the number dedicated to the annual drinking, gambling and hell-raising of these ugly parasites on American labor, industry and society, is a picture, covering half the page, of Maloney and two other old leeches studying a racing form. In the big picture below the fold, we find a likeness of George Meany, the secretary-treasurer of the racket who made a tour of Europe last fall and, on his return, made a dismal report that the saps in France and Italy were not as easily hooked as the Americans.

The AF of L had spent a fortune maintaining a team of "ambassadors" over here to snatch the Latins from the grasp of Communism. But the reputation of American unionism had preceded them and the European governments, since fascism went out of style, have not tried to blackjack workers into unions according to the American system.

Therefore the "ambassadors" had little to show for their expense accounts but swollen girth and pleasant memories of the Riviera, Paris Innsbruck and St. Moritz. So there was sad news for the executive council. Them foreign bums just wasn't ready for the boon of collective bargaining.

On page two in a touching expression of gratitude, the AFL News-Reporter runs a picture of Sen. Estes Kefauver, who ran the great crusade against criminal aggregations and, by nimble dodging, managed not to encounter the American Federation of Labor. Senator Kefauver is shaking hands with himself and, in return for the favor of his polite indifference to the criminal pursuits of unions, he gets half a column to state his "record" of consistent obedience to their political designs.

So here we are, with a great machine of tenacious, desultory parasites, typical of the Washington bureaucracy, spreading an expensive but ineffective web of lies to the people of Italy, who can't respond one way or another because the Roosevelt machine delivered them to the Communists even before the war was over, where they remain today, about 3,000,000 strong, with fewer than half a million Catholics and Fascists, altogether, in two little unions of the opposing fold.

Civil Air Patrol Pilots Are Injured in Crash

New York, March 10 (AP)—Two Civil Air Patrol flyers were injured when their plane crashed at Miller Field on Staten Island shortly after its take-off Saturday.

The plane, a single motor light liaison type of craft, was about 100 feet high when it fell to the field and was demolished.

The pilot, Captain Arthur Whiteman of (67-54 Exeter street) Forest Hills, Queens, was seriously injured. The observer, 2nd Lt. Donovan Dixon, of New York city, was hurt less seriously.

Both were taken to the U. S. Marine Hospital on Staten Island. The cause of the crash was not determined immediately.

The plane was among a number engaged in weekend CAP maneuvers.

More than $5,000,000 has been distributed in Nobel prize awards.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

When the Mechanix Illustrated magazine turns out an article on a particular subject such as "autographs" it covers all the phases. I have quoted from their copy of March, 1952, recently, on the value of autographs. Of course, it also is illustrated. Did you ever think of canceled checks as worth money. They are worth about $100 if for instance they carry the signature of Abraham Lincoln. One is shown there made out for $5, dated Feb. 21, 1868, but because of the unusual way the Lincoln check was made, that particular one is worth about $600. What a find it would be to find a bunch of canceled checks of famous people.

The article also advises, "Sometimes letters of unknowns have considerable value simply because they shed light on certain periods of history. A baker from Atlanta, Ga., found some letters recently which had been written by his grandfather, a Confederate soldier. His ancestor was not a famous man but the letters painted a vivid, authentic picture of life at the front during the Civil War, which brought in a tidy sum."

I never knew what the word, "Holographs" meant until I read the article. It means, "letters written enirely by hand" which the writer says are worth more than typewritten ones or letters written by secretaries and signed by the individual. Ordinary holographs of Franklin D. Roosevelt, Herbert Hoover and President Truman might bring from $100 to $500 each, whereas signed, typed letters by these presidents may not be worth more than $10. Jacoby on Canasta

Play Safe, Watch Your Melding

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

"Here is a playing problem from one of our recent games," writes a Chicago reader. "The opponents started the hand with a bang by melding a canasta of kings and minor melds in queens, jacks, sevens, sixes and fives. Each opponent had taken the pile a couple of times, and each opponent held six cards in his hand.

"By this time, my hand was Joker K-K Q-Q J-J 7 4-4-4 2

We needed 90 points for the initial meld. What was the best way for me to meld? Should I meld the joker with the queens and the deuce with the jacks, or is it better to meld both wild cards with either the queens or the jacks? Or should I put down one of the wild cards with the fourspots?"

Think it over friend reader, and decide for yourself how you would play in this situation. Then read on and see whether or not you agree with my opinion.

If I were playing this hand, I would not make any initial meld at all. I would discard the deuce, thus freezing the discard pile.

This play would give me umpteen safe discards—the seven to begin with, followed by the kings, queens, and the jacks. I could practically guarantee not to give away the pile.

What about my partner? He has a full-hand, playing against a six-card hand. Why should he have any trouble discarding—provided he has been watching the play and is an experienced player?

We might not win the discard pile, but we certainly wouldn't give it away. At worst, the opponents might meld out quickly, thus bringing this miserable hand to a relatively painless end.

Now see what happens if you decide to meld with this hand instead of freezing the pack. If you meld with the picture cards, you are wasting your wild cards on melds that are most unlikely to develop into canastas. And even the fourspots are no bargain.

What's more a meld puts you in such a position that you will have to give away the discard pile very soon. This will allow the opponents to prolong the hand and run up a really big score.

Mr. Jacoby is unable to answer individual questions on Canasta from readers. However, he will include the most frequently asked questions in his column.

Battalion Chief Dies In Metropolitan Blaze

New York, March 10 (AP) — A battalion fire chief was killed Saturday night when a gas-fed fire mushroomed through a top floor apartment of an uptown building.

A lieutenant and three other firemen were burned in the fire, but none of these required hospitalization.

The dead chief was John M. J. McGowan, of the 11th Battalion. He was 52 and unmarried. He lived at 35-41 90th street, Jackson Heights, Queens.

He died from inhaling flame and smoke while directing operations.

Witnesses said a cloud of superheated air, mingled with combustible gases, burst into flame while the firemen were at work and the chief collapsed instantly.

He was carried to a lower floor and given first aid, then was brought down to the street, where he was pronounced dead an hour later after efforts to revive him failed.

C-47 Crashes

Omaha, March 10 (AP)—An air force C-47 crashed and burned early today at Offutt Air Force Base near here, but all 12 men aboard escaped unharmed. An Offutt spokesman said the military transport plane, based at Mountain Home, Ida., had just taken off for Ogden Hill, Utah, when it crashed on the parade ground at the end of the runway. A board of officers has been called to investigate the crash.

Report to Metropolitan Policyholders for 1951

The importance of Life insurance and its relationship to the lives of the people of the United States and Canada cannot effectively be portrayed by figures in a balance sheet. Cold figures can never adequately show human needs and their fulfillment. It is important, therefore, to try to interpret these figures in terms of the millions of people they represent and the millions who benefit by the use of the services rendered by the Company and its Agents. The Metropolitan was serving 33,373,000 Life insurance policyholders at the close of the year.

The personal phases of Life insurance—for it is a highly personal business—are highlighted daily by dramatic instances. Sometimes they are so unusual as to give special emphasis to the part our business plays in the life of the United States and Canada. The following quotation from a letter from the son of a deceased policyholder, requesting the return of a policy on which claim had been paid, tells with simple sincerity a moving story of a Life insurance policy, of the son's relationship with his father, and of a sound process of economic and social education:

"This policy . . . has for me possibly a greater sentimental value than it would have cash value . . . For you to understand this, you would have to know the years of close relationship and confidence that existed between my father and me. When I was a small boy, he would take me with him to his safety deposit vault . . . Always he stressed to me the importance of his insurance policy, how this piece of paper would some day have a cash value that might tide the family over in an emergency . . . Time has passed . . . but the sentimental worth of this piece of paper is constant in my thinking . . . I have always been told that business, especially Big Business, is hard and cold and rigid, but I know that this is not so, because business is made up of people. People with hearts and souls and loved ones, and people who have lost loved ones, and some who possibly think and feel the same way that I do."

We were, of course, pleased to grant this unusual request.

The record sum of $924,000,000 was paid in benefits to policyholders and beneficiaries during 1951. This included payments of $141,000,000 on more than 1,250,000 claims (five times ten years ago) for Accident and Health and Disability benefits. A new high was also reached in Life insurance in force—$48,512,000,000, a gain of more than $3,000,000,000 over 1950.

More people than ever were protected last year by Metropolitan Accident and Health insurance. As the year closed, the Company had in force 3,270,000 policies or certificates providing weekly indemnity for disability of $86,000,000 per week. Hospital, Surgical or Medical Expense benefits were provided by 2,744,000 policies or certificates.

Another significant development during the year was the introduction of Extended Medical Coverage through Group insurance to protect people against abnormal hospital, surgical, and medical expense that might exhaust a family's entire savings.

Battalion Chief Dies In Metropolitan Blaze

New York, March 10 (AP) — A battalion fire chief was killed Saturday night when a gas-fed fire mushroomed through a top floor apartment of an uptown building.

A lieutenant and three other firemen were burned in the fire, but none of these required hospitalization.

The dead chief was John M. J. McGowan, of the 11th Battalion. He was 52 and unmarried. He lived at 35-41 90th street, Jackson Heights, Queens.

He died from inhaling flame and smoke while directing operations.

Witnesses said a cloud of superheated air, mingled with combustible gases, burst into flame while the firemen were at work and the chief collapsed instantly.

He was carried to a lower floor and given first aid, then was brought down to the street, where he was pronounced dead an hour later after efforts to revive him failed.

Jacoby on Canasta

Play Safe, Watch Your Melding

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

"Here is a playing problem from one of our recent games," writes a Chicago reader. "The opponents started the hand with a bang by melding a canasta of kings and minor melds in queens, jacks, sevens, sixes and fives. Each opponent had taken the pile a couple of times, and each opponent held six cards in his hand.

"By this time, my hand was
Joker K-K Q-Q J-J 7 4-4-4 2

We needed 90 points for the initial meld. What was the best way for me to meld? Should I meld the joker with the queens and the deuce with the jacks, or is it better to meld both wild cards with either the queens or the jacks? Or should I put down one of the wild cards with the fourspots?"

Think it over friend reader, and decide for yourself how you would play in this situation. Then read on and see whether or not you agree with my opinion.

If I were playing this hand, I would not make any initial meld at all. I would discard the deuce, thus freezing the discard pile.

This play would give me umpteen safe discards—the seven to begin with, followed by the kings, queens, and the jacks. I could practically guarantee not to give away the pile.

What about my partner? He has a full-hand, playing against a six-card hand. Why should he have any trouble discarding—provided he has been watching the play and is an experienced player?

We might not win the discard pile, but we certainly wouldn't give it away. At worst, the opponents might meld out quickly, thus bringing this miserable hand to a relatively painless end.

Now see what happens if you decide to meld with this hand instead of freezing the pack. If you meld with the picture cards, you are wasting your wild cards on melds that are most unlikely to develop into canastas. And even the fourspots are no bargain.

What's more a meld puts you in such a position that you will have to give away the discard pile very soon. This will allow the opponents to prolong the hand and run up a really big score.

More Protection for More People

Report to Metropolitan Policyholders for 1951

The importance of Life insurance and its relationship to the lives of the people of the United States and Canada cannot effectively be portrayed by figures in a balance sheet. Cold figures can never adequately show human needs and their fulfillment. It is important, therefore, to try to interpret these figures in terms of the millions of people they represent and the millions who benefit by the use of the services rendered by the Company and its Agents. The Metropolitan was serving 33,373,000 Life insurance policyholders at the close of the year.

The personal phases of Life insurance—for it is a highly personal business—are highlighted daily by dramatic instances. Sometimes they are so unusual as to give special emphasis to the part our business plays in the life of the United States and Canada. The following quotation from a letter from the son of a deceased policyholder, requesting the return of a policy on which claim had been paid, tells with simple sincerity a moving story of a Life insurance policy, of the son's relationship with his father, and of a sound process of economic and social education:

"This policy . . . has for me possibly a greater sentimental value than it would have cash value . . . For you to understand this, you would have to know the years of close relationship and confidence that existed between my father and me. When I was a small boy, he would take me with him to his safety deposit vault . . . Always he stressed to me the importance of his insurance policy, how this piece of paper would some day have a cash value that might tide the family over in an emergency . . . Time has passed . . . but the sentimental worth of this piece of paper is constant in my thinking . . . I have always been told that business, especially Big Business, is hard and cold and rigid, but I know that this is not so, because business is made up of people. People with hearts and souls and loved ones, and people who have lost loved ones, and some who possibly think and feel the same way that I do."

We were, of course, pleased to grant this unusual request.

The record sum of $924,000,000 was paid in benefits to policyholders and beneficiaries during 1951. This included payments of $141,000,000 on more than 1,250,000 claims (five times ten years ago) for Accident and Health and Disability benefits. A new high was also reached in Life insurance in force—$48,512,000,000, a gain of more than $3,000,000,000 over 1950.

More people than ever were protected last year by Metropolitan Accident and Health insurance. As the year closed, the Company had in force 3,270,000 policies or certificates providing weekly indemnity for disability of $86,000,000 per week. Hospital, Surgical or Medical Expense benefits were provided by 2,744,000 policies or certificates.

Another significant development during the year was the introduction of Extended Medical Coverage through Group insurance to protect people against abnormal hospital, surgical, and medical expense that might exhaust a family's entire savings.

More Than 100 Hear Of Local Folklore

MORITZ JAGENDORF

More than 100 persons were attracted to the county-wide folklore meeting sponsored by the Ulster County Home Bureau March 6 at the county court house, when Moritz Jagendorf of New York was the main speaker.

Harry Siemsen of Sawkill was introduced by Mrs. Millard Davis of Accord, county executive committee sponsor for folklore. Siemsen presided at the meeting and introduced the speakers for the evening.

Harry Rigby and Miss Agnes Scott Smith of this city explained how local folklore can be collected and urged those present to become interested in this study.

Siemsen played local folk songs which he and his sister, Miss Marie Siemsen, had collected on their wire recorder.

Moritz Jagendorf of New York, former president of the New York State Folklore Society, was the main speaker. Jagendorf is a collector of folklore and author of several books. He told how he went about writing and collecting folklore of a Catskill Mountain folklore hero, Johnny Darling about whom Jagendorf has written a book. This is one of the important contributions to folk history.

Siemsen is town historian for the town of Kingston. He and his sister did a great deal to make this meeting possible.

Coach House Players Tops Former Records With Latest Vehicle

The Coach House Players topped all previous records Saturday night with an outstanding performance of the Silver Whistle, a three-act comedy by Robert E. McEnroe, for an enthusiastic audience comprising more than 900 persons at the Kingston High School Auditorium. Houston Richards, who has directed the local thespians since their organization, was highly commended for the remarkable progress of the group as evidenced by this professional presentation.

Robert S. Russell, in the leading role of Oliver Erwenter, left nothing to be desired in his portrayal of the lovable though unpredictable tramp who under false pretenses invades the old folks home and inspires the guests with a new zest for living. His swashbuckling and confident manner, sometimes amusing, sometimes philosophical but always determinded, regaled his large audience as he sowed the seed of discontment amongst the elderly guests in an effort to shake their obvious complacency and acceptance of the dull life they were leading.

The entire action of the play took place in the garden adjoining an old people's home. Mrs. Raymond Gross in the role of Miss Hoadley was one of the most ludicrous and fantastic guests, whose intoxicated form brought down the house with her convincing antics and weird mumblings.

Playing the role of Mrs. Hanmer, the arbitrary and cynical member of the group, Miss Rose Helen Mellert turned in a fine performance. Joan Riseley, as the sheltered young lady who cared for the guests, and the Rev. Watson, played by Leroy Davis, contributed the youthful love angle in delightful fashion. William Hawk was splendid as the elderly, ailing but optimistic guest whose pitiful eagerness to turn back the clock was in character throughout his entire performance. Lesser, but none-the-less important roles in their contribution to the success of the production, were played by W. Scott Foster as Mr. Cherry, Ruth Herdman as Mrs. Gross and Joan Hansen as Mrs. Sampler.

The blase Emmett, Erwenter's fellow tramp, was notably interpreted by Stanley London. He was a perfect foil for the imaginative Erwenter. Though small, the bit parts were ably performed by Dorothy Schantz as Miss Shay, Roy Wulff, Mr. Reddy; Sheffield Nasser as Mr. Beach and George Betts, policeman.

Praiseworthy

It is not an easy task for amateurs generally to create and maintain through motion, voice and make-up the illusion of age when portrayed by young people but the Coach House Players with able direction were in character throughout, and the members behind the scenes may well take credit with those on stage for the finest performance they have yet given the public.

They have assumed a tremendous undertaking in cost and effort to give to the city a permanent little theatre and if Saturday's contribution is to be considered a standard example, this earnest organization numbering 100 active members and a great many more associate members, have earned the right to take their place among the leading prominent and artistic groups in the city.

Irving Rose, president, designed the appropriate set and was assisted by George Betts and other members.

Members of the Golden Age Club and the guests from the Home for the Aged were the Players guests for the performance.

Proceeds will be used for a scholarship fund at KHS and for alterations at the Coach House.

The chairmen have suggested that those planning to play cards, come earlier to visit the various booths.

Adopting Children

The guest speaker at the meeting was Mrs. Herbert Fister, chairman, Ulster County Finding and Adoption Committee of State Charities and Aid Society. Mrs. Fister described the work of the society and suggested that anyone wishing to adopt a child or children should do so through agencies, because of the various tests given both child and foster parents as well as the manner in which the agency performs to find a suitable child for prospective parents. As an example she cited the fact that an older child fits into a home of older parents more readily than a baby would, and the child will be more of a companion to the older parents.

Assisted by recordings, Mrs. Fister presented examples of the right and wrong way to handle the adoption of the children, and stressed the importance of contacting an authorized agency when adoption is being considered. The speaker said there are many older children who may be adopted and this information will be presented to the public in the near future through the newspapers and radio by Mrs. Fister and her committee.

New Patterns Get Novel Handling

By GAILE DUGAS
NEA Woman's Editor

New York—(NEA)—The place of prints in spring fashion is an important one. Though prints can almost be regarded as hardy perennials, these for 1952 get a new handling that marks them as very different from those of other years.

Generally, the spring print is small, neat and subdued. It's a ladylike pattern, a complement to the monotone coat that tops it. But, where a print does become large, it is unrelated to the wild prints of the past, and it is attractive.

Colors are coordinated, not clashed. Thus, taupe, gray, black, and white may be combined in a pattern that's fairly large but that gets an harmonious effect.

A pure silk shantung afternoon dress (right) by Eisenberg has a beige background for a tiny, navy whirlpool scattered print. Cardigan front runs from neck to hemline and is edged in the same navy blue shantung used for the cap sleeves. A full skirt is given a smooth hipline through use of pin-tuck pleats.

Larger print (left) appears in a coat-and-dress ensemble from this same house. Here, pure silk is printed in taupe, gray, black, and white. Dress has short sleeves and square neckline with bow at one side. Skirt is straight.

Matching coat has roll collar and three-quarter sleeves. It's completely lined in taupe changeable taffeta and horsehair. The very full skirt has stitched pleats.

A DEAR BUT OVERWEIGHT FRIEND

Although I have never before received this particular question, I am sure it is a problem that is shared by many readers: "We have a friend who weighs over 300 pounds and who is a constant visitor in our house. My problem is this: How can we tactfully suggest that he sit on a straight hard chair instead of an upholstered one, without hurting his feelings? Whenever he comes to our house he literally "drops" onto the sofa and I have noticed that lately the springs are beginning to sag and I'm afraid the furniture will not endure much more of this treatment. I would very much appreciate any suggestions you have to offer.

Usually the flesh of fat people is very soft and I think a hard chair might be most uncomfortable! Since you say that he is a constant visitor in your house I wonder if it could be possible to buy an inexpensive but especially strong and comfortable armchair and call it "his chair" and insist that he sit in it every time he comes.

Sufficiently Chaperoned

Dear Mrs. Post: I am twenty years old and would very much like to visit my fiance at an army camp several hundred miles from here, sometime soon. I will stay at a small hotel near the camp he will, of course, stay at the base at night. Will you please give me your opinion of the propriety of such a visit? My mother will let me go if you say it is all right.

Answer: From what you have described, I see no impropriety in your going. Small hotels are usually very friendly and you will be well chaperoned by the proprietor and other guests, many of whom may be there for the same reason you are.

Belated Wedding Ring

Dear Mrs. Post: My husband and I will soon celebrate our tenth wedding anniversary. We had a single ring ceremony at the time of our marriage. Would it be proper to give him a weddding ring now as an anniversary present?

Answer: If you would like to give him a ring that looks like a wedding ring, and he would like to wear it, there is certainly no objection to it.

MORITZ JAGENDORF

More than 100 persons were attracted to the county-wide folklore meeting sponsored by the Ulster County Home Bureau March 6 at the county court house, when Moritz Jagendorf of New York was the main speaker.

Harry Siemsen of Sawkill was introduced by Mrs. Millard Davis of Accord, county executive committee sponsor for folklore. Siemsen presided at the meeting and introduced the speakers for the evening.

Harry Rigby and Miss Agnes Scott Smith of this city explained how local folklore can be collected and urged those present to become interested in this study.

Siemsen played local folk songs which he and his sister, Miss Marie Siemsen, had collected on their wire recorder.

Moritz Jagendorf of New York, former president of the New York State Folklore Society, was the main speaker. Jagendorf is a collector of folklore and author of several books. He told how he went about writing and collecting folklore of a Catskill Mountain folklore hero, Johnny Darling about whom Jagendorf has written a book. This is one of the important contributions to folk history.

Siemsen is town historian for the town of Kingston. He and his sister did a great deal to make this meeting possible.

Coach House Players Tops Former Records With Latest Vehicle

The Coach House Players topped all previous records Saturday night with an outstanding performance of the Silver Whistle, a three-act comedy by Robert E. Houston Richards, who has directed the local thespians since their organization, was highly commended for the remarkable progress of the group as evidenced by this professional presentation.

Disposable Deformities

Ninety per cent of all potential cripples never would become deformed if they received the right treatment at the right time. Most deformities are not due to a predisposing cause, but to neglect of proper measures of prevention and cure.

New Patterns Get Novel Handling

By GAILE DUGAS
NEA Woman's Editor

New York—(NEA)—The place of prints in spring fashion is an important one. Though prints can almost be regarded as hardy perennials, these for 1952 get a new handling that marks them as very different from those of other years.

Generally, the spring print is small, neat and subdued. It's a ladylike pattern, a complement to the monotone coat that tops it. But, where a print does become large, it is unrelated to the wild prints of the past, and it is attractive.

Colors are coordinated, not clashed. Thus, taupe, gray, black, and white may be combined in a pattern that's fairly large but that gets an harmonious effect.

A pure silk shantung afternoon dress (right) by Eisenberg has a beige background for a tiny, navy whirlpool scattered print. Cardigan front runs from neck to hemline and is edged in the same navy blue shantung used for the cap sleeves. A full skirt is given a smooth hipline through use of pin-tuck pleats.

Larger print (left) appears in a coat-and-dress ensemble from this same house. Here, pure silk is printed in taupe, gray, black, and white. Dress has short sleeves and square neckline with bow at one side. Skirt is straight.

Matching coat has roll collar and three-quarter sleeves. It's completely lined in taupe changeable taffeta and horsehair. The very full skirt has stitched pleats.

A DEAR BUT OVERWEIGHT FRIEND

Although I have never before received this particular question, I am sure it is a problem that is shared by many readers: "We have a friend who weighs over 300 pounds and who is a constant visitor in our house. My problem is this: How can we tactfully suggest that he sit on a straight hard chair instead of an upholstered one, without hurting his feelings? Whenever he comes to our house he literally "drops" onto the sofa and I have noticed that lately the springs are beginning to sag and I'm afraid the furniture will not endure much more of this treatment. I would very much appreciate any suggestions you have to offer.

Usually the flesh of fat people is very soft and I think a hard chair might be most uncomfortable! Since you say that he is a constant visitor in your house I wonder if it could be possible to buy an inexpensive but especially strong and comfortable armchair and call it "his chair" and insist that he sit in it every time he comes.

Sufficiently Chaperoned

Dear Mrs. Post: I am twenty years old and would very much like to visit my fiance at an army camp several hundred miles from here, sometime soon. I will stay at a small hotel near the camp he will, of course, stay at the base at night. Will you please give me your opinion of the propriety of such a visit? My mother will let me go if you say it is all right.

Answer: From what you have described, I see no impropriety in your going. Small hotels are usually very friendly and you will be well chaperoned by the proprietor and other guests, many of whom may be there for the same reason you are.

Belated Wedding Ring

Dear Mrs. Post: My husband and I will soon celebrate our tenth wedding anniversary. We had a single ring ceremony at the time of our marriage. Would it be proper to give him a weddding ring now as an anniversary present?

Answer: If you would like to give him a ring that looks like a wedding ring, and he would like to wear it, there is certainly no objection to it.

What reply should be made when being introduced to a group of people? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. However, her leaflet E-17, "Introductions," includes suggestions of introducing friends, family, and groups, also the reply. Kenyon, at her home on the Glasco Turnpike last Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Kenyon was invited to serve as chairman of the Woodstock branch of the society.

Art Notes

Woodstock, March 10—Mr. G. Cinci, and a group of eight students of his adult class in art, from Ellenville, visited the Mollie Higging Smith Gallery in this village last Saturday afternoon.

A painting by the late George Bellows is included in the 50 works of art for a "Child's World Exhibition" now on view at the Rochester Memorial Art Gallery. They include works from 23 countries.

Adolf Dehn is one of the painters represented in the 85th Annual of the American Watercolor Society, at the National Academy Galleries.

An exhibition of paintings and drawings by the late Emile Ganso is now currently on view at the Ganso Gallery, New York. According to a review in the Art Digest, "Ganso worshipped women. He could handle other subjects—portrait, still-life and landscape—but it is to his studies of women, and especially to his drawings of women that one must look for the essence of his art."

Bensing Show Review

Woodstock, March 10—A review of the one-man show or portraits by Frank C. Bensing, eminent artist of Wittenberg, appeared in the Art Digest. Of the show now on view at the Grand Central Galleries, the Digest reported: "Portraits by this artist appear to state the bearing and character of his subject with a straight-forward completeness. Bensing overcomes the handicap of masculine portraiture—the conventionality of costume—by various devices. In the portrait of Herbert Barry, the sitter's twirl of glasses and thrust of hand to pocket lend informality to the appreciable dignity of the figure. While taking advantage of feminine adornment, the artist has not stressed it, but has emphasized personality."

Guide to Art Films Will Be Out in April

Woodstock, March 10—A comprehensive guide to art films is scheduled to appear on the market in April. Edited by William McK. Chapman, who participated in the presentation of the Art Film Festival at the Woodstock Playhouse, last summer, the guide will be presented under the auspices of the American Federation of Arts. This 1952 guide will include evaluative commentaries on more than 500 films; articles of wide interest by authorities such as Arthur Knight, Carl Fox, Perry Miller; and complete indices of films by subject, distributors and advertisers.

Sidney Berkowitz, well-known Woodstocker and board member of the AFA, says the guide will be of value to museums and public institutions as well as to scholars, teachers and private groups. Articles on creative programming, augmented by descriptions and critical appraisals of each listed film, will help to stimulate interest in art film programs.

The Mature Parent

Teach Economy, but Don't Suggest Hoarding

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

She was a pretty girl of 15 with a defiant mouth and scared, little-girl eyes. She had been charged with shoplifting and the authorities were holding her in detention pending a court hearing of her case.

One day, I brought her a book she had asked for. After she had thanked me, I said, 'Let me know if there's anything else I can do."

She gave a sudden laugh. "Sure, there's something you could do," she said. "Make my mother withdraw my $85 from the bank and give it to me. Tell her I need it where I am."

"Your $85?" I echoed stupidly.

She laughed again. "Sure, my money. All my own, my mother says. My own eighty-five bucks right over there in the bank across the river; all the pennies, nickels, dimes and quarters I ever made or anybody ever gave me, right over there in the bank in my name. But try and pry loose the price of a blouse I'd like, and see what happens. Try and withdraw three bucks for a nifty pair of shoes on sale, and it's 'No, dear, save your money, dear, don't spend, dear, tomorrow will be a rainy day, dear'."

You don't ask personal questions of children under detention, so I didn't ask her if her theft of the evening bag had followed one of these maternal sermons on the virtues of thrift. I didn't have to ask her. I knew the answer without asking.

Instructing children in economy is not instruction in hoarding. Economy is motivated by intelligence; hoarding by fear. Economy is self-discipline; hoarding is self-punishment. One is healthy; one is sick.

It is not economical management to produce a child that steals an item worth $5.95 while she possesses a bank account amounting to many times that sum. It is. I should say wasteful management.

ECONOMY SHOULD BE TAUGHT LOGICALLY

I am all for teaching children to save money. Except for unusual circumstances, percentages of allowances should be regularly saved. But I am against pressing for savings that leave young budgets strained. Making saving a hardship does the cause of economy little good in children's eyes.

The resentment we arouse by insisting that normal present satisfactions be sacrificed to bigger and better future ones undermines our whole purpose. We are not after a collection of dimes and quarters, but the discovery that the control of impulse is productive. This is a highly civilized idea that is sold through logic and patience. Try and put it over by dictatorial methods, and we get into trouble.

We should never suggest to children that money is saved because we fear the future. Like all instruction of young people, training in economy reflects the quality of our own attitudes toward many things that have nothing to do with dollars and cents. For example, if I do not have enough faith in my future growth to feel confident that I can meet future challenges with sufficient courage, I will train for hoarding, not economy. If I think of my present as a pretty static, humdrum life, I am apt to outline the future as a rather forbidding prospect. But if I think of my present as alive and vital, I look confidently to the continuance of this vitality.

Before we undertake any serious instruction on protecting the future to children, it might be a good idea for us to write down these words by one of our most perceptive psychiatrists, Dr. Erich Fromm. Says he, "We are not helpless victims of circumstance; we are indeed able to change and to influence forces inside and outside ourselves and to control, at least to some extent, the conditions which play upon us. We can foster the conditions which develop the striving for good and bring about its realization."

Written for NEA Service

When the Eastern Tournament begins in New York city during the last week of this month many of the contestants will remember the hand shown today. It was played in an Eastern Tournament a few years ago, and it proved a trap and a lesson to many of the players.

At many tables South became the declarer at four spades, a rather shaky contract but far from outrageous. Declarer was bound to lose a club and two hearts no matter how he set about playing the hand, so the contract depended only on losing no-trump trick.

Most declarers won the opening lead with the ace of diamonds and immediately fired back the queen of spades. West naturally covered with the king and dummy won with the ace of spades.

At this point, each such declarer returned a low trump to the jack. When West discarded a diamond on this trick, South's broad smile thinned noticeably. A trump trick had to be lost to East's nine, and the contract was set.

As analysis showed, the correct play is to lead the ten of spades at the second trick. When West covers with the king, South can be nearly certain that West's king is a singleton.

A very fine West might be quick-witted enough to play the king if he held king-nine, but he would have to be a very good player and he would have to be at the top of his form. Certainly no West player would put up the king of spades if he held the king-small and the odds are very high that the play of the king on the ten is made because West has a singleton.

Dummy wins the second trick with the ace of spades and returns the eight of spades through East. If East ducks, the eight is allowed to ride, and if wins the trick.

If East covers with the nine, South wins with the jack and discovers that West cannot follow suit. Dummy is then re-entered with a diamond, and the deuce of spades is returned so that South can finesse the six against East's seven.

Power of Example

By FRANK TRIPP

One need not be religious to share the concern of clerics for the modern moral standards that curse our country. Nor need he be very old to remember when public opinion exiled drab doers from positions of trust; and when the power of example caused men in public life to watch their step.

We once had a vicepresident who got himself on the hook by ignoring the importance of example in high places. Back then the cocktail suffered disfavor beyond ranks of the drys. It was a symbol of snobbish aristocracy with the beer drinking common man. Thus there was a double barb to the hook that snagged

Charles W. Fairbanks. He became universally known as "Cocktail Charlie."

Conversely, one of our Presidents was so conscious of the power of example that he never permitted his picture to be taken while smoking. President McKinley said that non-smoking fathers might not like their children to see the President smoking a cigar.

Alas the pendulum of moral conduct has swung from prudish caution to almost criminal abandon. One most alarming phase of this perverted standard is the example that it parades before youth; its mockery of the very words morality and ethics.

The generation is being taught that it is profitable and smart to be eely and tricky; that it is cute to ignore common man-to-man honesty and slither through life along the border line of integrity and concern for others.

ONCE POSSESSED by unholy ambition, the evidence is abundant that should a lad slip into what is left to dishonor, plenty of legal technicalities exist to clear him of almost anything.

He reads daily that he only needs one of two things to make it safe—money or political influence. He observes that it is better to have both, and that one begets the other. He finds that money will buy political influence, and with political influence he can get money.

The things that might deter him he finds at low ebb; such as public vigilance, which would expose him, and unswerving justice which would punish him.

It seems quite safe to become gentleman grafter, thief, plunderer, even despot, and get away with it, if he can but get on the inside. Every newspaper tells him of men who gamble with crimes against God and man and escape punishment through influence or money.

His objective blinds him to the fact that righteous use of both would cure most of our domestic ills, build character in youth, save our republic and its motto "In God We Trust."

WE HAVE CEASED to trust in God when we flaunt His laws, desert His standards, and set up our own to humor our greed, under the bogus alibi that "times have changed."

Integrity never changes; honesty is eternal. A thief is a thief; a liar is a liar, regardless of the immunity that money and influence may buy them.

Americans need to set their sights upon the sincerity of their leaders, and the company they keep. But they need also to take inventory of where bad example is leading their children, and the nation.

Time was when all stood in awe of Uncle Sam and his statutes. The most wily of crooks steered clear of entanglement with federal law. Today the village constable seems more respected than the United States Marshal.

Looking beyond the confines of his native heath, an honest born, ambitious lad peers into his future in search of opportunity. He sees fortunes made in shady ways and the schemers emerge unscathed; in public life, whitewashed by political pals; in private enterprise cleared through weird interpretation of loop-holed laws. A punch-drunk populace doesn't seem to care. So a good boy goes wrong in a money-mad fools' paradise.

THAT CROOKS can beat the rap is a by-product of the welfare state—public apathy; a once proud people, anesthetized by government handouts.

Such is the curse of laxity and bad example. They can spell the end of national honor and personal integrity; sink a whole race to Asiatic cunning, dishonesty and intrigue; to the level which we spend billions to avoid.

Greed for dollars and thirst for power, betrayal of trust and the indifference of the people are taxing the wits of our children to distinguish right from wrong; when they see honesty penalized and unpunished wrong flourish.

Next to our own characters and actions, those of public figures and business tycoons exert an inescapable influence on the lives of our children. They create an indelible pattern.

Making martyred heroes out of scalawags glorifies border-line crime. Temporizing with truth breeds liars. Tolerance of graft breeds thieves. Public waste breeds spendthrifts. Indiscriminate dole breeds paupers. Laxity of law makes criminals.

Unfettered, the vile combination can seal the doom of a great nation. McKinley may have been prudish—but not far wrong.

Adenauer Arms Plan Endorsed by Voters

Bonn, Germany, March 10 (AP)—West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer had a majority endorsement of his rearmament program today from its first test at the polls and was expected to press full steam ahead to put German soldiers into the projected European army.

The voting okay came in the new southwest state's first elections yesterday, in which members of Adenauer's pro-rearmament government coalition bested the anti-army Social Democrats of Dr. Kurt Schumacher almost two to one.

Complete unofficial returns showed the voters in the state formed by the merger of Baden, Wuerttembuerg-Baden and Wuerttemberg-Hohenzollern gave 982,464 ballots to Adenauer's Christian Democrats and 491,587 to the Allied Free Democrats.

Schumacher's Socialists polled only 764,857. The Socialists had stressed their opposition to the government's program of rearmament and cooperation with the west. The new state is West Germany's fourth largest.

Political observers here said the victory for Adenauer's coalition would be a big boost toward approval by the West German Parliament of the proposed European defense force in which German troops would join those of France, Italy, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg.

An exhibition of paintings and drawings by the late Emile Ganso is now currently on view at the Ganso Gallery, New York. According to a review in the Art Digest, "Ganso worshipped women. He could handle other subjects—portrait, still-life and landscape—but it is to his studies of women, and especially to his drawings of women that one must look for the essence of his art."

Bensing Show Review

Woodstock, March 10—A review of the one-man show or portraits by Frank C. Bensing, eminent artist of Wittenberg, appeared in the Art Digest. Of the show now on view at the Grand Central Galleries, the Digest reported:, "Portraits by this artist appear to state the bearing and character of his subject with a straight-forward completeness. Bensing overcomes the handicap of masculine portraiture—the conventionality of costume—by various devices. In the portrait of Herbert Barry, the sitter's twirl of glasses and thrust of hand to pocket lend informality to the appreciable dignity of the figure. While taking advantage of feminine adornment, the artist has not stressed it, but has emphasized personality."

Guide to Art Films Will Be Out in April

Woodstock, March 10—A comprehensive guide to art films is scheduled to appear on the market in April. Edited by William McK. Chapman, who participated in the presentation of the Art Film Festival at the Woodstock Playhouse, last summer, the guide will be presented under the auspices of the American Federation of Arts. This 1952 guide will include evaluative commentaries on more than 500 films; articles of wide interest by authorities such as Arthur Knight, Carl Fox, Perry Miller; and complete indices of films by subject, distributors and advertisers.

Sidney Berkowitz, well-known Woodstocker and board member of the AFA, says the guide will be of value to museums and public institutions as well as to scholars, teachers and private groups. Articles on creative programming, augmented by descriptions and critical appraisals of each listed film, will help to stimulate interest in art film programs.

The Mature Parent

Teach Economy, but Don't Suggest Hoarding

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

She was a pretty girl of 15 with a defiant mouth and scared, little-girl eyes. She had been charged with shoplifting and the authorities were holding her in detention pending a court hearing of her case.

One day, I brought her a book she had asked for. After she had thanked me, I said, "Let me know if there's anything else I can do."

She gave a sudden laugh. "Sure, there's something you could do," she said. "Make my mother withdraw my $85 from the bank and give it to me. Tell her I need it where I am."

"Your $85?" I echoed stupidly.

She laughed again. "Sure, my money. All my own, my mother says. My own eighty-five bucks right over there in the bank across the river; all the pennies, nickels, dimes and quarters I ever made or anybody ever gave me, right over there in the bank in my name. But try and pry loose the price of a blouse I'd like, and see what happens. Try and withdraw three bucks for a nifty pair of shoes on sale, and it's 'No, dear, save your money, dear, don't spend, dear, tomorrow will be a rainy day, dear'."

You don't ask personal questions of children under detention, so I didn't ask her if her theft of the evening bag had followed one of these maternal sermons on the virtues of thrift. I didn't have to ask her. I knew the answer without asking.

Instructing children in economy is not instruction in hoarding. Economy is motivated by intelligence; hoarding by fear. Economy is self-discipline; hoarding is self-punishment. One is healthy; one is sick.

It is not economical management to produce a child that steals an item worth $5.95 while she possesses a bank account amounting to many times that sum. It is. I should say wasteful management.

ECONOMY SHOULD BE TAUGHT LOGICALLY

I am all for teaching children to save money. Except for unusual circumstances, percentages of allowances should be regularly saved. But I am against pressing for savings that leave young budgets strained. Making saving a hardship does the cause of economy little good in children's eyes.

The resentment we arouse by insisting that normal present satisfactions be sacrificed to bigger and better future ones undermines our whole purpose. We are not after a collection of dimes and quarters, but the discovery that the control of impulse is productive. This is a highly civilized idea that is sold through logic and patience. Try and put it over by dictatorial methods, and we get into trouble.

We should never suggest to children that money is saved because we fear the future. Like all instruction of young people, training in economy reflects the quality of our own attitudes toward many things that have nothing to do with dollars and cents. For example, if I do not have enough faith in my future growth to feel confident that I can meet future challenges with sufficient courage, I will train for hoarding, not economy. If I think of my present as a pretty static, humdrum life, I am apt to outline the future as a rather forbidding prospect. But if I think of my present as alive and vital, I look confidently to the continuance of this vitality.

Before we undertake any serious instruction on protecting the future to children, it might be a good idea for us to write down these words by one of our most perceptive psychiatrists, Dr. Erich Fromm. Says he, "We are not helpless victims of circumstance; we are indeed able to change and to influence forces inside and outside ourselves and to control, at least to some extent, the conditions which play upon us. We can foster the conditions which develop the striving for good and bring about its realization."

When the Eastern Tournament begins in New York city during the last week of this month many of the contestants will remember the hand shown today. It was played in an Eastern Tournament a few years ago, and it proved a trap and a lesson to many of the players.

At many tables South became the declarer at four spades, a rather shaky contract but far from outrageous. Declarer was bound to lose a club and two hearts no matter how he set about playing the hand, so the contract depended only on losing no-trump trick.

Most declarers won the opening lead with the ace of diamonds and immediately fired back the queen of spades. West naturally covered with the king and dummy won with the ace of spades.

At this point, each such declarer returned a low trump to the jack. When West discarded a diamond on this trick, South's broad smile thinned noticeably. A trump trick had to be lost to East's nine, and the contract was set.

As analysis showed, the correct play is to lead the ten of spades at the second trick. When West covers with the king, South can be nearly certain that West's king is a singleton.

A very fine West might be quick-witted enough to play the king if he held king-nine, but he would have to be a very good player and he would have to be at the top of his form. Certainly no West player would put up the king of spades if he held the king-small and the odds are very high that the play of the king on the ten is made because West has a singleton.

Dummy wins the second trick with the ace of spades and returns the eight of spades through East. If East ducks, the eight is allowed to ride, and it wins the trick.

If East covers with the nine, South wins with the jack and discovers that West cannot follow suit. Dummy is then re-entered with a diamond, and the deuce of spades is returned so that South can finesse the six against East's seven.

Power of Example

By FRANK TRIPP

One need not be religious to share the concern of clerics for the modern moral standards that curse our country. Nor need he be very old to remember when public opinion exiled drab doers from positions of trust; and when the power of example caused men in public life to watch their step.

We once had a vicepresident who got himself on the hook by ignoring the importance of example in high places. Back then the cocktail suffered disfavor beyond ranks of the drys. It was a symbol of snobbish aristocracy with the beer drinking common man. Thus there was a double barb to the hook that snagged

Conversely, one of our Presidents was so conscious of the power of example that he never permitted his picture to be taken while smoking. President McKinley said that non-smoking fathers might not like their children to see the President smoking a cigar.

Alas the pendulum of moral conduct has swung from prudish caution to almost criminal abandon. One most alarming phase of this perverted standard is the example that it parades before youth; its mockery of the very words morality and ethics.

The generation is being taught that it is profitable and smart to be eely and tricky; that it is cute to ignore common man-to-man honesty and slither through life along the border line of integrity and concern for others.

Bonn, Germany, March 10 (AP)—West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer had a majority endorsement of his rearmament program today from its first test at the polls and was expected to press full steam ahead to put German soldiers into the projected European army.

The voting okay came in the new southwest state's first elections yesterday, in which members of Adenauer's pro-rearmament government coalition bested the anti-army Social Democrats of Dr. Kurt Schumacher almost two to one.

Complete unofficial returns showed the voters in the state formed by the merger of Baden, Wuerttembuerg-Baden and Wuerttemberg-Hohenzollern gave 982,464 ballots to Adenauer's Christian Democrats and 491,587 to the Allied Free Democrats.

Schumacher's Socialists polled only 764,857. The Socialists had stressed their opposition to the government's program of rearmament and cooperation with the west. The new state is West Germany's fourth largest.

Political observers here said the victory for Adenauer's coalition would be a big boost toward approval by the West German Parliament of the proposed European defense force in which German troops would join those of France, Italy, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg.

High School Five Meets Mont Pleasant Tuesday at Saratoga Springs

NFA's DUSO Champs Rout Nott Terrace

Meanwhile, Newburgh Free Academy, winner of 19 straight games, engages Albany High, co-champion of the capital district, Tuesday night at the Kingston municipal auditorium.

Coach G. Warren Kias announced the starting time of Tuesday's traditional battle with Mont Pleasant as 8 p. m. and said that KHS would run a bus. Reserved seats can be had by calling the high school.

While Newburgh Academy, three-time DUSO champions, were hobbling Nott Terrace of Schenectady, 71-47, here Saturday night, Albany High whaled Middletown High of the DUSO League, 70 to 50.

Mont Pleasant, winner of the intersectional crown for the past two years, thumped Troy High, 56-32, Friday night at Saratoga Springs.

DUSO Year Maybe

This is believed by experts to be the year of decision for the DUSO League. Mont Pleasant has mopped the floor with its representative in the finals twice since Ronnie Scheffel perpetrated a spectacular upset of the Red Raiders in the first tournament four years ago.

Newburgh showed its all-round class in the second half against Nott Terrace, blowing a 24-24 ball game apart with a 47-point barrage.

NFA led 15-9 at the quarter but the Terrace five rallied to effect a 24-24 deadlock at the half.

The roof fell in on the Dorpians in the third quarter as Mickey "The Marvel" Burkowski, the freshman sensation, hit with eight of his 11 points and the Nott Terrace defense came apart at the seams.

Bobby Spreer paced the smooth clicking Newburgh machine with 17 points and brother, Richie, scored 15. Don Jackson, a stout backcourt operator, blossomed out as a high scorer with 16 markers.

Both teams used a zone defense but Richie Spreer didn't seem to be at his best in the second quarter, missing continously with his jump shot and Nott Terrace looked like Newburgh's equal.

The third period changed all that once Burkowski began to find the range. Trifilo, a short, speedy guard, played brilliantly for Nott Terrace on offense and defense but couldn't do the job single-handed.

With three of Nott Terrace's five starters ousted on fouls, Coach Masterson started unloading his bench. Don Jackson was the only Academian to foul out.

Princeton Tiger Aims For Ivy Cage Crown

New York, March 10 (AP)—The Princeton Tigers, in first place by a full game, seek their fifth Ivy League basketball championship and an automatic NCAA tournament berth as the campaign moves into its final week.

Princeton's task is not an easy one since Cornell and Penn still are in pursuit of the Tigers. The Nassau quintet boasts a 9-1 record while the Big Red and the Quakers have 8-2 marks. Each of the contenders has two games left to play.

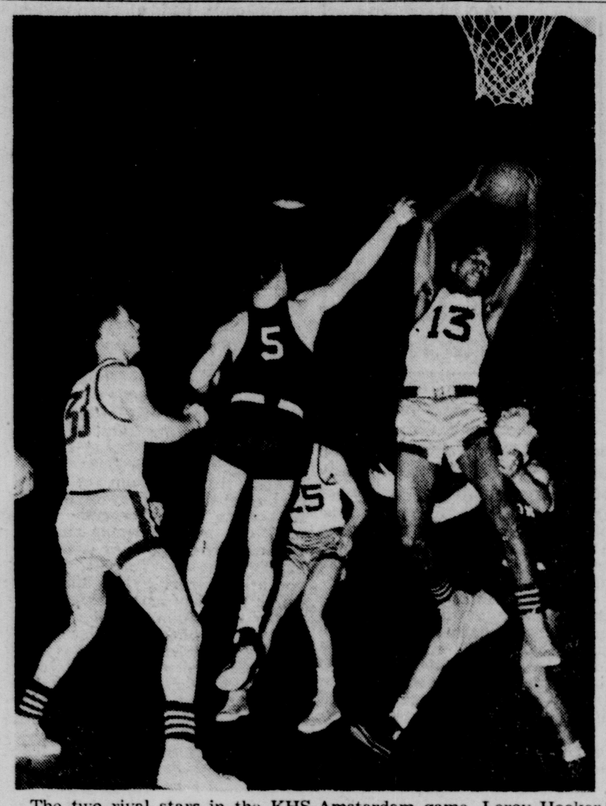
Potter's Trip Hercules, 59-51, to Take First Place



The two rival stars in the KHS-Amsterdam game, Leroy Hooker (5) of Kingston and Chuck Culver (13), Amsterdam, engage in a lively battle for a rebound. Under Culver is Don Madison, Kingston forward.

Seeded Teams Set In NIT Tourney

New York, March 10 (AP) — Seeded terms will be on display for the first time in the 15th National Invitation Basketball tournament at Madison Square Garden tonight when the original field of 12 will be reduced to six.

The schedule calls for the second straight tripleheader composed of two quarter-final games and one first-round affair.

The quarter-finals will send fourth-seeded St. Bonaventure (19-5) against Western Kentucky in the opener and third-seeded St. John's of Brooklyn (22-3) against highly regarded LaSalle (21-5) in the second game.

Top-seeded Duquesne (21-1) and St. Louis (21-6), No. 2 seed, will get their tournament baptism tomorrow night with the Dukes taking on the Holy Cross-Seattle winner and the Billikens matching baskets against Dayton (25-3), last year's NIT runner-up.

The semi-finals will be played Thursday and the finals Saturday.

In the first three games of the NIT Saturday Dayton defeated New York University, 81-66; LaSalle turned in an 80-76 upset triumph over Seton Hall, and Western Kentucky eliminated Louisville, 62-59.

Miami Sweep

Miami, Fla., March 10 (AP)—Miami skippers took all but one event in the Miami Yacht Club's Midwinter Regatta yesterday. Bob Olson of Perth Amboy, N. J., won the Comet class but T. W. McGlamry of Miami won the big prize, the North American moth championship. McGlamry won four of the five heats, the other going to Erik Hansen.

Burke Cops 4th Straight Open

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 10 (AP)—Golf's winter wonder lad, Jack Burke, looked forward eagerly to new conquests today after running his tournament winning streak to four in a row.

The young Texan captured the $10,000 St. Petersburg Open yesterday with a record-shattering 266 and picked up his $2,000 first prize with the air of a fellow who intends to go on winning tournaments indefinitely.

His margin was eight strokes over his nearest opponent, Al Besselink of Chicago.

The victory increased Burke's bankroll, the biggest of the winter golf circuit, to $8,720. In the three weeks before coming to Florida, he had won the Texas Open, the Houston Open and the Baton Rouge Open in succession.

Training Camp News in Brief

By The Associated Press

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 10 (AP)—Mickey Mantle and Jackie Jensen, who are fighting it out for Joe DiMaggio's old center field spot with the World Champion New York Yankees, both are on the sidelines with bad legs.

Mantle's knee, which has bothered him off and on for the past year, is acting up, but no treatment has been ordered.

"I can run straight but I can't turn at all," the youngster said today.

Jensen has a pulled leg ligament. With these two laid low, Bob Cerv played center yesterday against the St. Louis Cardinals. The Redbirds won, 3-1.

Snider on Mend

Miami, March 10 (AP)—Centerfielder Duke Snider of the Brooklyn Dodgers was slated to try out his sprained left ankle in a batting drill today. It has been responding to treatment and he probably will be back in action before long.

Both saw action against the Boston Braves yesterday. The braves won, 6-2.

Phoenix, Ariz., March 10 (AP)—The National League champion New York Giants split up into two squads today, the regulars going to Tucson to play the Cleveland Indians and the second-stringers heading for Mesa.

Manager Leo Durocher will accompany the B squad, so he can look over some of the rookies and see some of the players who will make up his bench against the Chicago Cubs.

The Indians beat the Giants yesterday, 5-4.

Kiner Behind Schedule

San Bernardino, Calif., March 10 — (AP) Pittsburgh Pirate Manager Bill Meyer doesn't believe home run slugger Ralph Kiner is ready to play a full game.

Meyer decided yesterday he would leave Kiner behind when the Bucs travel to Anaheim today to play the Hollywood club.

Kiner appeared in the St. Louis Brown-Pirate game yesterday long enough to collect his first exhibition game hit of the season, a single. The Pirates lost, 11-5.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 10 (AP)—Manager Eddie Stanky of the St. Louis Cardinals gave his voice a little spring training yesterday during a game with the New York Yankees.

Stanky argued with Umpire Ed Hurley about decisions on balls and strikes, then the other Redbirds began yelling at the umpire.

Hurley chased coach Johnny Riddle from the bench.

Gerald Staley is slated to start for the Cardinals against the Boston Braves today.

Canadiens Second

The Montreal Canadiens today held second place in the National Hockey League by three points over the Toronto Maple Leafs and had a good chance to hang on to the runner-up spot. The Canadiens defeated the New York Rangers, 2-0, last night, while the Maple Leafs were dropping a 6-1 verdict to the Detroit Red Wings. In the other game of the night, the Boston Bruins moved into a fourth-place tie with the Rangers by chopping down the last-place Chicago Black Hawks, 4-2.

Shea's Showing Encourages Yanks Giants and Dodgers Are Beaten

By ED CORRIGAN
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

The world champion New York Yankees aren't exactly counting on Frank Shea, the 1947 wonder-boy—and 1948-49-50 and 51 flop—to be of much help this year. But they're hoping, and apparently Manager Casey Stengel aims to find out just what Shea has without any delay.

Shea, a big fellow, won the All-Star game and two World Series games in '47. Then his arm went bad, and he put in stints at Newark and Kansas City with the Yank brass hoping at the start of each year that his stuff would return.

It never has, and unless he shows something this year—not only to Stengel but to himself as well—it's the end of the road for him.

Stengel tossed Shea in against the St. Louis Cardinals in an exhibition game yesterday, and, although you hardly could call it a thorough test, he did hurl three hitless innings, a feat which pleased the professor no end, even though the Yanks went down to a 2-1 defeat.

Eddie Lopat, a 20-game winner last year, gave up one Card run, but Art Snallock, a lefthander, was charged with the defeat, yielding the winning tally in the eighth inning. Enos Slaughter was up to his old tricks. He bopped in the first Redbird marker and scored the second.

Red Sox Thrashed

If the Yanks got some good news out of Shea's performance, the Boston Red Sox, who haven't been installed as favorites for the American League pennant for a change, had little to crow about. With new manager Lou Beaudreau trying to get all gears meshing, the Red Sox took a shellacking from the Philadelphia Phillies, 13-4.

Not only did the Phils slap the offerings of Rookie Jim Hisner for three runs, but they teed off on veterans Ray Scarborough for four and Walter Masterson for six. Most of the players in the Sox line-up were youngsters, and they couldn't do much against Bubba Church and Jim Konstanty.

The Cleveland Indians, who very well might wind up in the American League favorite's post, hung a 5-4 defeat on the National League champion New York Giants.

Maglie Beaten

Sal Maglie, who won for the Durochermen last year, was the victim of the Indian bats. He gave up two runs in the seventh inning. They broke a 3-3 tie. Jim Hearn and Larry Jansen, the other members of the Giants' Big Three, hurled creditably. Lou Brissie, who worked three innings for the Indians, was the winner.

The Boston Braves polished off the Brooklyn Dodgers for the second time in a row, 6-2. A three-run home run by Sid Gordon off Johnny Schmitz in the seventh made things easy for the winners. John Podres and Ben Wade, a couple of rookies who are expected to stick, worked for the Brooks.

The St. Louis Browns swamped the Pittsburgh Pirates, 11-5, collecting six runs in the first inning off rookie hurler Ken Barbao. The Philadelphia A's defeated the Washington Senators, 4-2, on a two-aboard homer by Pete Suder in the second inning.

The Chicago White Sox nipped the Chicago Cubs, 3-2; the Cincinnati Reds edged the Detroit Tigers, 1-0, and the Phillies "B" squad thrashed the Reds' second-stringers, 12-5, in other exhibitions.

Potter Brothers moved into the driver's seat in the torrid YMCA "A" League race Saturday by thumping Hercules, 59-51, in the first of a series of late-season "crucials."

The win put the Potters a game ahead of the Powdermen and Wiltwyck Motors. Their lost column margin is only one length.

Get Fast Start

Flashing team balance rather than individual exploits, Potters were in command all the way against Hercules Saturday night. They jumped off to a 15-8 quarter margin and led 29-23 at the half.

Big Jack Doyle led with 10 points and George Glaser and Bill Tierney nine. George Magley, "Champ" Holstein and R. Gilman each hooped seven. Tierney did a nice job of snaring rebounds and setting up baskets.

Golden Gloves Start March 18

The Adirondack AAU Golden Gloves tourney committee will meet tonight in the Albany Elks Club to complete plans for the title meet scheduled for Odd Fellows Hall, March 18 and 19. The meeting is scheduled for 8 p. m.

Two more outstanding entries were received for the two-day tourney over the weekend—Ken House, 175 pound open champion from Amsterdam and Jim Voss of Utica, who will try for honors in the 160-open class.

House was a surprise title winner last year after a highly impressive performance. Voss is one of the topnotchers on the strong team of Utica area boxers being prepared by Don Dero and Bushy Graham, veteran handlers.

Judging from the entries being received by Ben Becker and Mike Viglucci, co-chairman of the committee staging the event for the Albany Club, this year's meet will draw a banner list of mittslingers from the 26 counties in the Adirondack AAU district.

Princeton Tiger Aims For Ivy Cage Crown

New York, March 10 (AP)—The Princeton Tigers, in first place by a full game, seek their fifth Ivy League basketball championship and an automatic NCAA tournament berth as the campaign moves into its final week.

Princeton's task is not an easy one since Cornell and Penn still are in pursuit of the Tigers. The Nassau quintet boasts a 9-1 record while the Big Red and the Quakers have 8-2 marks. Each of the contenders has two games left to play.

Both of Princeton's games are at home, giving the Tigers a slight edge.

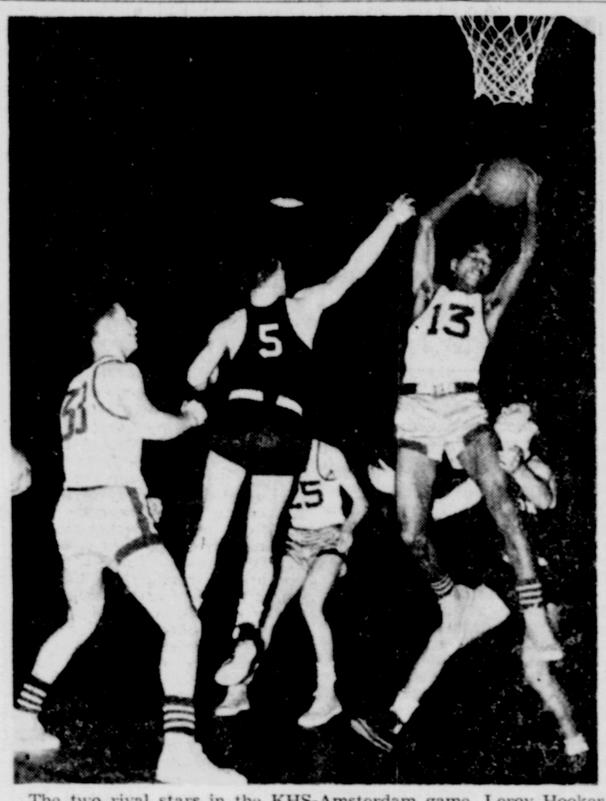
Potter's Trip Hercules, 59-51, to Take First Place



The two rival stars in the KHS-Amsterdam game, Leroy Hooker (5) of Kingston and Chuck Culver (13), Amsterdam, engage in a lively battle for a rebound. Under Culver is Don Madison, Kingston forward.

Frank Koenig, Kingston center, who played brilliantly against Amsterdam, goes up for a left-hand layup shot as Steenburgh, Amsterdam guard, is too late.

Seeded Teams Set In NIT Tourney

New York, March 10 (AP) — Seeded terms will be on display for the first time in the 15th National Invitation Basketball tournament at Madison Square Garden tonight when the original field of 12 will be reduced to six.

The schedule calls for the second straight tripleheader composed of two quarter-final games and one first-round affair.

The quarter-finals will send fourth-seeded St. Bonaventure (19-5) against Western Kentucky in the opener and third-seeded St. John's of Brooklyn (22-3) against highly regarded LaSalle (21-5) in the second game.

Holy Cross (23-3) faces Johnny O'Brien-sparked Seattle (29-7) in the first round encounter as the grand finale.

Top-seeded Duquesne (21-1) and St. Louis (21-6), No. 2 seed, will get their tournament baptism tomorrow night with the Dukes taking on the Holy Cross-Seattle winner and the Billikens matching baskets against Dayton (25-3), last year's NIT runner-up.

The semi-finals will be played Thursday and the finals Saturday.

In the first three games of the NIT Saturday Dayton defeated New York University, 81-66; LaSalle turned in an 80-76 upset triumph over Seton Hall, and Western Kentucky eliminated Louisville, 62-59.

Miami Sweep

Miami, Fla., March 10 (AP)—Miami skippers took all but one event in the Miami Yacht Club's Midwinter Regatta yesterday. Bob Olson of Perth Amboy, N. J., won the Comet class but T. W. McGlamry of Miami won the big prize, the North American moth championship. McGlamry won four of the five heats, the other going to Erik Hansen.

Burke Cops 4th Straight Open

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 10 (AP)—Golf's winter wonder lad, Jack Burke, looked forward eagerly to new conquests today after running his tournament winning streak to four in a row.

The young Texan captured the $10,000 St. Petersburg Open yesterday with a record-shattering 266 and picked up his $2,000 first prize with the air of a fellow who intends to go on winning tournaments indefinitely.

His margin was eight strokes over his nearest opponent, Al Besselink of Chicago.

The victory increased Burke's bankroll, the biggest of the winter golf circuit, to $8,720. In the three weeks before coming to Florida, he had won the Texas Open, the Houston Open and the Baton Rouge Open in succession.

Training Camp News in Brief

By The Associated Press

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 10 (AP)—Mickey Mantle and Jackie Jensen, who are fighting it out for Joe DiMaggio's old center field spot with the World Champion New York Yankees, both are on the sidelines with bad legs.

Mantle's knee, which has bothered him off and on for the past year, is acting up, but no treatment has been ordered.

"I can run straight but I can't turn at all," the youngster said today.

Jensen has a pulled leg ligament. With these two laid low, Bob Cerv played center yesterday against the St. Louis Cardinals. The Redbirds won, 3-1.

Snider on Mend

Miami, March 10 (AP)—Centerfielder Duke Snider of the Brooklyn Dodgers was slated to try out his sprained left ankle in a batting drill today. It has been responding to treatment and he probably will be back in action before long.

Rocky Bridges and Andy Pafko are the latest victims of errant balls. Infielder Bridges was hit in the mouth during infield practice yesterday and Pafko was struck in the left wrist during batting practice.

Both saw action against the Boston Braves yesterday. The braves won, 6-2.

Phoenix, Ariz., March 10 (AP)—The National League champion New York Giants split up into two squads today, the regulars going to Tucson to play the Cleveland Indians and the second-stringers heading for Mesa.

Manager Leo Durocher will accompany the B squad, so he can look over some of the rookies and see some of the players who will make up his bench against the Chicago Cubs.

The Indians beat the Giants yesterday, 5-4.

Kiner Behind Schedule

San Bernardino, Calif., March 10 — (AP) Pittsburgh Pirate Manager Bill Meyer doesn't believe home run slugger Ralph Kiner is ready to play a full game.

Meyer decided yesterday he would leave Kiner behind when the Bucs travel to Anaheim today to play the Hollywood club.

"Ralph isn't ready to play and a workout will do him more good," Meyer added.

Kiner appeared in the St. Louis Brown-Pirate game yesterday long enough to collect his first exhibition game hit of the season, a single. The Pirates lost, 11-5.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 10 (AP)—Manager Eddie Stanky of the St. Louis Cardinals gave his voice a little spring training yesterday during a game with the New York Yankees.

Stanky argued with Umpire Ed Hurley about decisions on balls and strikes, then the other Redbirds began yelling at the umpire.

Hurley chased coach Johnny Riddle from the bench.

"Riddle was one fellow who didn't say a word," Stanky said later.

Gerald Staley is slated to start for the Cardinals against the Boston Braves today.

Canadiens Second

The Montreal Canadiens today held second place in the National Hockey League by three points over the Toronto Maple Leafs and had a good chance to hang on to the runner-up spot. The Canadiens defeated the New York Rangers, 2-0, last night, while the Maple Leafs were dropping a 6-1 verdict to the Detroit Red Wings. In the other game of the night, the Boston Bruins moved into a fourth-place tie with the Rangers by chopping down the last-place Chicago Black Hawks, 4-2.

Shea's Showing Encourages Yanks Giants and Dodgers Are Beaten

By ED CORRIGAN
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

The world champion New York Yankees aren't exactly counting on Frank Shea, the 1947 wonder-boy—and 1948-49-50 and 51 flop—to be of much help this year. But they're hoping, and apparently Manager Casey Stengel aims to find out just what Shea has without any delay.

Shea, a big fellow, won the All-Star game and two World Series games in '47. Then his arm went bad, and he put in stints at Newark and Kansas City with the Yank brass hoping at the start of each year that his stuff would return.

It never has, and unless he shows something this year—not only to Stengel but to himself as well—it's the end of the road for him.

Stengel tossed Shea in against the St. Louis Cardinals in an exhibition game yesterday, and, although you hardly could call it a thorough test, he did hurl three hitless innings, a feat which pleased the professor no end, even though the Yanks went down to a 2-1 defeat.

Eddie Lopat, a 20-game winner last year, gave up one Card run, but Art Snallock, a lefthander, was charged with the defeat, yielding the winning tally in the eighth inning. Enos Slaughter was up to his old tricks. He bopped in the first Redbird marker and scored the second.

Red Sox Thrashed

If the Yanks got some good news out of Shea's performance, the Boston Red Sox, who haven't been installed as favorites for the American League pennant for a change, had little to crow about. With new manager Lou Beaudreau trying to get all gears meshing, the Red Sox took a shellacking from the Philadelphia Phillies, 13-4.

Not only did the Phils slap the offerings of Rookie Jim Hisner for three runs, but they teed off on veterans Ray Scarborough for four and Walter Masterson for six. Most of the players in the Sox line-up were youngsters, and they couldn't do much against Bubba Church and Jim Konstanty.

The Cleveland Indians, who very well might wind up in the American League favorite's post, hung a 5-4 defeat on the National League champion New York Giants.

Maglie Beaten

Sal Maglie, who won for the Durochermen last year, was the victim of the Indian bats. He gave up two runs in the seventh inning. They broke a 3-3 tie. Jim Hearn and Larry Jansen, the other members of the Giants' Big Three, hurled creditably. Lou Brissie, who worked three innings for the Indians, was the winner.

The Boston Braves polished off the Brooklyn Dodgers for the second time in a row, 6-2. A three-run home run by Sid Gordon off Johnny Schmitz in the seventh made things easy for the winners. John Podres and Ben Wade, a couple of rookies who are expected to stick, worked for the Brooks.

The St. Louis Browns swamped the Pittsburgh Pirates, 11-5, collecting six runs in the first inning off rookie hurler Ken Barbao. The Philadelphia A's defeated the Washington Senators, 4-2, on a two-aboard homer by Pete Suder in the second inning.

The Chicago White Sox nipped the Chicago Cubs, 3-2; the Cincinnati Reds edged the Detroit Tigers, 1-0, and the Phillies "B" squad thrashed the Reds' second-stringers, 12-5, in other exhibitions.

Potter Brothers moved into the driver's seat in the torrid YMCA "A" League race Saturday by thumping Hercules, 59-51, in the first of a series of late-season "crucials."

The win put the Potters a game ahead of the Powdermen and Wiltwyck Motors. Their lost column margin is only one length.

Get Fast Start

Flashing team balance rather than individual exploits, Potters were in command all the way against Hercules Saturday night. They jumped off to a 15-8 quarter margin and led 29-23 at the half.

Big Jack Doyle led with 10 points and George Glaser and Bill Tierney nine. George Magley, "Champ" Holstein and R. Gilman each hooped seven. Tierney did a nice job of snaring rebounds and setting up baskets.

Tom Morrissey paced the Powdermen with 16 points on eight buckets.

Golden Gloves Start March 18

The Adirondack AAU Golden Gloves tourney committee will meet tonight in the Albany Elks Club to complete plans for the title meet scheduled for Odd Fellows Hall, March 18 and 19. The meeting is scheduled for 8 p. m.

Two more outstanding entries were received for the two-day tourney over the weekend—Ken House, 175 pound open champion from Amsterdam and Jim Voss of Utica, who will try for honors in the 160-open class.

House was a surprise title winner last year after a highly impressive performance. Voss is one of the topnotchers on the strong team of Utica area boxers being prepared by Don Dero and Bushy Graham, veteran handlers.

Judging from the entries being received by Ben Becker and Mike Viglucci, co-chairman of the committee staging the event for the Albany Club, this year's meet will draw a banner list of mittslingers from the 26 counties in the Adirondack AAU district.

SPORTS

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Freeman Sports Editor

Coach Eddie Melvin of St. Bonaventure makes the flat-footed prediction that Ronnie Scheffel will be first string at North Carolina State next season.

"Scheffel would have been a definite starter with us this season," the mild-mannered Bonnie basketball coach told Al DeSantis, of Schenectady and the writer last week at Albany.

Shades of the DUSO League! Ronnie Scheffel and Dashin' Dick Tyler at the forward slots for North Carolina State, basketball foundry of the nation, way down south there.

• Flotsam and Jetsam:

The "Dan" who postcarded from Miami Beach obviously wasn't Dan Shufeldt as chronicled here some time ago. The young lad who set those bowling records this week was Grant and not George Stoutenburgh. The proposal to grant Newburgh's Recreation field exclusively to the PONY baseball movement has stirred a lively rhubarb in the Hill City. "Bo" Gill, who is "all for the kids," opposes professional sports of all types unless it's By and FOR Newburgh. This corner is neutral on that score but it seems to us that if promoters are willing to invest in semi-pro operations they should be given a chance. We haven't heard of anyone making money from that type of ball since the second war. Furthermore, we're all for Little League, PONY League and American Legion baseball, but once in a while we like to watch some adult baseball. There must be a few others in that category.

Are Clarence Rowland and Dick McCarthy hatching an important sports announcement?

The tall, angular, greying gentleman at the Siena-Bonnie game was Carl "Dutch" Ruge, the ageless Rhinebeck twirler who works in the Internal Revenue department at Albany. Ruge, fabulous twirler of the Freddie Dahn Poughkeepsie All Star era, was on hand to do some personal rooting for Tom Pottenbergh, home town lad who is making the grade with the Indians. He didn't remember us, with the extra 40 pounds or so, but he said to remind Tommy Davitt, Joe Hoffman, Pres Knight, John McCardle and the others that he still fires that apple. "Nothing serious these days," said Dutch, "but I still like to get out once in a while Buck Gros, of Millbrook, one of the area's top second basemen in his day and now a topflight basketball official, eulogized Ruge succinctly the other night. "He threw a ball that looked like a melon when it came toward the plate," Buck recalled, "but if you didn't get a piece of it properly it exploded like a marshmallow."

• Bob Feller and His Biggest Thrill:

Robert Williams Andrew Feller has struck out 2388 American League batters.

Bob Feller has faned 16, 17 and 18 at a rattle, that is in nine innings, 348 in a season. Cleveland's great right-hander has pitched three no-hitters, 10 one-hitters. In six campaigns, he has won from 20 to 27.

So you ask Feller what was his biggest thrill and disappointment.

Regarding the pulse-quickener, Feller, now 33, says:

"Well, it could have been the no-hitter at Yankee Stadium, April 30, 1946, but it wasn't.

"My biggest thrill came when I came out of the Navy in late August 1945, after 44½ months, and beat Hal Newhouser and the Tigers, 4-2, striking out 12.

"That proved I could pitch again.

"The biggest disappointment? That's easy, too. It came when Johnny Sain beat me, 1-0, in the World Series game at Braves Field in 1948. The Indians had men on second or third five times, yet failed to score."

Feller says Joe DiMaggio was the best all-round ball player he ever saw, but, like everybody else, goes back to Rogers Hornsby as the top right-hand batter.

The only difference in the game, he says, is the shortage of good young players. This he attributes to the military situation.

Those merry madcaps of the grunt and groan industry return to Kingston next Saturday under the promotional aegis of Ted Bayly of Troy. We haven't seen him but judging from telephone requests for tickets this Verne Gagne must be quite a showman. He entranced local addicts on the Chicago TV bouts last Saturday night.

NBA Races Coming Down to the Wire

(By The Associated Press)

The National Basketball Association enters the final week of its regular season today with only a game and a half separating the two top teams in both the Western and Eastern divisions.

Minneapolis' Lakers personally took charge of their Western division duel with pace-setting Rochester last night, defeating the Royals, 96-90, as Big Jim Pollard tossed in 32 points and Verne Mikkelsen added 25 more. George Mikan scored only nine as he turned his talents to play-making and let his mates do most of the shooting. Arnie Risen led the Royals with 28.

Both of the leaders won in the Eastern division. The leading Syracuse Nats easily defeated the Philadelphia Warriors, 99-82, while Boston's runnerup Celtics turned back Baltimore, 89-72, in an afternoon game.

SPORTS

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Freeman Sports Editor

Coach Eddie Melvin of St. Bonaventure makes the flat-footed prediction that Ronnie Scheffel will be first string at North Carolina State next season.

"Scheffel would have been a definite starter with us this season," the mild-mannered Bonnie basketball coach told Al DeSantis, of Schenectady and the writer last week at Albany.

Shades of the DUSO League! Ronnie Scheffel and Dashin' Dick Tyler at the forward slots for North Carolina State, basketball foundry of the nation, way down south there.

• Flotsam and Jetsam:

The "Dan" who postcarded from Miami Beach obviously wasn't Dan Shufeldt as chronicled here some time ago. The young lad who set those bowling records this week was Grant and not George Stoutenburgh. The proposal to grant Newburgh's Recreation field exclusively to the PONY baseball movement has stirred a lively rhubarb in the Hill City. "Bo" Gill, who is "all for the kids," opposes professional sports of all types unless it's By and FOR Newburgh. This corner is neutral on that score but it seems to us that if promoters are willing to invest in semi-pro operations they should be given a chance. We haven't heard of anyone making money from that type of ball since the second war. Furthermore, we're all for Little League, PONY League and American Legion baseball, but once in a while we like to watch some adult baseball. There must be a few others in that category.

Are Clarence Rowland and Dick McCarthy hatching an important sports announcement?

The tall, angular, greying gentleman at the Siena-Bonnie game was Carl "Dutch" Ruge, the ageless Rhinebeck twirler who works in the Internal Revenue department at Albany. Ruge, fabulous twirler of the Freddie Dahn Poughkeepsie All Star era, was on hand to do some personal rooting for Tom Pottenbergh, home town lad who is making the grade with the Indians. He didn't remember us, with the extra 40 pounds or so, but he said to remind Tommy Davitt, Joe Hoffman, Pres Knight, John McCardle and the others that he still fires that apple. "Nothing serious these days," said Dutch, "but I still like to get out once in a while Buck Gros, of Millbrook, one of the area's top second basemen in his day and now a topflight basketball official, eulogized Ruge succinctly the other night. "He threw a ball that looked like a melon when it came toward the plate," Buck recalled, "but if you didn't get a piece of it properly it exploded like a marshmallow."

• Bob Feller and His Biggest Thrill:

Robert Williams Andrew Feller has struck out 2388 American League batters.

Bob Feller has faned 16, 17 and 18 at a rattle, that is in nine innings, 348 in a season. Cleveland's great right-hander has pitched three no-hitters, 10 one-hitters. In six campaigns, he has won from 20 to 27.

So you ask Feller what was his biggest thrill and disappointment.

Regarding the pulse-quickener, Feller, now 33, says:

"Well, it could have been the no-hitter at Yankee Stadium, April 30, 1946, but it wasn't.

"My biggest thrill came when I came out of the Navy in late August 1945, after 44½ months, and beat Hal Newhouser and the Tigers, 4-2, striking out 12.

"That proved I could pitch again.

"The biggest disappointment? That's easy, too. It came when Johnny Sain beat me, 1-0, in the World Series game at Braves Field in 1948. The Indians had men on second or third five times, yet failed to score."

Feller says Joe DiMaggio was the best all-round ball player he ever saw, but, like everybody else, goes back to Rogers Hornsby as the top right-hand batter.

The only difference in the game, he says, is the shortage of good young players. This he attributes to the military situation.

Those merry madcaps of the grunt and groan industry return to Kingston next Saturday under the promotional aegis of Ted Bayly of Troy. We haven't seen him but judging from telephone requests for tickets this Verne Gagne must be quite a showman. He entranced local addicts on the Chicago TV bouts last Saturday night.

Here is "Silver," the family dog of the Brown family of Hurley. "Silver enlisted and was trained by the Coast Guard and served throughout the war in a distinguished manner in Japan. The dog was awarded a Certificate of Merit from the U. S. Coast Guard.

Mrs. Brown of Hurley Tells Why

Tennessee, died from the burns. Robert Brown had presence of mind to grab his jacket and cover himself and roll upon the ground until the flames were extinguished.

Badly burned about the body and legs he was given nine pints of plasma on the spot, even though it was a most isolated place in the jungle. Suffering from shock, the prompt availability of the life giving plasma saved his life. Later he was moved to an advanced medical station where through the Red Cross blood program an additional supply of plasma was available. There he was given an additional 12 pints of plasma over a period of time until he has recovered sufficiently to be returned to the United States after three months treatment abroad. He was sent to Fort Dix Hospital where he spent a long time recuperating.

Although Bob's clothing was burned completely from the lower portions of his body and extreme skin grafting had to be resorted to, he survived the ordeal due to the prompt use of plasma. His feet were so badly burned it was necessary to cut away his shoes.

Another service which the Brown family is very grateful for was the Red Cross program of seeing that wounded men, no matter how isolated their station might be, were remembered at Christmas. Being at an isolated station in New Guinea at Christmas time, the usual package from home did not arrive. However on Christmas morning he and other service men at the post were given a Red Cross "stocking" filled with Christmas cheer when they awakened on Christmas morning.

"After all that we just can't forget Red Cross," said Mrs. Brown.

Dog Awarded Certificate

In addition to a son and daughter in service during the war the Brown family dog "Silver" was also enlisted and was awarded a Certificate of Merit from the U. S. Coast Guard for services rendered in Japan. Silver, a police dog, was trained by the Coast Guard and served throughout the war in a distinguished manner in Japan. At the close of the war efforts were made to "detrain" Silver but he had learned his training course so well that he continued to be a "one man dog," answerable only to the man who had trained him. It was necessary to "euthanasia" Silver at the close of the war and a certificate of merit was forwarded to the family on which is inscribed the fact that the dog died in the service of the United States of America. Enclosed with the certificate was a picture of the dog taken while in service.

LEGAL NOTICES

AN ORDINANCE ESTABLISHING A TRAFFIC VIOLATIONS BUREAU IN THE CITY OF KINGSTON, NEW YORK, IN ACCORDANCE WITH ARTICLE 14-B OF THE GENERAL MUNICIPAL LAW.

THE CITY OF KINGSTON, in Common Council convened, ordains as follows:

Section 1. The Judge of the City Court of the City of Kingston, N. Y., shall establish a Traffic Violations Bureau to assist the Court in the disposition of offenses in relation to traffic violations. The Bureau shall be in charge of such person or persons and shall be open at such hours as the Judge of the City Court may designate.

Section 2. The Traffic Violations Bureau so established is authorized to dispose of violations of traffic laws, ordinances, rules and regulations when such offenses shall not constitute the traffic infraction known as speeding or a misdemeanor or felony.

Section 3. The Judge of the City Court of the City of Kingston, New York, shall designate the fines to be paid for the first, second and third offenses which may be satisfied at the Traffic Violations Bureau as provided in this ordinance, provided these fines are within the limits established as penalties for violations of the traffic law, ordinances, rules and regulations.

Section 4. Any person having been guilty of three or more violations of the provisions of the traffic laws, ordinances, rules and regulations, within the preceding twelve months shall not be permitted to pay a fine at the Traffic Violations Bureau, but must deposit cash bail, equivalent to double the prescribed fine, for appearance in Court at a time specified by the Traffic Violations Bureau.

Section 5. A person who has received a notice as provided in this ordinance may, within the time specified in said notice, answer at the Traffic Violations Bureau to the charges set forth in such notice, either in person or by written power of attorney, by paying a prescribed fine and, in writing, waiving a hearing in court, pleading guilty to the charge and giving a power of attorney to the person in charge of the bureau to make such a plea and to pay such a fine in court. Acceptance of the prescribed fine and power of attorney by the Traffic Violations Bureau shall be deemed complete satisfaction for the violation, and the violator shall be given a receipt which so states.

Section 6. The duties of the Traffic Violations Bureau shall be as follows:

(A) It shall accept designated fines, issue receipts and represent in court such violators as are permitted to plead guilty in accordance with this ordinance and who desire to so plead guilty, waive a court appearance and give a power of attorney.

(B) It shall receive and issue receipts for cash bail from all persons who must, or who wish to be heard in court, enter the time of their appearance on the court docket and notify the arresting officer and witnesses, if any, to be present.

(C) It shall keep an easily accessible record of all violations of which each person has been guilty during the preceding twelve months whether such guilt was established in court or in the Traffic Violations Bureau.

(D) If a violator of the traffic laws, ordinances, rules or regulations does not appear and answer in response to a notice as provided in this ordinance, the Traffic Violations Bureau shall send to the owner of the motor vehicle to which the notice was affixed a letter warning him that he will be held responsible for the appearance of the offender and that in the event such letter is disregarded for a period of two days a complaint will be filed and a warrant of arrest issued.

(E) In the event that any person fails to comply with a Notice as provided in this ordinance or fails to make appearance pursuant to a summons directing an appearance in the Traffic Violations Bureau, or if any person fails or refuses to deposit bail as provided by this ordinance, the Traffic Violations Bureau shall forthwith have a complaint entered against such person and secure and issue a warrant for his arrest. The Traffic Violations Bureau shall not accept any fines or bail for such person, but shall consider every such person entirely under the jurisdiction of the Court.

(F) The Traffic Violations Bureau shall keep records and submit summarized monthly reports to the Judge of the City Court of the City of Kingston, the City Treasurer and the Chief of Police of all notices issued and arrests made for violations of the traffic laws, ordinances, rules and regulations, and of all the fines collected by the Traffic Violations Bureau and of the final disposition or present status of every case of violation of the provisions of the traffic laws, ordinances, rules and regulations. These reports shall be public records.

(G) The Traffic Violations Bureau shall perform such other or additional duties and keep such other and additional records as shall be prescribed by the Judge of the City Court of the City of Kingston.

Section 7. The City Treasurer shall provide, in triplicate, suitable serially numbered forms for notifying violators to appear and answer to charges of violating the provisions of the traffic laws, ordinances, rules and regulations. Such forms shall be issued to and receipted for by the Chief of Police or other person acting for him. The City Treasurer shall report each month to the Judge of the City Court of the City of Kingston the disposal and accounting made by the police of all serially numbered forms issued to them. For this purpose the City Treasurer or his representative shall have access to the necessary records of the Police Department and Traffic Violations Bureau. These reports shall be public records.

Section 8. Nothing contained in this ordinance shall authorize the Traffic Violations Bureau to deprive a person of his right to counsel or to prevent him from exercising his right to appear in court to answer to, explain or defend any charge of a violation of any traffic law, ordinance, rule or regulation.

Section 9. All fines or forfeitures collected upon conviction or plea of guilty or upon the forfeiture of bail of any person charged with a violation of any traffic law, ordinance, rule or regulation of the City of Kingston shall be paid to the City Treasurer as prescribed by the Charter and City Court Act of the City of Kingston.

Last Semi-Finals Audition Tonight

About 35 Acts Will Be Scheduled at High School Auditorium

The third and last Kingston semi-finals audition in the Ulster County Talent Quest will take place at 8 o'clock, tonight in the Kingston High School auditorium. About 35 acts of amateur talent are scheduled to appear from which four will be picked for the final auditions on April 2nd, by representatives of the staff of Ted Mack's Original Amateur Hour.

The previous two Kingston semi-final auditions proved to be very popular and a great deal of interest is being shown in the third. Howard C. St. John, chairman of the committee in charge of this program for the Kingston Chamber of Commerce, stated that a still wider variety of talent will be presented tonight. Several outstanding performers and groups of performers are scheduled. The public is invited, but an admission charge is made to cover necessary expenses.

Semi-final auditions are also scheduled in Ellenville and Rosendale. About 30 acts of the best amateur talent to be found in Ulster county will then have the privilege of being auditioned for possible appearance on the national television and radio network shows of the Original Amateur Hour.

Touch of Magic

port from Albany indicates the governor will grant the request—because it was made by Wicks.

"The word from Albany is that Wicks will get the green light because Dewey is extremely eager to hold the influential Kingston senator in line for General Eisenhower's presidential candidacy. The increasing talk that Wicks has been swinging toward Senator Taft's camp makes it imperative to keep him buttered-up.

Capital observers figure it this way:

"Wicks knows Dewey has lost control of the state machine and will not run again. Dewey's friends would like to see Lt. Gov. Frank Moore succeed him, but they feel Wicks also has an inclination for the governor's chair. So special measures must be used if Wicks and his numerous friends are to be kept from bolting to Taft."

The name with a "down-pull" Crosson said, is Gulick, and it is one with "reverse political glamor." It has been shared up to now by Miss Eunice Gulick, assistant to Bronx Borough President James J. Lyons, and Dr. Luther H. Gulick, executive director of the Mayor's Committee on Management Survey—not related to Eunice.

Crosson explained: "The sprightly Miss Gulick never had a complaint about her name, she says, until Dr. Gulick and his experts began vigorously prying into the city government structure seeking to promote efficiency, econmy and various reclassifications. Then Eunice began getting phone calls from angry city employes who confused her with the Gulick committee."

The calls became so numerous and abusive that she finally decided to become known as Eunice Allen, Crosson said.

Directors to Meet

The directors of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce will have an unusually important meeting Tuesday. In making this announcement today, President Lawrence J. MacAvery asked that all directors attend the meeting at 7:30 p. m., in the Governor Clinton Hotel, because several important items are on the agenda.

Kingston School Teachers Approved

At the recent meeting of the Kingston Board of Education, 13 teachers who have completed one year of satisfactory probationary service were recommended for re-employment as members of the Kingston school teaching staff as per salary schedule. The motion for employment of these teachers was made by Trustee Baltz of the Teachers' Committee, as was a motion for re-employment of 16 teachers who have completed two years' probationary service and 19 who have completed three years probationary service and are eligible for tenure.

Those who have completed one year probationary period and were recommended for re-employment are:

Michael M. Aronica, Joseph N. Boswell, Dolores M. Filardi, Mary L. Karl, Mary M. Leach, Elizabeth R. Leonard, Jean M. McCorkle, Helen F. Martin, Alvin Most, Ruth M. Murtha, Patricia L. Nalton, Sheffield T. Nasser and Guido Zambernardi.

Those recommended for re-employment after two years service are:

Shirley F. Allen, Ethel Beatty, Margaret Branigan, Dorothy N. Buehring, Muriel Ferraro, John J. Gilligan, Ruth C. Grant, Erika Krien, Mary O. Lane, Victor Mahoney, William Scafildi, Dorothy Smith, Collette M. Sonnenberg, Ruth VanOrden, Adelaide Van Wagenen, Hilda B. Yerry.

Those recommended for tenure after three years probationary period are:

Alexander J. Banyo, Maude M. Bunting, Florence B. Christiana, Alice M. Cross, Frieda H. Dingee, Anne R. Donovan, George Dranchak, Harry T. Gumaer, Margaret H. Kenny, Jeanette R. Kernochan, Mildred Kirshenblum, John H. Martin, Richard H. Mason, Thelma I. Metzger, Alphonsine C. Meyer, Lawrence T. Plog, William R. Reardon, Warren A. Russell, Edna V. Simmons.

The superintendent was authorized by the board to issue the teacher salary notices for the school year 1952-53 according to the salary schedule. This generally places teachers on the "eleventh step" and grants a $150 increment.

Red Threats Will

He said the next move is up to the Reds.

Another group of truce negotiators debating truce supervision met only long enough to agree to meet again Tuesday. They adjourned after only six minutes—four minutes more than Sunday's two-minute session which set a record for brevity.

Intimidation Seen

"We cannot envisage that your threats of the past two days have any other purposes than to attempt to intimidate us," said Libby.

"You denied that you hold in Korea any more than 11,500 prisoners whose names you gave us," the admiral continued. "You denied that you ever held any of our captured presonnel outside Korea. * * * we have evidence which clearly convicts on both counts."

Last week the UN command accused the Communists of secretly imprisoning captured soldiers, including Americans, in Red China. A spokesman quoted a Chinese prisoner as saying he saw about 1,000 men at a processing center near Harbin, in central Manchuria.

Brig. Gen. William P. Nuckols, UN spokesman, said there was no way of knowing whether these men were among those whose names failed to appear on the Reds' official prisoner roster.

Last week the Reds were asked to account for another 173 UN prisoners identified through Communist broadcasts, letters to relatives or other sources. The Communists have been accused of failing to account for more than 50,000 allied prisoners, most of them South Koreans.

Libby also flatly denied Red charges that UN-held prisoners are mistreated.

"We have not attempted to influence the POW's in our custody. We have no intention of resorting to any methods of political indoctrination and intimidation."

"The sole responsibility for delay in the meeting has been the refusal of your side to negotiate," Libby said.

Boron is the principal ingredient in boric acid.

Eisenhower's Political Future

general, indicating each apparently will get about 41 per cent of the GOP vote, with the remainder scattered between MacArthur and Stassen. His poitical lieutenants claim more than that.

Eisenhower's organization predicts a "substantial margin" of victory, but one of his most influential backers, Rep. Cotton, of New Hampshire, conceded in a radio program that "the Taft forces have made great headway."

The election is supremely important to the Eisenhower movement nationally. Some observers in fact, believe a defeat for him in New Hampshire — in is first test, and on grounds presumably favorable to him—could completely cripple his chances to win the Republican nomination.

This primary permits people to vote, not only for delegates, but directly for presidential candidates. It is, in effect, a legalized straw vote. It should give a gauge of Eisenhower's "grass roots" popularity and at the same time throw some light on Taft's vote-getting ability.

One of the major arguments against Taft, during the campaign, has been his opponents' assertion that, "if he's nominated, he can't win the election."

Here is "Silver," the family dog of the Brown family of Hurley. "Silver enlisted and was trained by the Coast Guard and served throughout the war in a distinguished manner in Japan. The dog was awarded a Certificate of Merit from the U. S. Coast Guard.

Mrs. Brown of Hurley Tells Why

Tennessee, died from the burns. Robert Brown had presence of mind to grab his jacket and cover himself and roll upon the ground until the flames were extinguished.

Badly burned about the body and legs he was given nine pints of plasma on the spot, even though it was a most isolated place in the jungle. Suffering from shock, the prompt availability of the life giving plasma saved his life. Later he was moved to an advanced medical station where through the Red Cross blood program an additional supply of plasma was available. There he was given an additional 12 pints of plasma over a period of time until he has recovered sufficiently to be returned to the United States after three months treatment abroad. He was sent to Fort Dix Hospital where he spent a long time recuperating.

Had not the supply of plasma been available in New Guinea through the Red Cross blood campaign, the critically injured soldier would have died.

Although Bob's clothing was burned completely from the lower portions of his body and extreme skin grafting had to be resorted to, he survived the ordeal due to the prompt use of plasma. His feet were so badly burned it was necessary to cut away his shoes.

Another service which the Brown family is very grateful for was the Red Cross program of seeing that wounded men, no matter how isolated their station might be, were remembered at Christmas. Being at an isolated station in New Guinea at Christmas time, the usual package from home did not arrive. However on Christmas morning he and other service men at the post were given a Red Cross "stocking" filled with Christmas cheer when they awakened on Christmas morning.

"After all that we just can't forget Red Cross," said Mrs. Brown.

Dog Awarded Certificate

In addition to a son and daughter in service during the war the Brown family dog "Silver" was also enlisted and was awarded a Certificate of Merit from the U. S. Coast Guard for services rendered in Japan. Silver, a police dog, was trained by the Coast Guard and served throughout the war in a distinguished manner in Japan. At the close of the war efforts were made to "detrain" Silver but he had learned his training course so well that he continued to be a "one man dog," answerable only to the man who had trained him. It was necessary to "euthanasia" Silver at the close of the war and a certificate of merit was forwarded to the family on which is inscribed the fact that the dog died in the service of the United States of America. Enclosed with the certificate was a picture of the dog taken while in service.

AN ORDINANCE ESTABLISHING A TRAFFIC VIOLATIONS BUREAU IN THE CITY OF KINGSTON, NEW YORK, IN ACCORDANCE WITH ARTICLE 14-B OF THE GENERAL MUNICIPAL LAW

THE CITY OF KINGSTON, in Common Council convened, ordains as follows:

Section 1. The Judge of the City Court of the City of Kingston, N. Y., shall establish a Traffic Violations Bureau to assist the Court in the disposition of offenses in relation to traffic violations. The Bureau shall be in charge of such person or persons and shall be open at such hours as the Judge of the City Court may designate.

Section 2. The Traffic Violations Bureau so established is authorized to dispose of violations of traffic laws, ordinances, rules and regulations when such offenses shall not constitute the traffic infraction known as speeding or a misdemeanor or felony.

Section 3. The Judge of the City Court of the City of Kingston, New York, shall designate the fines to be paid for the first, second and third offenses which may be satisfied at the Traffic Violations Bureau as provided in this ordinance, provided these fines are within the limits established as penalties for violations of the traffic law, ordinances, rules and regulations.

Section 4. Any person having been guilty of three or more violations of the provisions of the traffic laws, ordinances, rules and regulations, within the preceding twelve months shall not be permitted to pay a fine at the Traffic Violations Bureau, but must deposit cash bail, equivalent to double the prescribed fine, for appearance in Court at a time specified by the Traffic Violations Bureau.

Section 5. A person who has received a notice as provided in this ordinance may, within the time specified in said notice, answer at the Traffic Violations Bureau to the charges set forth in such notice, either in person or by written power of attorney, by paying a prescribed fine and, in writing, waiving a hearing in court, pleading guilty to the charge and giving a power of attorney to the person in charge of the bureau to make such a plea and to pay such a fine in court. Acceptance of the prescribed fine and power of attorney by the Traffic Violations Bureau shall be deemed complete satisfaction for the violation, and the violator shall be given a receipt which so states.

Section 6. The duties of the Traffic Violations Bureau shall be as follows:

(A) It shall accept designated fines, issue receipts and represent in court such violators as are permitted to plead guilty in accordance with this ordinance and who desire to so plead guilty, waive a court appearance and give a power of attorney.

(B) It shall receive and issue receipts for cash bail from all persons who must, or who wish to be heard in court, enter the time of their appearance on the court docket and notify the arresting officer and witnesses, if any, to be present.

(C) It shall keep an easily accessible record of all violations of which each person has been guilty during the preceding twelve months whether such guilt was established in court or in the Traffic Violations Bureau.

(D) If a violator of the traffic laws, ordinances, rules or regulations does not appear and answer in response to a notice as provided in this ordinance, the Traffic Violations Bureau shall send to the owner of the motor vehicle to which the notice was affixed a letter warning him that he will be held responsible for the appearance of the offender and that in the event such letter is disregarded for a period of two days a complaint will be filed and a warrant of arrest issued.

(E) In the event that any person fails to comply with a Notice as provided in this ordinance or fails to make appearance pursuant to a summons directing an appearance in the Traffic Violations Bureau, or if any person fails or refuses to deposit bail as provided by this ordinance, the Traffic Violations Bureau shall forthwith have a complaint entered against such person and secure and issue a warrant for his arrest. The Traffic Violations Bureau shall not accept any fines or bail for such person, but shall consider every such person entirely under the jurisdiction of the Court.

(F) The Traffic Violations Bureau shall keep records and submit summarized monthly reports to the Judge of the City Court of the City of Kingston, the City Treasurer and the Chief of Police of all notices issued and arrests made for violations of the traffic laws, ordinances, rules and regulations, and of all the fines collected by the Traffic Violations Bureau and of the final disposition or present status of every case of violation of the provisions of the traffic laws, ordinances, rules and regulations. These reports shall be public records.

(G) The Traffic Violations Bureau shall perform such other or additional duties and keep such other and additional records as shall be prescribed by the Judge of the City Court of the City of Kingston.

Section 7. The City Treasurer shall provide, in triplicate, suitable serially numbered forms for notifying violators to appear and answer to charges of violating the provisions of the traffic laws, ordinances, rules and regulations. Such forms shall be issued to and receipted for by the Chief of Police or other person acting for him. The City Treasurer shall report each month to the Judge of the City Court of the City of Kingston the disposal and accounting made by the police of all serially numbered forms issued to them. For this purpose the City Treasurer or his representative shall have access to the necessary records of the Police Department and Traffic Violations Bureau. These reports shall be public records.

Section 8. Nothing contained in this ordinance shall authorize the Traffic Violations Bureau to deprive a person of his right to counsel or to prevent him from exercising his right to appear in court to answer to, explain or defend any charge of a violation of any traffic law, ordinance, rule or regulation.

Section 9. All fines or forfeitures collected upon conviction or plea of guilty or upon the forfeiture of bail of any person charged with a violation of any traffic law, ordinance, rule or regulations of the City of Kingston shall be paid to the City Treasurer as prescribed by the Charter and City Court Act of the City of Kingston.

Last Semi-Finals Audition Tonight

About 35 Acts Will Be Scheduled at High School Auditorium

The third and last Kingston semi-finals audition in the Ulster County Talent Quest will take place at 8 o'clock, tonight in the Kingston High School auditorium. About 35 acts of amateur talent are scheduled to appear from which four will be picked for the final auditions on April 2nd, by representatives of the staff of Ted Mack's Original Amateur Hour.

The previous two Kingston semi-final auditions proved to be very popular and a great deal of interest is being shown in the third. Howard C. St. John, chairman of the committee in charge of this program for the Kingston Chamber of Commerce, stated that a still wider variety of talent will be presented tonight. Several outstanding performers and groups of performers are scheduled. The public is invited, but an admission charge is made to cover necessary expenses.

Semi-final auditions are also scheduled in Ellenville and Rosendale. About 30 acts of the best amateur talent to be found in Ulster county will then have the privilege of being auditioned for possible appearance on the national television and radio network shows of the Original Amateur Hour.

Touch of Magic

port from Albany indicates the governor will grant the request—because it was made by Wicks.

"The word from Albany is that Wicks will get the green light because Dewey is extremely eager to hold the influential Kingston senator in line for General Eisenhower's presidential candidacy. The increasing talk that Wicks has been swinging toward Senator Taft's camp makes it imperative to keep him buttered-up.

Capital observers figure it this way:

"Wicks knows Dewey has lost control of the state machine and will not run again. Dewey's friends would like to see Lt. Gov. Frank Moore succeed him, but they feel Wicks also has an inclination for the governor's chair. So special measures must be used if Wicks and his numerous friends are to be kept from bolting to Taft."

The name with a "down-pull" Crosson said, is Gulick, and it is one with "reverse political glamor." It has been shared up to now by Miss Eunice Gulick, assistant to Bronx Borough President James J. Lyons, and Dr. Luther H. Gulick, executive director of the Mayor's Committee on Management Survey—not related to Eunice.

Crosson explained: "The sprightly Miss Gulick never had a complaint about her name, she says, until Dr. Gulick and his experts began vigorously prying into the city government structure seeking to promote efficiency, econmy and various reclassifications. Then Eunice began getting phone calls from angry city employes who confused her with the Gulick committee."

The calls became so numerous and abusive that she finally decided to become known as Eunice Allen Crosson said.

Directors to Meet

The directors of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce will have an unusually important meeting Tuesday. In making this announcement today, President Lawrence J. MacAvery asked that all directors attend the meeting at 7:30 p. m., in the Governor Clinton Hotel, because several important items are on the agenda.

Kingston School Teachers Approved

At the recent meeting of the Kingston Board of Education, 13 teachers who have completed one year of satisfactory probationary service were recommended for re-employment as members of the Kingston school teaching staff as per salary schedule. The motion for employment of these teachers was made by Trustee Baltz of the Teachers' Committee, as was a motion for re-employment of 16 teachers who have completed two years' probationary service and 19 who have completed three years probationary service and are eligible for tenure.

Those who have completed one year probationary period and were recommended for re-employment are:

Michael M. Aronica, Joseph N. Boswell, Dolores M. Filardi, Mary L. Karl, Mary M. Leach, Elizabeth R. Leonard, Jean M. McCorkle, Helen F. Martin, Alvin Most, Ruth M. Murtha, Patricia L. Nalton, Sheffield T. Nasser and Guido Zambernardi.

Those recommended for re-employment after two years service are:

Shirley F. Allen, Ethel Beatty, Margaret Branigan, Dorothy N. Buehring, Muriel Ferraro, John J. Gilligan, Ruth C. Grant, Erika Krien, Mary O. Lane, Victor Mahoney, William Scafildi, Dorothy Smith, Collette M. Sonnenberg, Ruth VanOrden, Adelaide Van Wagenen, Hilda B. Yerry.

Those recommended for tenure after three years probationary period are:

Alexander J. Banyo, Maude M. Bunting, Florence B. Christiana, Alice M. Cross, Frieda H. Dingee, Anne R. Donovan, George Dranchak, Harry T. Gumaer, Margaret H. Kenny, Jeanette R. Kernochan, Mildred Kirshenblum, John H. Martin, Richard H. Mason, Thelma I. Metzger, Alphonsine C. Meyer, Lawrence T. Plog, William R. Reardon, Warren A. Russell, Edna V. Simmons.

The superintendent was authorized by the board to issue the teacher salary notices for the school year 1952-53 according to the salary schedule. This generally places teachers on the "eleventh step" and grants a $150 increment.

Red Threats Will

negotiations, now entering the ninth month.

He said the next move is up to the Reds.

Another group of truce negotiators debating truce supervision met only long enough to agree to meet again Tuesday. They adjourned after only six minutes—four minutes more than Sunday's two-minute session which set a record for brevity.

Libby's sharp warning followed two days of Communist attacks on allied treatment of captured Communist soldiers.

Intimidation Seen

"We cannot envisage that your threats of the past two days have any other purposes than to attempt to intimidate us," said Libby.

"You denied that you hold in Korea any more than 11,500 prisoners whose names you gave us," the admiral continued. "You denied that you ever held any of our captured presonnel outside Korea. * * * we have evidence which clearly convicts on both counts."

Last week the UN command accused the Communists of secretly imprisoning captured soldiers, including Americans, in Red China. A spokesman quoted a Chinese prisoner as saying he saw about 1,000 men at a processing center near Harbin, in central Manchuria.

Brig. Gen. William P. Nuckols, UN spokesman, said there was no way of knowing whether these men were among those whose names failed to appear on the Reds' official prisoner roster.

Last week the Reds were asked to account for another 173 UN prisoners identified through Communist broadcasts, letters to relatives or other sources. The Communists have been accused of failing to account for more than 50,000 allied prisoners, most of them South Koreans.

Libby also flatly denied Red charges that UN-held prisoners are mistreated.

"We have not attempted to influence the POW's in our custody. We have no intention of resorting to any methods of political indoctrination and intimidation."

"The sole responsibility for delay in the meeting has been the refusal of your side to negotiate," Libby said.

Eisenhower's Political Future

general, indicating each apparently will get about 41 per cent of the GOP vote, with the remainder scattered between MacArthur and Stassen. His poitical lieutenants claim more than that.

Eisenhower's organization predicts a "substantial margin" of victory, but one of his most influential backers, Rep. Cotton, of New Hampshire, conceded in a radio program that "the Taft forces have made great headway."

The election is supremely important to the Eisenhower movement nationally. Some observers in fact, believe a defeat for him in New Hampshire — in is first test, and on grounds presumably favorable to him—could completely cripple his chances to win the Republican nomination.

This primary permits people to vote, not only for delegates, but directly for presidential candidates. It is, in effect, a legalized straw vote. It should give a gauge of Eisenhower's "grass roots" popularity and at the same time throw some light on Taft's vote-getting ability.

One of the major arguments against Taft, during the campaign, has been his opponents' assertion that, "if he's nominated, he can't win the election."

Easter Seal Appeal

Editor, The Freeman.

Two and a half million letters filled with renewed hope for handicapped boys and girls will go into the mails on March 13th for residents of the Empire State. They herald the beginning of the 1952 Easter Seal Appeal.

These letters will contain Easter Seals, a symbol of the helping hand which all of us give to handicapped boys and girls through our contributions to the New York State Association for Crippled Children, who sponsor this appeal.

This helping hand is a prominent part of the 1952 Easter Seal, for it suggests a small boy and girl on crutches, thus symbolizing the help for crippled children by contributions to Easter Seals.

The seal is designed in true Easter colors, green and magenta, and is an inch high and a quarter of an inch wide. It is also the keynote of the Easter Seal Appeal poster which is being used on a state-wide basis to help publicize the campaign. The postor, also in green and magenta, features a small boy coming through a door created by the seal towards health and happiness made possible for him by our support of the association's work.

In this area Easter Seal funds provide help for many with a variety of handicaps — a grant is made by the Easter Seal Society to the Cerebral Palsy Association of the Capital District to help carry on the work in their treatment center, which is affiliated with the Albany Hospital.

Your contributions to the New York State Association for Crippled Children, Inc., also make possible two other services in counties adjacent and contiguous to Albany county — the Cerebral Palsy Treatment Center of the New York Eastern Orthopedic Hospital (Sunnyview), Schenectady — a speech therapist serving Warren, Washington and Saratoga counties, whose headquarters is in a public school in Glens Falls. These are only a few of the services rendered within New York state by the New York Association for Crippled Children, Inc., as a result of the contributions made to it during the Easter Seal Appeal, March 13th to April 13th.

The Easter Seal Society must carry on its program of essential assistance to the handicapped of this tate. To do so it needs your help at Easter time.

Will you open the door to health and happiness by making a contribution to Easter Seals?

This helping hand is a prominent part of the 1952 Easter Seal, for it suggests a small boy and girl on crutches, thus symbolizing the help for crippled children by contributions to Easter Seals.

The seal is designed in true Easter colors, green and magenta, and is an inch high and a quarter of an inch wide. It is also the keynote of the Easter Seal Appeal poster which is being used on a state-wide basis to help publicize the campaign. The postor, also in green and magenta, features a small boy coming through a door created by the seal towards health and happiness made possible for him by our support of the association's work.

In this area Easter Seal funds provide help for many with a variety of handicaps — a grant is made by the Easter Seal Society to the Cerebral Palsy Association of the Capital District to help carry on the work in their treatment center, which is affiliated with the Albany Hospital.

Your contributions to the New York State Association for Crippled Children, Inc., also make possible two other services in counties adjacent and contiguous to Albany county — the Cerebral Palsy Treatment Center of the New York Eastern Orthopedic Hospital (Sunnyview), Schenectady — a speech therapist serving Warren, Washington and Saratoga counties, whose headquarters is in a public school in Glens Falls. These are only a few of the services rendered within New York state by the New York Association for Crippled Children, Inc., as a result of the contributions made to it during the Easter Seal Appeal, March 13th to April 13th.

The Easter Seal Society must carry on its program of essential assistance to the handicapped of this tate. To do so it needs your help at Easter time.

Will you open the door to health and happiness by making a contribution to Easter Seals?
